President Resorting to Expedients to Assure Downward Revision of Tariff with Party Harmony.

HE TALKS WITH CANNON.

Seeks to Modify Regulations of Lower Body of Congress in Order to Get Hides on the Free List.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—President Taft still is resorting to various expedients to obtain downward revision and at the same time to assure practically unanimous Republican backing for the report of the conference committee on the tariff bill.

The president had interviews yesterday and again today with the vice president and Speaker Cannon to see if the rules of the house could not be so modified as to permit a reduction in duties on the finished products of hides. This action is essential if hides are to be transferred to the free list.

Buns Against House Rules.

In his efforts to obtain certain free raw materials and reductions of duties for their finished products, the president has run against the rules of the house. These provide that managers of a conference must confine themselves to differences submitted to them and may not include subjects not within disagreement, even though germane to the question in issue.

This has been interpreted as confining conferees to accepting either a house duty or a senate duty or a rate between the two, if the only difference be that of rate. If an entire paragraph has been rewritten by the senate, then the conferees have the right not only to change the language, but the rate as well.

In case of the finished products of hides, the senate made no sweeping amendments, so that conferees under house rules must confine themselves to arranging an agreement between the rates fixed. If this procedure were not followed a single point of order raised in the house could cause the rejection of the conference report.

Senate Rules More Elastic.

The senate rules, as shown to the president today by the vice president, are much more elastic. They authorize the conferees to include in their report matters which are germane modifications of subjects in disagreement. Under this authority the senate managers may change a paragraph or a whole schedule if they see fit, and in case of any question in the senate a majority vote will sustain their action.

Consequently, so far as the senate is concerned, there was no need for an attempt to change the rules in order for the president to get what he desires.

The house situation has been carefully explained to the president by the speaker, and also was discussed with the vice president. Speaker Cannon is strongly opposed to any attempt to change the rules of his chamber.

In the first place, the rules were adopted at the beginning of the extra session after a bitter fight had been made upon them by the so-called insurgents. To suggest modifications to the speaker was like waving a red rag at a bull. He believes the rules are all right and should stand.

Fears Effect of Modification.

Moreover, to attempt to amend the rules by a resolution authorizing the single reduction of duties on leather goods would, in the speaker's judgment, open the whole tariff bill to amendment by the same method. Chaos, he declared, would be precipitated and no one could know when a bill would be completed and transmitted to the president for signature.

It is probable, consequently, that the rules will be changed. But the president's suggestion, nevertheless, has borne fruit. A way has been found by which a duty below the lowest rates of the house bill and senate amendments on leather products can be secured without the violation of parliamentary procedure.

This contemplates the insertion of a proviso in the paragraph relating to leather and boots and shoes under which a duty below the Dingley rate would be imposed upon products made from hides of cattle.

This proviso was discussed by the president with Senator Warren, who has been the champion of a duty on hides, and now is under consideration by the conferees. It is the belief of the president that if it be adopted, as he expects, one of the knottiest problems which the conference committee has had to consider will be solved.

Raw Material Demand Unchanged.

In spite of reports to the contrary, President Taft's free raw material program has not changed. At this moment, Washington is filled with rumors, usually generated by the numerous lobbyists of the interests, who are fighting for all the protection they can get.

The representatives of these men, some of them holding high public offices, have gone to the president for the purpose of inducing him to modify his expressed wishes. He has listened to them and reiterated his views, but some leave the White house with their opinions of what the president said warped by their own desires.

These twisted presidential utterances are conveyed to conferees who, in some instances, are only too ready to seize upon them as an excuse either for reopening an issue that has been settled or for pressing the adoption of a rate in the fate of which they are particularly concerned. In part, this accounts for some of the numerous conferences between the president and Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne.

It frequently is necessary for the two managers to tell the conferees exactly what the president wants and, in order to dispel any doubt, to be able to say that they have just come from the White house.

Question of Hosiery and Gloves.

This side light on the preparation of the conference report is all the more interesting when it is known that it applies especially to the question of the rates to apply to hosiery and gloves.

Only today a distinguished member of the senate went to the president to urge him to agree to an increase in the duty on these articles above the senate—which is the Dingley—rate, and below the exorbitant increase fixed by the house.

The president listened to him with atten-

ALFONSO AN AID TO COUSIN'S NUPTIALS

King Counseled Secret Wedding of Namesake to Princess Beatrice and Got Church's Sanction.

FURIOUS AT OPPOSITION.

True Story of Romance Wherein Royalty Defied Advisers Told by Disgraced Bridegroom.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, July 23.—King Alfonso's part in the romance of his cousin, Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans, the true story of which came out today, is likely to startle Europe and create a greater sensation than did the wedding and subsequent "degradation" of the prince.

It has been said that the king refused his consent to the marriage of his relative and namesake to the Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg. This, it has just been learned, was directly the opposite to what he did do.

King Alfonso not only favored the match but advised it. He not only advised it but aided and abetted it. Not only did he tell the young couple most interested to go ahead and get married, but he directed his personal influence in obtaining the necessary consent of the church.

Tells Him to Marry Her Anyhow.

The young ruler, when his administrative advisers had said no to the wedding, called his cousin to him and asked the latter what he intended to do about it in the face of governmental opposition. The cousin said he was going to marry the girl, it mattered not what ministers said or did. With this reply the king was highly pleased. He told his cousin to proceed, and that he would do everything he could to help him in the succeeding events.

The king told his cousin to marry the princess secretly and gave him leave of absence for that purpose. Then he intervened by telegraph with the Bamberg ecclesiastical authorities, in whose diocese the marriage took place, to procure a dispensation for it.

This remarkable story was obtained from the prince's own lips by a friend a few days ago in Munich, where the couple are spending their honeymoon.

First Met at King's Wedding.

Prince Alfonso and Princess Beatrice first met on the occasion of King Alfonso's marriage to Princess Ena of Battenberg in 1906. The prince then was only 20 years old, and fell desperately in love with the princess and proposed marriage, but Beatrice refused him permission to correspond with her.

Shortly after this the prince entered the military school at Toledo and subsequently, in 1907, the couple met again at San Sebastian. Both the queen and the queen mother, knowing the prince's infatuation, espoused his cause and sought to induce Beatrice to relent. The princess, however, declared that she never would change her religion, but finally when she said she had no objection to rearing her children as Catholics, the queen mother replied:

"Then there is not the slightest difficulty to the union. I always said that if I had had a second son he should have married a Protestant."

She added that she herself had Protestant ancestors.

Buler Asks Hand for Cousin.

Later at La Granja, King Alfonso formally asked the hand of Princess Beatrice for his cousin, and when Beatrice on that occasion raised the question of religion his majesty said:

"I give you my word of honor there will not be the slightest difficulty."

The prince then again proposed and was accepted, and the couple, who had not yet apprised Beatrice's mother, the duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, with difficulty prevented King Alfonso from officially announcing the engagement.

When he returned to Madrid King Alfonso asked Premier Maura what he thought of the marriage and the premier replied that the marriage of an infante of Spain to a Protestant could not take place on account of the difficulties it would cause the government. King Alfonso was absolutely furious.

Princess Beatrice, because of her friendship for Queen Victoria, said she would give up the prince and King Alfonso summoned the prince to Madrid and asked what it was his intention to do in the matter. The prince replied that he had given his word to make Beatrice his wife and besides his personal feelings would not permit him to retire from the proposed union and that he intended to marry the princess regardless of consequences.

Reply Worthy of a Bourbon.

King Alfonso warmly congratulated the prince on his attitude, saying that his reply was just what he had expected, that it was worthy of a Bourbon, and even if the constitution prevented him from giving official consent to the marriage without the approval of his ministers, he, as Alfonso of Bourbon, would do everything in his power for the couple.

Princess Beatrice then departed from Madrid and Prince Alfonso, upon the advice of the king, went to see Pope Pius and asked for a dispensation for a mixed marriage. The Spanish government, meantime, warned the vatican of the proposed union, and the dispensation neither was granted nor actually refused. After this the couple waited patiently, considering themselves affianced, as also did King Alfonso, who visited Princess Beatrice at Munich last summer.

When the prince graduated from the military school at Toledo July 12 he immediately volunteered to go to the front, as the war in Morocco had broken out. King Alfonso granted the prince a three days' leave of absence before going to Melilla and urged him secretly to marry Princess Beatrice, declaring that he would wire the bishop of Bamberg to grant a dispensation.

Ceremony Occurs at Coburg.

Prince Alfonso arrived in Coburg July 15 and the civil marriage took place that morning. At three o'clock in the afternoon the priest at Coburg received a telegraphic dispensation from the bishop of Bamberg and at 3:50 p. m., the Catholic ceremony was performed. It was not intended that the news of the marriage should be made public, but it was printed in Spain and the royal decree of the degradation of Prince Alfonso followed.

WILL NOT GO WEST.

Mr. J. Raglan Patchmore Remains in City During Harvesting Season.

FARM HANDS ARE WANTED.

Rest Magnate Resolves to Take No Chances.

Mr. J. Raglan Patchmore has decided not to travel in the West this summer. The farmers out there are looking for men to help harvest the crops.

"I don't believe in taking chances," quoth Mr. Patchmore, with grim determination. "Better a year in the Bridewell than a cycle in the hay, as the poet says."

MR. PATCHMORE.

"I judge that you do not love country life, Mr. Patchmore," said the reporter, suavely.

"Ah, you do me wrong," spoke the Rest Magnate. "I like the country, but not in harvest time. I love to get close to Mother Earth," he exclaimed, and his hands looked it. "Many times have I fled to the peaceful quiet of pastoral scenes just to escape the hurly burly of city life. I fled so fast the last time that I nearly lost my hat."

"MANY TIMES HAVE I FLED FROM THE HURLY BURLY OF CITY LIFE."

"Were you looking for work?" queried the guileless reporter.

Mr. Patchmore shuddered slightly.

"By no means," he said, indignantly. "If I have to work, I'd rather work for the city than in the country. Work does not agree with me, you know, especially outside and inside work. There is danger from sunstroke from the one and bad air from the other."

THE HURLY BURLY.

"Then you do not care to rake the meadow fresh with hay or plow the stubborn glebe?" asked the reporter, eager to give a literary flavor to the interview.

"I love the country, but—O, you glebe," answered Patchmore, reverting to the vernacular. "I love the country, but not in harvest time. I love to stroll through shady lanes and loiter by sylvan streams, where the air is sweet with the fragrance of the honeysuckle and the wild rose. I love to lie in the cool grass, fanned by gentle breezes, and lulled to rest by the murmur of soft, caressing winds. I love to sit beneath some stately elm and watch the birds wheeling and circling in the blue dome above. I love to lean against something and listen to the music of the south wind as it plays upon the thousand-stringed harp of nature. That's the kind of country life for me."

"O, HOW BEAUTIFUL."

"And the dear old swimming hole," suggested the reporter sentimentally.

Mr. Patchmore shuddered at the idea and turned quite pale.

"I feel faint," he said, and the reporter gave him a nickel.

"No swimming hole for me," he said, recovering quickly. "There is always danger of sharks."

"O, THE NOBLE FOREST!"

"Have you spent much time in the country, Mr. Patchmore?"

"Yes; I've done a good deal of time out in the smaller towns—ten, thirty, sixty days at a stretch—but I can't say that I liked it. Still my hosts simply wouldn't take 'No' for an answer, and so I stayed as long as they wanted me to."

"AND THE DEAR OLD SWIMMING HOLE," SAID THE REPORTER, SENTIMENTALLY.

"Do you like the woods, Mr. Patchmore?"

"Very much, but not in piles. The sight of a woodpile gives me an irresistible attack of the wanderlust. But the noble forest, ah, how uplifting is the noble forest! Long vistas of lordly pines, arching above like the nave of a great shadowy cathedral, soft carpets of pine needles, fragrant with the balsam that gives us health to eat and strength to dodge work. Ah, and the murmuring winds that sigh and whisper in the boughs of the hemlock and the spruce. How deliciously sleepy and how prone to rest it makes us feel. It is a beautiful slumber song that sings a lullaby to the tired senses."

"WOULDN'T TAKE 'NO' FOR AN ANSWER."

Mr. Patchmore became so absorbed in the idea that he went to sleep so suddenly that he forgot to spend his nickel. The reporter tiptoed out into the busy street and into the workaday world again.

INDICT DETECTIVE FOR LEVY ON VICE

Grand Jurors Formally Accuse Jeremiah Griffin of Desplaines Street of Taking a Bribe.

RESORT OWNERS HEARD.

Policeman, with Previous Good Record, Defended by Inspector McCann; Also Produces a Letter.

Jeremiah Griffin, a city detective, was indicted late yesterday afternoon on the charge of taking a bribe of $70 from Morris Shatz, keeper of a resort at 10 North Green street. The bribe is alleged to have been taken on July 1. Griffin is attached to the Desplaines street police station under Inspector Edward McCann.

With this indictment the Cook county grand jury capped the climax of a day's busy session into the investigation of alleged graft on the west side.

Acting Chief Schuettler intimated that Detective Griffin would be suspended during the investigation of the charges against him. No suspension has been ordered yet.

Indictments hitting such well known characters as Louis Frank, saloonkeeper and politician, and Michael Heitler, commonly known as "Mike the Pike," were voted; and complaints against Lieut. Maurice Moore were heard. But the actual return of the indictment against Griffin before Judge Kickham Scanlan was the first torpedo of the investigation to explode in the police department.

Two Hundred Witnesses on List.

At night State's Attorney Wayman roughly estimated that he had the names of 200 witnesses in the graft investigation on his lists and said he intended to let them tell whatever they know, hit whomsoever they may. He reiterated that he is not "out to get" anybody in the police department, but that he "will follow the evidence wherever it may lead."

So far as reports that he expects to indict "men higher up" are concerned, he said he first would have to have complaints against them before talking about possible indictments.

"I'm not running any crusade," said Mr. Wayman. "Some things on the west side that didn't look right were brought to my attention and in pursuance of my duty as state's attorney I am calling in the persons most likely to know about conditions and giving the grand jury an opportunity to hear their testimony. I haven't any 'men higher up' specifically in view and can't tell what will be done until I hear all the evidence. Evidence that looks strong to me will be acted on."

Twice Questioned by Jurors.

The indictment of Griffin, oddly enough, followed his reappearance and that of his former partner, Detective P. T. Mulvihill, before the grand jury in the morning. It was the second time they had been questioned, and, in the light of the succeeding indictment against Griffin, it was supposed he had failed to give the grand jury certain information that he had been asked for.

Another peculiarity of the indictment of the detective rested in the fact that Shatz, the alleged bribe giver, also was named as the man alleged to have given bribes to Frank and Heitler, the two men said to have represented themselves as "collectors for the police." Shatz, although himself indicted on the charge of keeping a disorderly resort, was believed to have given evidence against others in the hope of securing favor from the state in return for his testimony.

According to one report, witnesses before the grand jury testified that graft amounting in the aggregate to $9,700 is collected every month in the Desplaines street district.

Stop to Investigate "Leak."

Unusual secrecy was observed in connection with Griffin's indictment. Two hours before the return in court the news had leaked out that he was to be indicted, and the grand jury heard of it.

The work of hearing testimony was suspended for the purpose of investigating the "leak," with the result that State's Attorney Wayman questioned some of his associates in office. Finally the grand jury gave a vote of confidence to Capt. William F. Knoch, in charge of the witnesses, and ordered a bailiff stationed at the entrance to the anteroom, with instructions to keep away everybody except witnesses. Then, at the request of Mr. Wayman, the grand jury filed to the courtroom of Judge Scanlan to make a special return of the Griffin indictment. The judge set the bonds at $2,500, and a capias was issued for the detective's arrest.

It had been stated flatly that the indictment against Griffin was based mainly on testimony by Charles Genker, or Strang, known as "Monkey Charley," said to own resorts at 13, 17, and 19 Halsted street. The state's attorney had nothing to say regarding Genker, or whether he had been present, and the voluminous indictment against Griffin did not bear Genker's name in the list of witnesses.

Witnesses in the Indictment.

The witnesses named on the indictment were Morris Shatz, Jennie Cohen, Detective Sergt. Chatt [assigned to the state's attorney's office], and Detectives Louis, O'Keefe and Kelly [also assigned to the state's attorney's office.]

The indictment contained many closely typewritten sheets of paper, much of which was used for excerpts from the laws providing for fines of $200 for disorderly resorts and the duties of policemen. There are eight formal counts for the purpose of covering his alleged bribe taking and alleged willful failure to close up Schatz' place, as required by law. Stripped of its legal verbiage and repetitions, the indictment in substance says:

That Griffin received $70 from Shatz on July 1 of this year, and that he "refrained from arresting and prosecuting Shatz and from appearing as a witness against Shatz for violation of the city ordinances and statutes" covering disorderly resorts. It is set up that by virtue of conducting a disorderly place, Shatz became liable for a fine of $200 to the city.

That Griffin, "contriving and intending" to violate and betray the trust and confidence reposed in him by virtue of his office, was induced to "perform duty of him required, with partiality and favor to said Morris Shatz by reason of a bribe present of $70." Then follows the recital of the alleged fail-

FIND HAZING AT WEST POINT

Army Officers Report on Conditions at U. S. Military Academy.

VICTIM REFUSES TO TALK.

Cadet Sutton, Badly Hurt, Insists He Could Not Identify Tormentors.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—The board of army officers, appointed several weeks ago to investigate hazing conditions at the United States Military academy, has handed its report to Col. Hugh L. Scott, the superintendent.

The report contains the statement that hazing still exists at West Point. It takes up several hundred pages, it is said, but the board, of which Lieut. Col. Sibley, the commandant of cadets, is president, makes no recommendations as to the nature of the punishment to be meted out to those cadets who may have been found guilty of hazing in one form or another. The commandant sent it back with instructions to the board to make recommendations.

The inquiry is the result of an injury received by Cadet Sutton of Oregon, a brother of the United States marine officer whose death at Annapolis two years ago is now under investigation by the navy department.

Hazers Jump on Cadet.

Cadet Sutton was badly injured by being jumped on and is still in the hospital, although his condition is greatly improved. He was called before the Sibley board, but he proved a poor witness so far as hazing was concerned. He maintained he had not recognized the cadets who had assailed him and said he did not consider the incident as hazing.

The result was that the Sibley board was unable to identify those concerned in the affair. Sutton's failure to identify those who so seriously hurt him made him most popular among the cadets.

Neither Col. Scott nor any member of the hazing board would discuss the investigation or the report today, saying that whatever was given out must come from the war department in Washington. It was learned, however, that more than 100 cadets were examined under oath, and rumor says the document contains the names of perhaps a dozen young men who may, later on, wish they had not been so familiar with "poor little plebes."

"Horse Stunt" Is Unearthed.

Some things unearthed by the board are funny. There were no ant tricks this year, but there was a "horse stunt" that will go down in West Point history as one of the oddest things a "plebe" ever had to go through. A big, strong cadet from a western state is in the academy, and although he is a first year man it was his quick wit that made this "horse trick" possible.

One of the questions now asked of the new cadet is:

"What was your previous condition of servitude?"

When it was put to the westerner he answered:

"I was a horse dealer."

The senior cadets told him they would try to provide a stable for him with horses.

The "horses" were all "plebes," and each "animal" had a name. For instance, a slim young fellow from Louisiana is said to have been dubbed Sysonby. Another youngster from New England was called Ballyhoo Bey, while a third rejoiced in the name of the famous Rock Sand. So it went on, until numerous cadets had been honored with the names of favorites of the turf.

"Plebes" Imitate Horses.

After the "horses" had been chosen there were races, the cadets contesting on all fours and emitting snorts indicating the kind of animals they were trying to imitate. Sysonby of West Point is said to be the coming sprinter of the academy. After the races an auction was held, and the western cadet had to act as auctioneer. Some fine horses went for ridiculously low prices. Sysonby, it is said, brought 40 cents, while Ballyhoo Bey went for 20 cents.

Another form of amusement that the investigation is said to have brought to light is the "home paper" trick. Many of the cadets come from small hamlets where a weekly newspaper is still the medium of news. These journals as a rule speak in complimentary terms of any cadet who happens to come from the same town as the editor.

"Our soldier boy," "a future general," and "our brass buttoned hero," and other headlines of similar import, told the pride those little towns take in the cadets.

Some of the older cadets got hold of these clippings and the "plebe" complimented was compelled to memorize word for word everything that had been written about him. After committing the article to memory he had a chance to recite it to his friends on numerous occasions.

Indicated by Antics.

These antics indicate, it is said, the nature of some of the information gathered by the Sibley board. One of the cadets who had testified said the other day that even the board members, who were solemn, had to laugh at some of the comical things brought out by the questioning of the recorder.

The general impression seems to be that the cadets who may be mentioned by the board will not be expelled. It is said that nothing of a low or mean nature developed at the hearing and that it was shown that even the "plebes" had entered into the fun.

That some rigorous punishment will be meted out is, however, the opinion, and it is believed that this will be in the nature of confinement to the limits of the post and of walking "hours of duty" in the famous old quadrangle.

NAVY RESTS IN SUTTON TRIAL.

Annapolis, Md., July 23.—The navy practically rested its case today in the investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton of Portland, Ore., who was adjudged a suicide by the first naval board of inquiry nearly two years ago. After a short session today Commander John Hood, U. S. N., president of the court of inquiry, adjourned the hearing until Monday.

"We are entirely satisfied with the progress and development of the case," said Henry E. Davis of Washington, counsel for Lieut. Sutton's mother. "We have discovered nothing in the way of surprises, and what has developed in the nature of the unexpected has been confirmatory of our opinion of the affair and has strengthened our belief that Lieut. Sutton was killed in a duel."

REPORTS SEEING AEROPLANE OVER CHICAGO AT MIDNIGHT.

Mrs. H. A. Johnson Declares Figure of Man Was Visible in Light of Powerful Lamp on Machine.

Mrs. H. A. Johnson, who lives at 1722 Kenmore avenue, reported at midnight that she saw an aeroplane moving rapidly in a northwesterly direction above Kimball and Montrose avenues. She said the man in the aeroplane was distinctly visible in a bright light, which she thought came from a powerful electric lamp.

Half an hour later, she said, the machine was still visible from her home and seemed to be going in the same general direction, except that it had risen. She said it also was seen by her sister, Mrs. L. Cummins of 2838 Ashland avenue.

"We were sitting up late, talking on the front porch," said Mrs. Johnson, "and noticed a bright light. At first I thought it was an unusually bright star and then I saw it was moving. When I watched it closely I could see the form of a man in the light.

"The machine seemed to be going in about the same direction as the wind was blowing, but it was apparently traveling faster than it would be carried by the wind. I am quite sure it was not a balloon."

Inquiries made at Irving Park, Evanston, Rogers Park, and Summerdale failed to discover any one else who had seen a wandering aeroplanist.

Engineers Say City Should Safeguard Own Water Supply.

EVANS' PLEA IS FUTILE.

Proper Sewage Disposal "Not Up to Government."

Washington, July 23.—[Special.]—Maintaining that most of the objectionable material dredged from the Chicago river consists of deposits coming from sewers and flushing conduits of the city, the government engineers' department will recommend to the secretary of war the refusal of the war department to bear the added cost of hauling dredged material from the Chicago river to a dumping point where it cannot be considered a menace to the health of the populace.

"If the United States is willing to dredge and remove such deposits in the interests of navigation, it seems that the city of Chicago should be willing to pay any extra cost of disposal that arises from sanitary requirements," says Major Thomas H. Rees, engineer officer at Chicago, in a report just received from him.

Major Rees was ordered to report to the chief of engineers upon the feasibility and desirability of depositing dredgings from the Chicago river either behind the breakwaters off Lincoln park or at a point eight miles out in the lake, where the water attains a depth of sixty feet. He also was asked to submit maps and descriptions of the intake tubes of Chicago's water system, and to discuss the proposal recently made by Health Commissioner W. A. Evans for keeping the drinking water of the city from contamination.

Assistant Is Against Plan.

Maj. Rees incloses a report compiled by G. A. M. Liljencrans, assistant engineer, in which the whole matter of dredging at Chicago and its vicinity is discussed at length.

In the course of his report Mr. Liljencrans hazards observations about the sanitation of Chicago's water supply which may be disturbing to its citizens. He calls attention to the fact that the secretary of war has given instructions only for an investigation of dredge dumpings, and says:

"No mention is made of sewage emptying into the lake in several sections near the intakes, and yet such sewage is probably many times more responsible than any dredged materials for the pollution of the water supply."

"Pumps Are Not Active Enough."

"Material from the south fork of the river branch unquestionably is of a most offensive character," says the report, "but would be far less so if the large pumps of the pumping station at Thirty-ninth street and Lake Michigan were operated to their full capacity, which is not done, although two pumps at that station transfer the sewage from the intercepting sewer at this place to the east arm of the south fork and thence to this fork, where a considerable portion settles from lack of sufficient flushing and is left for the government to remove, instead of being carried down the drainage canal as projected."

Contracts Name Dumping Grounds.

Contracts at present in force in connection with the deepening of the Chicago river require the dredgers to dump "as near the shore as practicable and about 1,000 feet or less therefrom in the dumping ground between the prolongation of Sixteenth and Twenty-second streets."

It is a seven mile haul to this point from the north branch, and nine and one-half miles from the south branch work. Mr. Liljencrans reports that to require the contractors to take dredged material eight miles into the lake would not be burdensome as to distance, but would subject them to great risks as regards their operating plants, maintaining that sudden storms often arise in this part of the lake and that the sinking of dredge scows is a serious and expensive matter.

ure of Griffin to bring about the prosecution of Shatz.

Allege Divekeepers' Enmity.

Although the capias for the arrest of Griffin was issued, the state's attorney said he was will to wait until today for the detective to give bond. When seen in the evening, both Detective Griffin and his superior, Inspector McCann, declared the testimony given against him before the grand jury was the product of enmity on the part of divekeepers.

Griffin was appointed probationary policeman Dec. 14, 1896. On Nov. 1, 1897, he was made a regular member of the force. Griffin has been before the trial board only once, when he was accused of beating a negro. The complaint was dismissed.

When in the Twenty-second street district Griffin made a reputation for the recognition of negro criminals. During the last year he has been traveling from the Desplaines street station with Detective Mulvihill, being detailed on disorderly resorts. A few weeks ago Griffin was detailed to serve warrants with Detective Patrick Bonner and Mulvihill was detailed to travel with Detective Thomas O'Neill.

In indignantly replying to the charges of police graft in the west side levee, with which the grand jury is being flooded, Inspector McCann produced a signed statement from "Monkey Charley," one of the alleged chief witnesses, under date of June 24 of this year, exonerating the inspector from suspicion.

Letter from "Monkey Charley."

The statement follows:

"H. F. Schuettler, Acting General Superintendent—My name is Charles Genker and I reside at 13 South Halsted street. I have been to your office and made a statement that during the last year I have paid a party $20 every month which he stated and which I understood was to be handed to Inspector McCann for protection for a sporting house at 13 South Halsted street. I have now found out that this man took the money and kept it and Inspector McCann never received a penny of same.

"I noticed an article in THE TRIBUNE and Record-Herald this morning regarding Inspector McCann and I wish to state emphatically that I never had anything to do with Inspector McCann and never gave him anything in my life. CHARLES GENKER."

"P. S.—The name of the party to whom I handed the money was Jack Smith. He kept a resort in the Twenty-second street district, but the exact location I do not know and I understand that he now has left town."

McCann's Detailed Denial.

Inspector McCann not only denies positively that he ever received one cent of tribute from keepers of west side resorts but he says the proprietors of the resorts are so poor as a result of his campaign against them that they could not contribute anything more than plugged silver pieces or leather medals.

"I am glad to make a full and fair statement," said the inspector.

"In this district there is a preponderance of persons unfamiliar with American institutions and persons accustomed to making their living by devious ways who believe that their illegitimate pursuits are right and that any interference is wrong.

"I have been tireless in trying to rid the district of disorderly places and as a result have incurred the enmity of many of the proprietors of these places. When I came here from the Twenty-second district I was told to stop all illegal selling of liquor, and I did so. Mayor Busse told me personally to enforce the law, and I did so, thus making many enemies.

Fights and Curbs Resorts.

"When I came there there were many places in the district where women could simply reach out from their windows and grab men. I have worked fifteen hours a day exterminating such resorts, and have succeeded. I am not a politician and was turned down by the Harrison administration and had to fight to prove my physical ability to continue on the force. I have no political backing.

"I do not believe any policeman is involved. We have kept so closely after these west side places that almost all of them are losing money and if the proprietors wished to bribe any one they would have to try to do so with a plugged quarter or with a leather medal. We have simply put them out of business and they are trying to strike back at us.

"I raided a place conducted by John and Vine Hall and arrested sixteen persons there. Among the persons arrested was a prominent lawyer. All kinds of things were threatened against the police. The Halls began a damage suit for $50,000. All I have to say is that the suit was dropped, the Halls pleaded guilty to keeping a disorderly house, and left the district. Does that look like graft? There are scores of similar cases.

"Mayor Busse has told me that my work has been most satisfactory and to keep ahead. I wish to call attention that the mayor never has pardoned one person accused on the west side of being a thief, addicted to the use of drugs, or of keeping a resort. When it comes to court the west side will show a clean bill and absolute proof of no graft."

Griffin Asserts Innocence.

Detective Griffin said:

"I never have received one cent for myself or for any policeman from any resort of any kind. The statement can not be made too strong. When the present inspector was captain in the Twenty-second street district I was active there in the work of suppressing resorts.

"This 'Monkey Charley' has a personal grudge against me. He conducted a place on Lake street near Halsted. He had built a small projecting doorway where two women could take their stand and accost every one who passed. I complained of the place and three weeks ago I went and kicked it down. That is how much graft I was getting from him. I have never received a penny from any one.

"Under orders of the inspector we kept the officers of the various societies fully informed of every resort in the district and helped them reclaim any woman. Miss Mabel Dedrick of the Moody church is one of the missionaries who will state that we always provided the district workers with a complete list of suspected resorts and got after any of them as occasion required."

Lieut. Maurice Moore of the east side station, the other policeman whose name specifically was brought into the grand jury investigation, but against which no indictment had been returned up to last night, was alleged by Mrs. Anna Kuminski to have received "protection money" for letting liquor be sold without a license.

Other Indictments Voted.

In the case of Frank, the west side saloonkeeper and politician, who was indicted, the first count of the indictment charges that on July 20 of the present year, he pretended to Louis Shatz that he represented certain police officials [whose names are unknown to the grand jury], that he [Frank] was authorized to collect money on behalf of police officials. It is alleged in the indictment that he said the money was required by the police in return for neglect, refusal and failure of the police officials to arrest Shatz.

The second count states that Frank induced Shatz to give him $280. The third and fourth counts, respectively, charge the obtaining of money by means of a confidence game and obtaining money by false pretenses.

Similar counts were included in the indictment against Heitler. Heitler is charged with having obtained $40 under similar circumstances.

The grand jury also returned an indictment charging M. A. Sanchez, 4023 Indiana avenue, with obtaining money under false pretenses from Herbert S. New, a saloonkeeper of Lemont, Ill. Sanchez is alleged to have secured $75 by telling New it was for "protection" for slot machines New was operating in Lemont. New said he paid the money on April 15 of this year.

NEW MEMORIAL TO CLEVELAND.

New Hampshire Neighbors of Former President to Improve and Mark Section of Highway.

New York, July 23.—As a memorial to the late Grover Cleveland, New Hampshire neighbors of the former president propose to improve, mark, and maintain a section of highway which he had built and presented to the town of Tamworth, N. H., when he first took up his residence there five years ago. As yet the movement is a purely local one, but it is proposed to give admirers of the former president throughout the nation a chance to contribute to the work.

JEALOUSY PLACED BEHIND SHOOTING

Mrs. Agnes Mayfield Says Her Mother Wanted to Wed Man She Eloped With.

SISTER DENIES THE STORY

Accused Woman Declared Witness Against W. N. Smith, Her Brother.

Jealousy was given yesterday by Mrs. Agnes C. Mayfield as the explanation of the circumstances which led to her arrest on a charge of shooting her mother, Mrs. Gertrude A. Hinkley.

In a cell at the Hyde Park police station Mrs. Mayfield added voluminously to her first version of the development of an intense hatred between herself and the other members of the family.

Mrs. Mayfield eloped with Dr. R. Newton Mayfield, a man as old as her mother, in February, 1908, according to her own story of the family quarrel. She asserted that her mother loved the man at that time and had not changed her attitude since the marriage.

Another daughter of Mrs. Hinkley, Mrs. H. Sheldon Peck, speaking for her mother who had not recovered from her wound sufficiently to talk, denied the story of maternal jealousy and declared that Mrs. Mayfield was only talking for effect because of the charge made against her.

Business Feud Also Appears.

The family feud as described was said to be more acute because of business rivalry for the control of the Colorado Mining company and the Colorado Penoles Tunnel and Mining company, in which nearly all the members of the family are stockholders. Mrs. Mayfield and her husband were arrayed on one side, according to her explanation, while her mother, Dr. and Mrs. Peck and Samuel R. Smith and William Neal Smith, Mrs. Hinkley's sons, were on the other.

The appearance of Mrs. Mayfield before Commissioner Foote in the federal building on Thursday bears out the story of the family feud, inasmuch as she admitted that she went there voluntarily for the purpose of giving testimony against her brother, William Neal Smith, who was arrested on July 8 by postoffice inspectors on a charge of using the United States mails to defraud in the promotion of the San Luis Land and Cattle company and the El Maiz Sugar Plantation company.

Mrs. Mayfield denied that she came to Chicago from Mexico for the purpose of giving evidence against her brother, but admitted that she had told her mother of her purpose to testify against him.

Mrs. Mayfield's Explanation.

Characterizing the charges against her—that she shot Mrs. Hinkley with intent to kill on Wednesday afternoon—as absurd, Mrs. Mayfield explained that the possible motives for such an act were all on the other side as she related the story of her mother's supposed jealousy.

"The trouble is that my mother was so indiscreet as to fall in love with the man I married," she said in a burst of confidence after she had talked for half an hour of business troubles in the family.

"We met Dr. Mayfield during a trip through Mexico," she continued. "We saw much of him afterward. I knew mother loved him before I married him. We eloped and when we returned home she refused to speak to us for two days.

"After the marriage she came frequently to our house and seemed to seek the company of Dr. Mayfield. On the occasion of these visits she would put her arms around his neck and kiss him and tell me I should be proud to have such a husband.

"Then she would get angry if I appeared when she was alone with him. Once she became so angry that she struck me on the head. I was convinced that she hated me for marrying him and I cried for hours.

Calls Mother an Agitator.

"She tried to make me get a divorce from him. She tried to get him to give her half of his property, but he gave it to me. She tried to get the mining property away from us, so that he could not support me. When I came to Chicago for several months she got her son, Sam, who was in Mexico with my husband, to help her. He wrote me letters telling me that Dr. Mayfield during my absence was paying attentions to other women. I would not believe it, and I refused to ask for a divorce.

"This would not indicate that I shot my mother, for my husband still loved me. It rather would tend to show a reason why my mother should want me out of the way. But I will not say my own mother ever thought of harming me. I would not make such an accusation, though her twin sister, Mrs. J. L. Hutchinson of Streator, Ill., advised me in a letter to beware of her."

Attempted suicide was Mrs. Mayfield's theory of the shot which wounded her mother. She says when she heard the shot she came out of her bathroom and her mother was facing her. She argues that the shot entered at the back and right side of her mother's head, and that it was a physical impossibility that the daughter could have fired the shot.

It was Mrs. Mayfield who made the first report to the police that her mother had been shot.

Much to Worry Mrs. Hinkley.

"Some of my friends have suggested that Mrs. Hinkley was intending to shoot me and that she accidentally shot herself," said the daughter. "She had much to worry her, her business troubles and her hatred toward me. One of her sons was under arrest and the other had given her much trouble. I believe she was despondent and attempted to end her own life. If she has accused me I believe she did it at the instigation of other members of the family."

Mrs. Peck, the other daughter, declared there was no word of truth in this story told by Mrs. Mayfield and said it was merely concocted for effect and to bid for sympathy.

"My mother is 55 years old," said Mrs. Peck. "She is too old a woman to do anything as foolish as that. The truth will be made known at the trial.

"Mrs. Mayfield shot her mother. Her mother says so herself. At first she was chagrined at her daughter's act and tried to shield Mrs. Mayfield, but now she has told the truth of the affair."

Police of Two Minds.

The Hyde Park police are divided in opinion as to how the shooting occurred. Inspector Hunt thinks Mrs. Hinkley was shot by her daughter. Lieut. Thomas Maloney, who made the first investigation for the police, believes Mrs. Hinkley shot herself accidentally or otherwise.

The revolver which was found in the Mayfield house, where the shooting occurred, was carved with the initials J. H. H., which are the initials of Mrs. Hinkley's former husband, according to the police.

The daughter insists that Mrs. Hinkley wrote a note immediately after the shooting saying it was an accident. She says Dr. Peck obtained the note. Dr. Peck's explanation was that the daughter compelled Mrs. Hinkley to write the note. Detective Mulcahey reported at the Hyde park station that Dr. Peck admitted destroying the note.

When Capt. Haines asked Mrs. Mayfield to telephone her friends and get some one to sign her bond she refused.

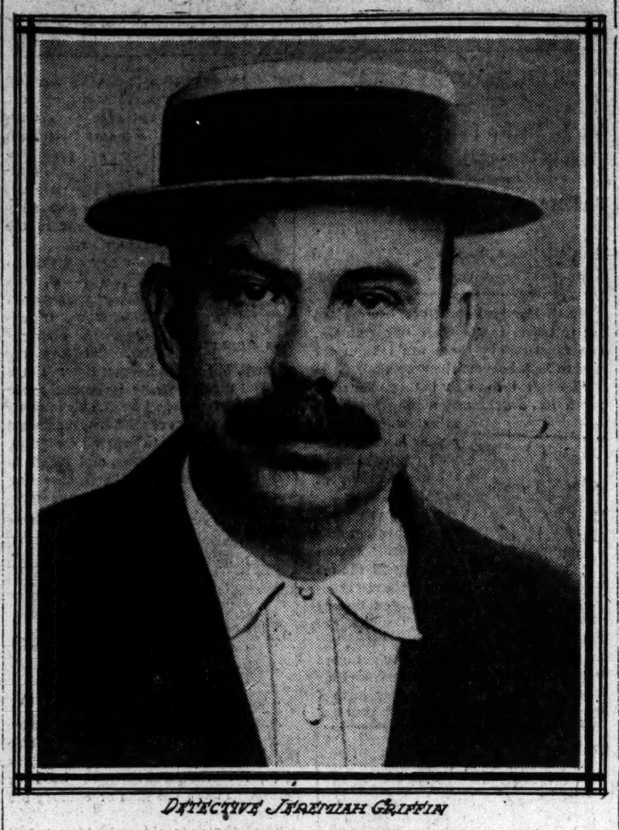

"This is a good place to stay," she said. "They seem like good people here. My friends know I am here. I cannot ask any of them to come and sign my bond."

Case Continued to July 31.

Mrs. Mayfield was arraigned in the Municipal court before Judge Stewart and a continuance was granted until July 31. She had not notified her husband, who is at Mapimi, Mexico, that she had been arrested.

The case of William Neal Smith was called again before Commissioner Foote, but a continuance was taken until Monday so that postoffice officials could interview Mrs. Mayfield and learn what she knows of the case.

DETECTIVE JEREMIAH GRIFFIN

SHEA SPED TO CELL BY COURT

Judge Bitter in Sentencing Former Boss to Sing Sing.

SAYS RIDDANCE AIDS LABOR.

Chicago Woman's Assailant Given 5 to 25 Years in Prison.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Cornelius P. Shea, the convicted labor leader, was sentenced by Judge Foster in general sessions today to serve not less than five nor more than twenty-five years in Sing Sing for attempting the murder of Alice Walsh, whom he stabbed twenty-seven times on May 21. In pronouncing sentence the court bitterly scored the prisoner.

Shea was the leader of the turbulent strike of teamsters that resulted in loss of life and property in Chicago several years ago. He once was president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and more recently secretary of the union in this city. Alice Walsh, formerly a waitress in Chicago, came here to live with Shea.

The law under which Shea was tried was enacted shortly after the assassination of President McKinley. It was intended to cover assaults inflicted with intent to murder, but few cases have been tried under it.

Labor Service Plea for Him.

Shea's counsel asked the court to deal mercifully with the defendant on the ground of alleged services to the cause of labor. It was mentioned that he once obtained an increase in wages for the longshoremen of New Orleans. The prisoner stood in sullen silence when the court asked if he had anything to say. Judge Foster said:

"Shea, you have had a fair trial. More: you have had the benefit of much evidence that was inadmissible, but which was admitted in order that no injustice might be done. The jury had no other course than to find you guilty. You brutishly and wantonly tried to cut to pieces the woman who loved you.

"Your services to humanity are urged here on your behalf, because you were active in the cause of labor. I yield to none in respect for the dignity of labor and its right to organize.

Gained Power by Savagery.

"But there is a prejudice that we must admit exists in this community against organized labor because such men as you dominate it with your brutal methods and offensive personality until a part of the community has come to look on organized labor as organized brutality, bringing about victories by brute methods. That is wrong. None is more honorable or honest than the average laboring man.

"You gained your ascendency in the cause of labor by the savagery that has been abundantly manifested in your private life. I believe that I am helping the cause of labor by ridding it of such a man as you and sending you to state's prison."

THREE REPORTS OF SUICIDE ARE MADE TO THE POLICE.

Identity of Man Who Shot Himself Near Lake Shore Drive on Chestnut Street Is a Mystery.

Three suicides were reported to the police last night. One man, as yet unidentified, shot himself near Lake Shore drive on Chestnut street. He died at the county hospital. Nothing that could lead to the discovery of his name was found upon his body. The man was six feet in height, weighed 190 pounds, and had light hair and complexion.

John Lindhagen of 1538 Wolfram street, died at the Alexian Brothers hospital as the result of his drinking acid. He left a letter saying he could not secure work.

The body of a man found in the river near the Montrose avenue bridge was identified as being that of Henry Leslie, 50 years old, a barber, who lived at 2806 Western avenue. He was despondent when he left his boarding place one week ago.

Friends of Leslie have been found by the police who state that the man had trouble with his wife and has frequently threatened to kill himself. His wife recently went to New York.

MILLINERY SO MODEST NOW.

Prof. Myra Reynolds Tells Coeds Eighteenth Century Styles Were the Real Thing.

Women of today do not go to any such extremes as did their foremothers, Prof. Myra Reynolds informed an audience of University of Chicago co-eds in Mandel hall yesterday afternoon.

"The hats of the women of the eighteenth century were colossal," Prof. Reynolds said. "They were so large that to satirize them actresses wore real flower gardens of considerable weight.

"Artificial beauty devices of all kinds were employed. Even those who had beautiful hair and complexions smeared themselves with paint and powder, and wore false puffs."

POLICE TOLD 'IGNORE MAYOR'

Kenosha Commission Directs the Force to Obey Only Board.

STRIKE RIOTING IS ENDED.

Troops in Readiness Helps in the General Desire for Compromise.

Kenosha, Wis., July 23.—[Special.]—Because of the executive's attitude, declared to favor the N. R. Allen's Sons company tannery strikers, the police and fire commission, headed by Z. G. Simmons, a leading manufacturer, instructed the police tonight to ignore Mayor Scholey and obey no orders except from the commission.

The mayor, it is asserted, threatened to withdraw police protection from the plant unless the peace terms proposed by the strikers were accepted.

There was no sign of a recurrence of violence during the day, and the company officials and the strikers have been working under a flag of truce.

The nearness of the troops, which are held in Milwaukee ready for call, and the prompt action of the police in using firearms on Thursday seem to have taken much of the fight out of the strikers, and, while most of them still seem to be unwilling to return to work, enthusiasm is lacking.

Backbone of Strike Broken.

At a big meeting tonight the strikers finally split into three sections. The more conservative voted for further conferences. The radicals demanded that the committee devote its efforts to getting the men now at work to join the ranks of the strikers. Those of the third faction, it is predicted, will return to work on Saturday.

This split in the ranks of the strikers has confirmed the opinion of the officials of the company that the backbone of the strike is broken, and that the end is in sight.

The buffers, numbering fifty men, notified the president of the company late today that they would return to work in the morning at the old scale with a promise of protection.

During the day the strikers sent two communications to the company asking for small increases in wages, and asking that the time they lost during the two days and a half of the strike be allowed to them, but both appeals were rejected.

Strikers Ask New Parley.

The strikers asked for another parley.

President John Humphrey of the state board of arbitration reached Kenosha this morning, and was present at the conferences this afternoon.

An armed guard still is in charge at the plant. Several arrests were made during the day.

STAGE ATTIRE TOO SCANT; GERTRUDE HOFFMAN ARRESTED

Principal in "Spring Song Dance" Is "Pinched" at Hammerstein's Roof Garden After Frisking Scene.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—A couple of central office men, Walden and Rathgeber, went to Hammerstein's roof garden tonight just about the time Gertrude Hoffman quit frisking in the "Spring Song Dance."

When husband Hoffman, who leads wife Hoffman's special orchestra, brought down his baton with a final jerk and the bass drum gave a triumphant boom, Walden and Rathgeber went behind the scenes and pinched Gertrude.

They said Miss Hoffman skipped too lightly arrayed and that section 153 subdivision 2 of the penal code had suffered a crimp.

Miss Hoffman slid out of a pink nightie into a regular dress and went to the West Forty-seventh street police station. Walden and Rathgeber had it entered on the blotter that Miss Hoffman had given a performance that was contrary to public decency. The dancer confided to Lieut. McQuenie that she is 24 years old. George Considine hustled into the station house and furnished bail.

Walden, who was the captain on duty at police headquarters tonight, said nobody ordered him to arrest Miss Hoffman. He took one look at the dance and beat it back to the stage.

FLIRTING STIRS THE POLICE.

Arrest One Girl and Four Youths After Having Given a Warning.

One girl, 16 years old, was arrested for flirting and four young men were taken to the police station in Ogden park yesterday.

The girl was Marie Roder and the youths, who said they could not behave under the spell of her eyes, were Robert McCullough, William Farrington, George Nelson, and Arthur Leverence. Nelson was fined $15 and the others will be arraigned in court today.

All were arrested by Policeman John Grant and William Moran of the South Park force. They warned the girl that she must stop flirting and told the young men that they must not throw kisses. When the party gathered about the field house in the park the police ordered them into the building and called for a patrol wagon.

FROHMAN LISTS SEASON'S PLAYS

Theatrical Magnate Outlines Plans for Productions in America.

JUST BACK FROM EUROPE

Chicago Is to See "Chanticleer" and "Arsene Lupin," a Paris Success.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Charles Frohman arrived today on the Lusitania from England and the continent and made this pronouncement:

"We will start work in New York next Monday with a great number of productions which will be given first in this city, Chicago, Boston, and Philadelphia.

"The American plays I have obtained are by Augustus Thomas, Booth Tarkington, Harry Leon Wilson, Paul Armstrong, George Ade, William Gillette, Winchell Smith, Paul M. Potter, Ramsey Morris, Rida Johnson Young, Thomas Buchanan, William Collier, and George Hobart.

"The Empire theater will open on Sept. 6, with John Drew in 'Jack Straw,' for two weeks. After that Mr. Drew will appear in a new play, which will be decided upon in a few days. Then comes Maude Adams in 'What Every Woman Knows' and special performances of 'Twelfth Night,' with Miss Adams as Viola.

Sir Charles Wyndham Coming.

"Following Miss Adams there will be a brief engagement of Sir Charles Wyndham and Mary Moore, who in turn will give way to Miss Ethel Barrymore in a new play by Arthur Wing Pinero entitled 'Mid Channel.' This piece receives its first production at the St. James theater, London, in September. Miss Barrymore will leave for England about Sept. 1 to meet Mr. Pinero and will not begin her season until December.

"At the Lyceum theater I shall begin on Aug. 26 with 'Arsene Lupin,' a detective-thief play which ran at the Athenée theater in Paris for seven months and has again been revived for a run through the summer."

Special Production for Chicago.

"I shall produce this play in London the same night I bring it out in New York. I hope also to make a special production of the play in Chicago. I shall follow the season of 'Arsene Lupin' at the Lyceum theater with a brief engagement of Marie Tempest in 'Penelope.'

"Miss Tempest will play short engagements in the principal cities before returning to London. After her engagement comes Miss Billie Burke in a new play. At the Criterion theater I shall begin on Aug. 30 with 'The Flag Lieutenant.' If this play meets the success that greeted it in London I shall have a special company organized for a Chicago production.

"At the Garrick Miss Hattie Williams will begin the season on Aug. 23 with a new play called "Detective Sparkes," by Michael Morton, who is a co-author of 'My Wife,' and who adapted into English 'The Resurrection.' During the season at the Garrick Francis Wilson will be seen in a play, which he has written, called 'The Bachelor's Baby.'

William Collier in New Play.

"William Collier will appear at the same theater in his new play. During the season I shall produce at the Hudson Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's drama, 'The Fires of Fate,' which has just made a great success at the Lyric theater in London. The author is coming to America for the production.

"At the Gaiety theater, New York, I shall produce Henry Bernstein's play, 'Israel,' with a cast that includes Constance Collier, Holbrook Blinn, and Edwin Arden. I shall follow Miss Anglin's season at the Savoy theater with a new play by Pierre Wolfe, a French author. At the Knickerbocker early in September I shall produce a musical play, 'The Dollar Princess,' which requires more than 100 people. It will be produced in Daly's theater, London, the same night I put it on here.

Bringing London Success.

"Following the run of 'The Dollar Princess' I shall produce the musical play which scored so great a success at the Shaftesbury theater in London. It is called 'The Arcadians.' I also have the present London Gaiety success, 'Our Miss Gibbs,' which I shall produce late in the season, as I hope to get Miss Gertie Millar to come over for her original part of Miss Gibbs.

"On Oct. 4 I shall present Kyrle Bellew in Alfred Sutro's play, 'The Builder of Bridges,' which was produced in London at the St. James theater. On Oct. 9 I present Otis Skinner in a new play in four acts called 'Your Humble Servant.' Miss Marie Doro is to have a new comedy by the authors of 'Love Watches' which will not be ready until the end of November.

"I have arranged with Henry Miller and his company to appear under my management in London. For this purpose I have secured the Adelphi theater. The company will sail from here on Sept. 1 and begin its London engagement about the 15th of that month, opening with 'The Great Divide.' Before returning to America they will also appear in 'The Servant in the House.'

Miller's First London Appearance.

"This will be Mr. Miller's first London appearance. J. K. Hackett will make a tour under my management in 'Samson,' and William Crane will continue another season in 'Father and the Boys.'

"In February, when I return from abroad, I shall produce here with Henri Hertz, manager of the Pore St. Martin theater in Paris, and Jean Coquelin, a new play in four acts, by Edmond Rostand called 'Chanticleer.'

"I shall have a reproduction of the Paris production. I have secured Henri Bataille's powerful play called 'The Scandal,' and also the present success of the Gymnase theater, Paris, called 'L'Ane de Buridan,' with a new English comedy called 'Chains,' which I shall produce in New York before the holidays.

"During the season I will bring out Somerset Maugham's comedy, 'Mrs. Dot,' and his new play called 'Smith,' also a new play called 'The Great Mrs. Alloway,' and one by Alfred Sutro, which will be first given at the Garrick theater, London, in September. It is called 'Making a Gentleman.'

Among the New Plays.

"I have new plays by Henry Arthur Jones, Granville Barker, John Galsworthy, Bernard Shaw, a new comedy by J. M. Barrie, a comedy drama by Capt. Robert Marshall, author of 'Second in Command;' and a new comedy by Haddon Chambers.

"I have from Henry Bernstein, author of 'The Thief,' his new play, written for the Comedie Française in Paris. He also is to write for me a play that I shall produce first in America. As this play will be given here before it is played in Paris Bernstein will come to New York for the production.

"I have a new five act drama by Alexander Bisson, author of 'Madame X,' which he produces early in the season in Paris, and a new play by H. V. Esmond, called 'The Tug of War.' There also is a comedy by Cosmo Hamilton called 'Plain Brown' and the English text of the German comedy 'Grachen.'"

TANK BURSTS; QUENCHES FIRE.

Flooding of Michigan Avenue Building Saves Thomson & Taylor Spice Company from Serious Loss.

Fire on the top floor of the seven story brick building at 68 Michigan avenue, occupied by the Thomson & Taylor Spice company, threatened for a time last evening to destroy the structure.

A tank on the roof containing about 20,000 gallons of water burst, preventing the flames from spreading to other part of the building. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at $1,500, most of which was caused by water.

A watchman discovered the fire and told Janitor Patrick McRell to turn off the sprinkler system so as to prevent the building from being flooded.

HAMMERSTEIN HAS A VISION

Impresario Sees Grand Opera House Half Chicago Built.

PRESS AGENT GIVES REPORT

Joseph Basch Tells of Interview and Wishes of Local Men.

According to the written statement of his press agent, Oscar Hammerstein left Chicago yesterday pleased with the prospect for the establishment of a home for grand opera in Chicago.

From other sources than the press agent it was learned that Mr. Hammerstein had suggested that a substantial beginning toward a fund that would enable him to build an opera house should be provided by Chicago enthusiasts and that he be provided with a site—possibly a whole city block—that would enable him to secure the kind of an opera house he wants.

In addition, the impresario was pleased with the attitude of other and more western cities, including Denver, which was reported to have offered $500,000 for two weeks of grand opera, which it cannot obtain unless the Chicago permanent quarters are established, as Colorado at present is not on the grand opera map.

Press Agent's Version.

"Joseph Basch, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce," wrote the press agent, "who was one of the conferees today, will hold further conferences with the Chicago men who are undertaking to make this ambitious project a reality."

"Mr. Hammerstein came here to look over the field and find what encouragement he would receive," said Mr. Basch, after expanding on the great influences of grand opera in Europe, "and I went to see him as an individual and not as a member of the local committee of the Association of Commerce, of which I am chairman.

"Now Up to Chicago."

"It is now up to Chicago whether we shall have our own grand opera. Mr. Hammerstein has a number of sites in mind, but, I think, selected no one of them. He was anxious to find out how much encouragement Chicago would give him, and he said he wanted a site free from obstruction—probably a whole block, and at least a three street proposition—so that 1,000 or 1,500 carriages could come and go without difficulty.

"He does not want it in the district where rentals are highest, but still in a place where it is readily accessible. He is a wonderful man."

Before Mr. Hammerstein went east he named Max Rabinoff as his local representative.

ILLINOIS TAX REFORM ASS'N RENT BY INTERNAL STRIFE.

Maxwell Edgar Announces New Officers, but Henry M. Ashton Says Old Ones Still Hold Reins.

Maxwell Edgar announced last night that the Illinois Tax Reform association had been reorganized and that President Frank W. Jones and Advisory Director Henry M. Ashton have been deposed.

"I might depose President Taft, too, but he would still be president," was Ashton's reply. "Mail addressed to the Illinois Tax Reform association still comes to my office."

The new officers announced by Edgar are Herbert Miller, president; Charles H. McConnell, vice president; Maxwell Edgar, secretary; Oscian Cameron, general counsel; and Frank S. Regan, lecturer.

A statement issued by Mr. Edgar says Mr. Ashton was charged with attempting to induce Secretary Maxwell Edgar to accept a bribe of $10,000 in the International Harvester company case and with demanding $20,000 from the Harvester company before he would consent to the compromise agreement of settlement.

"Those charges are absolutely false," said Mr. Ashton. "On the other hand, Mr. Edgar attempted to collect a fee of $50,000, to be paid by the Harvester company for the association and a like amount for himself. This is a matter of court record. I asked for a fee of $1,250 for my two years' work in the case and it was allowed. Mr Edgar's fee was not allowed. The records of Judge Windes' court will show that this statement is true."

One of the questions to come up at the regular annual meeting today, according to Mr. Ashton, is a proposition to depose Maxwell Edgar from the membership of the association.

MAN DEAD OF SHOTS IN HEAD; ELEVEN DETAINED BY POLICE.

Mystery Surrounds Tragedy in Massachusetts Hotel in Which Employe of State Institution Is Victim.

Cambridge, Mass., July 23.—Mystery surrounds the death of Stewart McTavis, whose body was found today lying fully clothed on a bed in the Hotel Florence, near the East Cambridge courthouse, with bullet holes in the head. McTavis was employed at the state insane hospital at East Gardner and was on a vacation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, aged 45, proprietor of the hotel, was found, apparently drugged, on the kitchen floor adjoining McTavis' room, and was detained as a witness, but the police could not gain any information from her tonight. Eight men and two women who were in the house also were detained.

A revolver and a bloody ax were found in an empty bedroom. McTavis' watch and a large roll of money he had are missing.

"CORSETS" OFF, DOG RECOVERS

Porter Puzzled Till House Physician Orders Six Inch Collar Removed from Heat Victim.

"Take off her corsets and put ice on her head," ordered Dr. J. S. Sweeney, house physician, when "Sitting Bull," an English bull pup owned by the family of B. F. Bailey of Mexico City, was overcome by the heat in the baggage room of the Palmer house last night.

"What?" demanded the porter.

"Well," replied the doctor, "take off that six inch collar."

The "corset" was removed, ice placed on the dog's head, and the animal relieved. The family went on to Mexico City, leaving the pet to be forwarded upon complete recovery.

FIGHT OVER GIFT TO WIN TAX RAISE?

Reviewers' Attention Called to E. W. Morrison's Wealth by His $149,000 Suit.

SLEUTHS TO CLAIM HALF.

Tell of Contract if They Recover Money from Late Wife's Beneficiaries.

It appears from developments yesterday that Edward W. Morrison is liable to get into deeper entanglements before his quest for the money and securities which his late wife Balbena Morrison, gave to Mrs. Kate Hiller and her crippled brother Carl Hauber, is concluded. For one thing the board of review took immediate cognizance of the fact that Mr. Morrison is reputed to be the possessor of considerable moneys and other personal property, which the assessors failed to schedule, and he has been summoned to appear before them.

Also it developed during the day that if Henry Hiller had not confided in many neighbors, Mr. Morrison might never have known that his wife had acted as fairy godmother to Mrs. Hiller and her brother.

But through neighborhood gossip, the story finally came to the ears of three alleged private detectives, who, apparently seeing a chance to get a "good case," went to Mr. Morrison and offered to get back the money and bonds if he would give them half.

According to Attorney W. S. Hefferan, who is acting for Mrs. Hiller, a contract to this effect was entered into, between Mr. Morrison and one of the detectives, named "C. S. Riman" or "C. S. Riemer," the name appears both ways in the document.

Calls Sleuths Kidnapers.

The three private detectives give promise of holding Morrison to the terms of an alleged contract, and on the other hand, Attorney Hefferan says they are likely to be cited into court for having "kidnaped" Mrs. Hiller and her husband in an attempt to coerce them into giving up their fortune.

"A whole lot of litigation is going to grow out of this attempt to take away the bequest," said Attorney Hefferan. "If the gift to Carl Hauber was bona fide Mrs. Hiller had no right to return the bonds. If those detectives were acting under Morrison's orders Morrison must answer for the way my clients were treated. We can prove that Morrison removed the package of bonds from the mattress, and he will have to produce their equivalent. My clients got $149,000, but there are countless other thousands of dollars which have not been accounted for in Mrs. Morrison's estate."

Detectives in Shadow.

The identity of the detectives is not entirely clear, but the one whose name in the purported contract appears as "C. S. Riman" and "C. S. Reimer" flashed papers on the beneficiaries in the hope, it is said, that they would be induced to enter into a settlement, and later tried to prove his rights by furnishing Attorney Hefferan, representing the beneficiaries, with a copy of the supposed contract.

A second detective had trouble with Attorney Hefferan and was ordered from the lawyer's office, and then had more trouble with Attorney James R. Ward, counsel for Mr. Morrison, and is said to have been ejected from the Ward office. The story is that these detectives after neighborhood gossip had informed them that Mrs. Morrison had quietly made the gift to Mrs. Hiller and her brother, immediately sought Mr. Morrison and explained they would recover his wife's missing estate on a settlement of 50 per cent of its face value.

Serve a Remarkable Notice.

Their next step is said to have been the service on the beneficiaries of the following remarkable notice:

"Chicago, Ill., June 28, 1909.—To Henry Hiller and Katrina Hiller, his wife, and Carl Hauber, and Matilda W. McCreedy (the latter a sister of Mrs. Hiller who recently married a man named Blum):

"I hereby give you notice that I am the owner of an undivided one-half interest in all money and property, real or personal, which you or any of you may have received from Mrs. Balbena Morrison during her lifetime or from her husband, Edward W. Morrison, either directly or indirectly, to which you are not legally entitled by virtue of my contract with Edward W. Morrison, copy of which is given below."

Here follows a typewritten copy of what purports to be the agreement between Mr. Morrison and the detective that the latter is to seek Mrs. Morrison's estate and have half of it for his pains.

It developed during the day that while the specific purpose of Mr. Morrison in the present litigation was to learn what Mrs. Hiller and her brother did with their bequests, the hotel owner also seeks to know what became of the balance of his wife's estate. His court proceedings Thursday were not his initial efforts along this line, for it was learned that on June 22 he commenced an attachment suit in the Circuit court to "recover $5,000" from Mrs. Hiller.

Mr. Morrison, who in appearance is a shrewd man of about 70, spends the daytime looking after his different properties and negotiating deals in his dingy little office at the northeast corner of Madison and Clark streets.

Morrison Is Silent.

Mr. Morrison was seated behind a wood and glass partition and was reading the accounts of his court proceedings when a reporter for THE TRIBUNE entered. He was in his shirt sleeves and there was absolutely nothing to indicate a man of wealth. He appeared startled when his name was called, but gingerly admitted the identity, after which he let out a long drawl, "Well!"

His caller stated the purpose of the visit, and the old man scowled. Next he put his right hand behind the near ear, pressing it forward and otherwise illustrating, while he slowly said: "I am quite deaf."

"I am from THE TRIBUNE, and we wish to be fair and give both sides of the case," suggested the reporter in a voice that might have been heard in the hall, or at a still greater distance.

"Yes, I believe you want to be fair," the old man replied, "and I am going to be fair also, but they are private matters which I don't care to discuss."

Says "See My Lawyer."

"What caused your wife to take such an interest in her former housekeeper and her afflicted brother?" was asked.

Here Mr. Morrison looked in the distance, and, after a moment's reflection, replied:

"Go and see my lawyer."

"But there are certain details which you alone can explain," persisted the reporter.

"I will explain nothing and will submit to no kind of an interview unless my lawyer is present. Go and get him. Bring him back, and then you may talk with me. When matters now in court progress farther my position will be shown in a different light. I am merely insisting upon my rights and want nothing to which I am not duly entitled. Go get the lawyer. Tell him I said for him to come."

His attorney, J. S. Ward, was seen, but would not aid the reporter.

"Did you have a fistic encounter with the private detective?" Mr. Ward was asked.

"I will not discuss that affair; we cannot talk," was his final reply.

Wife Was Eccentric?

It was reported during the day that Mr. Morrison would attempt to prove the alleged eccentricity of his diseased wife by relating the manner of her meeting with Mrs. Hiller. As the story goes, Mrs. Morrison admired a lace shawl worn by a strange woman she accosted on the street, and inquired where it was procured. She was taken to Mrs. Hiller's house, and there the crippled boy was met. That was nine years ago. Hauber is now 31, but his dwarfed appearance makes him look like 17.

WINS DIVORCE WITH LETTERS

Mrs. A. W. Chapman Shows One from 'Maude' Denying Affair.

WRITER 'DETESTS' HER SEX.

Earlier Notes Used by Wife to Prove Case Against Husband.

Letters to a deserted wife formed part of testimony yesterday in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Amy W. Chapman, 3805 Lake avenue, against her husband, William Henry Chapman, an employé of the federal government. The divorce was granted by Judge ..delor J. Petit of the Circuit court following the reading of the letters.

One of the letters exhibited by Mrs. Chapman was written to her on March 19, 1902, by Miss Maude Eason, then a government employé at Washington, in which she denied accusations against her and also expressed herself regarding women in general.

"My time is so well taken up with my work," Miss Eason wrote, "that I have not much left to waste on such as you. Let me beg of you not to be a coward. If you have anything to say to me, just write to me and say whatever you please—it will have as much effect as water poured on a duck's back.

Flatly Denies Writing.

"If you have any letters written by me to your husband—letters signed with the name 'Maude A. Eason,' let me deny them now. You are being made a fool of in more ways than one.

"You have certainly shown yourself not a lady by writing to Mrs. Charles as you have done. She has nothing whatever to do with me—neither she nor Mr. Charles. I do not live at their house and she would be the last person on earth to encourage anything wrong. Another mistake you have made is in thinking me an 'immoral woman.' There is not one man living who can or will say one word against me—your husband not excepted.

"I have spent the last six years in Arizona and in New Mexico in the government service. Harry Chapman, as one of my oldest friends, has written to me most of that time. I have known him since I was 14 and I am now 26.

Doesn't Care Rap for Him.

"He wrote me of his marriage and sent me your picture. You are too good looking to make such a complete fool of yourself—as I do not care a rap for your husband in the way you seem to think, nor does he care for me in that way.

"I detest women and consider that I am lowering myself in thus taking any notice whatever of your insulting letter. I have a few letters which might prove interesting reading to you, but you will never get them unless your husband wishes you to see them, as I will have no truck with women.

"I shall have no further correspondence with you on my part. I am to be married soon, so you need not worry about your husband any more. I do not want him."

Letters from Other Women.

Other letters from women written to Chapman, and revealing infatuations, formed part of the evidence.

A letter from Mr. Charles sympathizes with Mrs. Chapman. Charles says he even pawned his watch to give Chapman funds. He expresses surprise that "Miss E.," his niece, acted in such a manner.

A letter written to Chapman by "Maude" on Feb. 24, 1902, says:

"I guess we will have to go to the Philippines. Will you take me? Harry, I want you, yes, I do.

"I have been good. I have been out some, but to nice places and with nice people, and have been true to you, honestly.

"Must say good night now, dear, with love and a kiss."

Garry Weiner told Judge Barnes that his wife, Victoria, had deserted him twice because she could not resist a longing for her former home in Jerusalem. He said he had coaxed her back each time, sending her hundreds of dollars, but that she again had left him. He was granted a divorce.

DEATH ENDS VACATION CRUISE.

Two Chicagoans, One of Whom Soon Was to Wed, Die in Green Bay Accident.

The vacation trip of five Chicago men was cut short yesterday by the capsizing on Green bay of a launch built by them, as a result of which two were drowned. The party started out last Saturday from Chicago. Those drowned were:

BUTTERWORTH, CHARLES, 5044 Morgan street.

PRIESTLY, J. W., 395 Forty-sixth street.

Butterworth was to have been married to a Chicago girl in August. He was 26 years old and, with Priestly, was employed by the Chicago Telephone company. Priestly, 30 years old, was head of the stockyards switchboard department.

The launch was built by the men last winter. The owners put many months on their work. The boat was thirty feet long and was valued at $2,000.

Ernest Klaus, George Beilfuss, and Fred Klein, the other members of the party, were rescued. The men had made the trip to Green Bay to attend the power boat races there. According to members of the Jackson Park and Chicago Yacht clubs, none of the contesting boats was damaged by the storm.

SOCIAL WAR DIVIDES GENEVA

Villagers Take Sides with Van Sicklens and Dickinsons.

COURT HEARING ON MONDAY

Charge of Blocking Road Follows Fine for Auto Speeding.

Geneva, the summer home of many wealthy Chicagoans, hummed with gossip yesterday while the social struggle between the W. P. Dickinsons and the N. H. Van Sicklens—leaders of the older and newer social sets of the picturesque Fox river community—progressed to the stage of verbal pyrotechnics.

More than one aristocratic ear must have tingled, because cutting things were said. The villagers joined in the controversy, taking sides and making perfectly plain remarks about the Van Sicklens and the Dickinsons.

The present trouble began Tuesday, when Charles Van Sicklen whizzed by the Dickinson home, which stands in 160 acres that slope gently to the Fox river, at a rate of speed that is said to have been closer to a mile a minute than to twenty miles an hour—the speed permitted there.

Mrs. Dickinson, sitting on the broad verandas of her home, gasped with astonishment and exasperation. She secured a part of a tree (she says it was a small limb; the Van Sicklens say it was an entire tree) and had it rolled across the Batavia road in front of her home.

Blocks Road with Stones.

She placed stones (she admits they were larger than pebbles, but not as large as boulders, the Van Sicklens assert) at either end of the limb—or tree. Then she waited for the speeder—not knowing, of course, that he was none other than the young Mr. Van Sicklen.

By and by, Mr. Van Sicklen in a low built and long machine of fifty horse power, dashed into view from the direction of Batavia. Mrs. Dickinson, from her front yard, waved her handkerchief to signal the autoist of the probable danger, but Van Sicklen, not being on speaking terms, did not tarry. Instead, he took the bump.

Mrs. Dickinson ran into her house and telephoned to Sheriff Richardson, complaining that the Van Sicklens were exceeding the speed limit.

"Well, we've been waiting to arrest Charlie Van Sicklen, anyhow," the Kane county sheriff told her.

Fine Brings Retaliation.

When Charles Van Sicklen was taken before Justice Keiser and fined $25 and costs the Van Sicklens retaliated by charging Mrs. Dickinson with blockading the highways. The case will come up for a hearing on Monday in Geneva.

Pending the outcome, each faction waxed warm over the controversy and made frank statements.

"If I were Judge Keiser I would give Mrs. Dickinson a good spanking," said Mrs. N. H. Van Sicklen.

"Van Sicklens? O, yes, I know of them, but I have never met them socially," said Mrs. Dickinson.

"The Dickinsons are afraid that their little boy, Philip, who is about 10 years old, and big enough to take care of himself, will get run over by an automobile," said Mrs. Van Sicklen.

"You know the Dickinsons are crazy about horses and can't see a motor. Why, they'd make snails of us if they could," said Mrs. N. H. Van Sicklen Jr., who was a schoolgirl chum of Miss Ethel Roosevelt.

Families Exchange Compliments.

"I understand the town is opposed to the Dickinsons," said Mrs. Van Sicklen Sr.

"I hear the Van Sicklens aren't thought much of along the river here," said Mrs. Dickinson.

"Well, they've started it. We'll be there at the finish," said N. H. Van Sicklen Jr.

"We intend to push it to a conclusion," said Mr. Dickinson.

Charles Dickinson, former consul general at large and a brother of W. F. Dickinson, will appear in behalf of his sister-in-law at the hearing before Justice Keiser.

Meantime Justice Keiser, who conducts the village "pantatorium" as a side line, is doing a land office business.

The boy who gave the name of William Crane when arrested in Evanston on Thursday became demented last Tuesday, after an automobile accident in Lincoln park, it developed yesterday. It is said he was run over and several ribs broken. He was identified during the day as William Baum and was released to his uncle, Ignas Baum, 5 Buena Vista place. O. K.'S FREE PHONES FOR THE POLICE

"Investigator of Book" Finds List of Instruments in Stations Is Correct.

NO CUT TO THE COUNTY.

Corporation Counsel's Office Rules Board Is Only a Subscriber of the Company.

An investigator yesterday reported to City Controller Walter H. Wilson an "O. K." on the free telephone service in police stations, and a legal opinion was given him that the county was not entitled to the 50 per cent reduction it had been receiving on its telephone service.

A partial explanation for one of the questions fired by Ald. W. J. Pringle, chairman of the council committee on gas, oil, and electric light, was advanced, but at the same time the first benefit from the agitation against the Chicago Telephone company became apparent.

An opinion from Assistant Corporation Counsel Boord that under its franchise the telephone company has no right to give a reduced rate to Cook county any more than it has to any other subscriber means that the county board may be compelled to pay to the company about $15,000 in addition to the payments already made for the service it has received during the last twenty months.

County Only a Subscriber.

"The county is only a subscriber of the company," said Corporation Counsel Edward J. Brundage, "and it could not be given a reduced rate any more than John Jones could. The ordinance provides that there shall be no discrimination in rates, and in this case the reduced rate means a distinct loss to the city."

Mr. Wilson said he had not received a copy of the opinion from the corporation counsel's office, but added that if it was as it had been represented to him there was little doubt the city would insist on the collection of the full bill from the county for the past as well as in the future.

President William A. Busse of the county board expressed surprise that the telephone company had not the right to make a reduced rate to the county. He said the arrangement had been in existence several years and that he could not predict the attitude of the commissioners if an attempt is made to collect full charges for the service.

Reports on Phone Books.

The report of C. B. Willard, an expert accountant in the controller's office, was that of a "book investigation." He verified the existence of the free incoming telephones in the police and fire departments as shown on the company's list—not that in the controller's office—by the company's record. The revised list of free police telephones showed them in only twenty-one stations.

His report follows:

"The lists of free police and fire phones (incoming calls) furnished by the operating department of the telephone company and checked by them with their auditing department have been checked back against their books and found correct.

"Police and fire alarms are handled in the following manner:

"Main 13 includes all police phones (incoming calls). When caller in any district cals above number he gets the police station in that district direct without going to main exchange.

"Main O goes direct to main exchange and then to the fire alarm office, where the city's alarm system takes it direct to the available engine company. This on instructions of the fire chief because a call direct to engine house might find company out.

"When call comes from south of Thirty-ninth street it goes via the Wentworth exchange to the city fire alarm office in Englewood and is there handled by the city's alarm system.

"The ward yard phones are of the prepaid nickel type, with the privilege of free service to the city hall. The installation of these phones antedates the ordinance and this type was agreed upon by the commissioner of public works and the phone company as the best and cheapest method of keeping the wires open for city use."

Fines Go to Pension Fund.

The controller also received an opinion from the law department that all fines received after city prisoners reach the house of correction should be turned over to the police pension fund. This practice has not been followed because the question never was settled before, the amounts involved being small each year.

Mr. Wilson announced that he had completed arrangements for the disposition of $2,300,000 worth of tax warrants during the next four months, so the city will have on hand cash to meet all its bills at any time. Each of sixteen large banks has subscribed for $40,000 worth and twenty banks have agreed to take about $17,000 worth apiece.

The wheel tax campaign will take on new life today through an order of Acting Chief of Police Schuettler that all drivers of vehicles without tags be arrested, whether they are the owners or not.

STRAY DOG ATTACKS TWO BEFORE KILLED BY POLICE.

Shooting of Unmuzzled Animals Continues, but No Record Is Kept of the Number Executed.

The execution of unmuzzled dogs by the expert riflemen of the police department continued yesterday with no record kept of the score. The greatest excitement was reported at Halsted and O'Neil streets, where a dog supposedly suffering with rabies attacked two persons before it was killed.

The dog snapped at Mrs. G. Broman, 921 North Halsted street, and then sprang at Michael McGrevey, attempting to bite his shoulder. It was knocked to the ground by Patrolman Patrick S. Ryan of the Hinman street station, who had heard the woman's screams, and was shot before it recovered from the blow of his club.

Four persons were reported to have been bitten by dogs during the day. The list follows:

Dawson, Alexander, 512 West Huron street, bitten in left leg.

Santino, John, 33 years old, 406 Clark street, bitten in left leg.

Williams, Annie, 667 Wells street, bitten in left arm.

None of the victims was seriously injured and the wounds were cauterized by physicians who were called to treat them.

CARDINAL GIBBONS TO VISIT CHICAGO LATE THIS SUMMER.

Roman Catholic Prelate Will Stop at Several Cities on Way to Utah Celebration and Back.

Cardinal Gibbons will visit Chicago several days late this summer on his way to and from the Roman Catholic celebration in Salt Lake City. Archbishop Falconio and other prelates will accompany him.

They plan to leave Baltimore early in August and to be gone several months on a trip through the middle west and western states.

They will visit Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Denver before reaching Salt Lake City. In each of these cities they will stop for from one to seven days.

Twenty Horse Truck Blocks Cars.

A twenty horse truck hauling a forty-four ton girder for the new city hall broke down at Indiana and North Clark streets last night and blockaded traffic for nearly two hours.

American Girl for Whom a Prince Renounces All Claim to a Throne.

MISS ANITA STEWART.

This portrait of Miss Anita Stewart, who is to be married to Prince Miguel of Braganza, was taken recently in London. It is announced from Lisbon that Prince Miguel has for all time renounced his rights to the throne of Portugal.

RENOUNCES THRONE TO MARRY

Prince Miguel Gives Up Claim to Portuguese Crown.

TO TAKE AMERICAN BRIDE.

Romance of Love at First Sight in His Courtship of Anita Stewart.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LISBON, July 23.—The power of love was demonstrated and an American girl was deprived of a chance to become a queen, when Prince Miguel of Braganza, eldest son of the Portuguese pretender, today renounced forever his rights to the throne of Portugal in order to marry Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York.

The engagement, which was announced on July 9, was the culmination of a real "love-at-first-sight" romance.

The young persons became acquainted less than three months ago when Miss Stewart and her mother were crossing from Calais to Dover with their new Parisian frocks for the London season. The prince knew nothing of the Americans nor they of him, but he was instantly attracted by the young woman. He was on pins and needles for an introduction.

The prince moved heaven and earth in his endeavors to get some opening to speak. None came, the Americans assuming a haughty attitude which proved to him he must not advance. When they arrived at Dover he attempted to travel in their carriage. This, too, failed, for they had taken the precaution to engage beforehand a first class compartment.

Locks Bar Out the Prince.

By this time Mrs. Smith and her daughter were thoroughly suspicious—in fact, anxious—as to the individuality of the handsome foreigner who was shadowing them. They called the guard and asked to be locked into their carriage. Not that this was of much use, as the persistent young man hung around in the corridor.

When the train reached London Dom Miguel was again to the fore. Watching Anita and her mother enter their motor brougham, he promised the chauffeur of a taxicab a sovereign if he would keep the conveyance in sight until it reached its destination.

The carriage stopped in front of Mrs. Smith's house in Grosvenor square, which fact soon established the identity of the Americans. The rest was comparatively easy.

Prince's Persistence Wins.

Prince Miguel induced a friend to take him to Mrs. Smith's, and one of the first things he did was to apologize for having pursued them as he had done during the memorable crossing. He was to be forgiven, he said, because he "wanted so badly to know them."

At this juncture it never entered into the mind of Mrs. Smith that this Portuguese prince had any "intentions" regarding her daughter. Before he had visited the house half a dozen times, however, he declared them.

At first Mrs. Smith refused point blank to accept his offer. On no account, she said, would she allow Anita to enter into the life of political intrigue which must necessarily be associated with the personality of Dom Miguel. But her discretion came too late. Already the affections of her daughter were engaged. Come what would, the young woman declared, she would be the bride of the Portuguese. She was not of age, she admitted, but she would wait until she was, and Dom Miguel would wait, too.

"Wait, indeed! Certainly not," replied the prince. He would run away with her to the end of the earth if necessary. Half frightened, half fascinated, wholly delighted, the girl set about to coax her mother to give in and let them be married.

Finally Mrs. Smith, realizing the impetuosity and the determination of the foreigner, gave her consent.

Fiance Is King's Grandson.

The prince's grandfather ruled Portugal from 1828 to 1834, and his grandmother, the ex-queen, is now a nun in a convent on the Isle of Wight. His father, Prince Miguel, the elder, was formally reconciled to King Manuel on the latter's accession and renounced his claim to the throne.

Miss Stewart is the only child by her first marriage of the widow of "Silent" Smith of Chicago and New York. She inherited many millions from her father, James Rhinelander Stewart, and she will receive a substantial slice of the Smith fortune.

DENEEN AND GRANT AT CAMP

Governor and Major General Review the Third Brigade.

30,000 WITNESS CEREMONY.

Troops End Maneuvers Today, Returning Home in Afternoon.

Gov. Deneen and Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, commanding the department of the lakes, shared the honors at Camp Deneen yesterday, while 30,000 spectators looked on. All northern Illinois was represented in the throng which surrounded the parade ground when Gen. Kittelson presented the Third brigade to the commander in chief and the government's representative at the army headquarters at Chicago.

Not least in interest was the big delegation which came from Galena, the old home of Gen. Grant the elder. Veterans who fought in the '60s touched elbows with the uniformed younger generation just eleven years out of the Spanish-American war as they pushed forward to salute the gray bearded son of the silent soldier.

The United Spanish War Veterans were beginning their annual encampment at Elgin and to a man they were at Camp Deneen.

Trainloads Join Throng.

Excursion trains arrived from the northern Illinois cities represented in the Third and Sixth infantry regiments and in the artillery battalion. Gov. Deneen had remained in Camp Deneen all night. He was up with the boom of the gun at daybreak and at 7 o'clock, accompanied by all of the medical officers in camp, he visited the Elgin hospital for the insane.

Maj. Gen. Grant, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, arrived in Elgin at 9 a. m. in the automobile of Col. Milton J. Foreman. He was met by Col. Dickson, Col. Dewey, Col. Brown, and Col. Greene. At the entrance to Camp Deneen a deputation from Gen. Kittelson's staff, the band, and Maj. Geiger's battalion of the Sixth were in line to receive him. Thirteen guns boomed and the official reception was over.

Gov. Deneen and Mrs. Deneen were at general headquarters to greet Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Grant. Gen. Kittelson and staff and the commanding officers of the regiments paid their respects.

Gates Thrown Open to Public.

Then the gates were thrown open to the public and 5,000 persons passed by the receiving line.

The brigade was formed for review at 4 o'clock.

"Magnificent," said Maj. Gen. Grant. "I am surprised and greatly pleased with the showing."

The governor's dinner in honor of Maj. Gen. Grant followed the review.

Evening parade was by the two infantry regiments as a brigade. Gov. Deneen and Maj. Gen. Grant viewed the ceremony from Col. Dewey's automobile.

The brigade breaks camp at noon today. The troops will parade through Elgin at 1 o'clock as escort to the G. A. R. and the Spanish-American war soldiers marching from the parade to the homebound trains. The artillery will march to Chicago.

Gov. Deneen will return to Chicago tonight.

MAN IS KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR; THEN IS RUN OVER BY WAGON.

Emil Wade, Injured Seriously in an Accident at Clark and Adams Streets, May Not Recover.

Caught between a Blue Island avenue car and a dirt wagon at Clark and Adams streets last night, Emil Wade of 145 Oakland boulevard, was crushed so badly that it is thought he will die.

Wade, who is a clerk, 61 years old, was crossing the street when he was struck by the car and fell under the wagon. Both wheels passed over him. The driver of the vehicle, John Scheger, of 702 West Fifteenth street, was arrested.

John Bayless of Maywood was struck by two trains while driving across the Chicago and Northwestern tracks at Thatcher avenue in River Forest. A west bound train killed the horse he was driving and an east bound train struck the rear end of the rig. Bayless was bruised severely, but will recover.

Miss Rose Harris, employed at Highland Park, was killed Thursday evening at Fort Sheridan by an express car on the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad. A coroner's jury exonerated the railroad company.

AUTO CLUB PLANS TO COVER DEFICIT

Ira M. Cobe Also Will Help Clear Debt of Cup Race Bearing His Name.

JOHN FARSON ADDS MITE.

Another Contest Next Year in Spite of Loss on Crown Point Affair.

Peace and harmony now reign at the Chicago Automobile club. The board of managers of the club has voted unanimously that the club shall assume all the indebtedness resulting from the Crown Point races, and that Ira M. Cobe should be permitted to aid in wiping out the amount of the deficit.

The only flaw to the harmony feast was the appearance of F. J. Lewis of the manufacturing company of that name, with the announcement that he was preparing to sue Mr. Cobe for the payment of about $8,000 of the indebtedness incurred in the construction of the race course. The original contract specified that the course should be built at a cost of $21,600.

The club paid approximately $13,000 on the contract and then declared it would pay nothing more because the Lewis company had failed to fulfill its contract to keep the course in good condition.

Cobe Surety for Payment.

Mr. Cobe, as president of the club, agreed to go personal security for the payment of the $21,600 before the Lewis company would accept the contract. The suit, if it is filed, will be against Mr. Cobe personally, although the board of managers voted to contest any further payment.

Some rough figures on the deficit were presented at the board meeting, but nothing definite probably will be known for another month. It is said the loss will exceed $30,000. Mr. Cobe, it is said, has agreed to bear part of this, John Farson part, and the club the remainder.

W. W. Crawford, assistant secretary of the club, announced that Mr. Cobe had agreed voluntarily to assume a large part of the deficit.

"Mr. Cobe never attempted to shirk any financial responsibility in connection with the Crown Point races," said Mr. Crawford.

"At the meeting he said he desired to bear a part of the deficit because he was president of the club, not for any publicity he may or may not have received as the donor of the cup.

Name Chosen to Fit Headline.

"I know personally Mr. Cobe from the first wanted to have the cup donated by the automobile club. The board of managers, however, decided that the phrase 'Cobe cup race' would be much better than 'the Chicago Automobile club cup race' for the simple reason that you can get 'Cobe cup race' in a newspaper headline, where the other would be too long.

"While there may be members of the club who thought Mr. Cobe should pay all the deficit because of the publicity he received, the majority of them know he did not go into it for publicity, and they believe he should not be made to bear all the expense. However, he and Mr. Farson desired to put up part of the expense, and we permitted them to do it."

In spite of the loss in the Crown Point affair the board of managers voted to hold another race next year, although just how and when and where the meet is to be arranged was not discussed. It is probable that the race will be held on the Indiana course.

Mr. Cobe left the city yesterday for an automobile tour of the east.

DECLARED BLACK HAND AGENT BY VICTIMS OF BOMB THROWER

Isadore Carlino Identified in Court as Man Who Extorted $365 from Couple After Explosion.

Joseph Malcaluso and his wife yesterday positively identified Isadore Carlino as the man who called at their home at 382 Clark street, following an explosion, and collected from them $365 as protection money from a Black Hand society. Malcaluso told Judge Scanlon a bomb was exploded in the rear of his home on the night of April 4 after he had ignored letters containing threats and demanding money.

"The next day," he said, "Carlino told me he was a representative of the society and that the bomb had been exploded as a warning. He said that if I did not give him $500 I and my family would be slaughtered.

"While he waited at my house, I went to the bank and drew out $365, which he accepted. He told me he would give it to the society and that everything would be all right."

Mrs. Malcaluso gave similar testimony.

Afterward, Carlino's attorney, Frances Borrelli, charged that he had been threatened by persons friendly to the prosecution. He said he and three friends obeyed a summons to meet these persons at Western avenue and Sixty-ninth street, but that no one appeared, although they waited an hour on Thursday night.

LORIMER TO PAY TARIFF ON SUITS

Senator's Tailor Tells Him About Coming Advance Due to 'Revision.'

LEGISLATOR SAYS BUNKO.

Becomes Involved in Argument with Tradesman on Return from Washington.

Senator William Lorimer, returning to Chicago yesterday from Washington, fell into the hands of the "plain people" on the tariff proposition and flatters himself that he had the best of the argument. The plain folks were represented by the senator's tailor—name withheld as being immaterial both to the tale and its moral—who met Mr. Lorimer to measure him for a suit.

"You know, senator," said the tailor, by way of making encouraging conversation, "that you will have to pay about 25 per cent more for your clothes next year."

"Why?" asked Mr. Lorimer.

"Because of this durned tariff bill you're passing," said the tailor.

Thereupon Mr. Lorimer called the first grade class in tariff instruction and endeavored to explain that the Dingley rates on woolens and woolen products retained in the new schedules had been in effect for a number of years and inquired why the clothing trade had been so long in discovering that they would necessitate an increase in the price of clothing.

The tailor admitted he had been in possession of misinformation to the effect that he would be entitled to add about 25 per cent to the price of clothes sold by him because of an iniquitous tariff bill about to be passed in Washington.

Lorimer Says Bunko Game.

Senator Lorimer later defended the bill in an interview, and said that the producers who were clamoring for free raw material were working a "bunko game" on congress and on the people.

"Go to any shoe manufacturer," he said, "and try to get from him a guaranty that the price of shoes will be reduced because of the removal of the duty on hides. You would have a fine chance. The manufacturers are working the game both ways. They are endeavoring to have the tariff taken off raw material and kept on the finished product. They want the profits. The consumer will not get them.

"The tariff bill is much misunderstood. In about nine out of every ten cases the bill now in conference represents a reduction from the Dingley rates, but no attention is paid to them."

Ready Next Week.

He predicted the bill would be ready to report to the two houses next week, and that it would contain schedules satisfactory to President Taft in each disputed case. He returned to Chicago to spend Sunday with his family, and will go back to Washington probably on Monday. Federal patronage, he said, was not being considered at this time. He expects to go abroad with the waterway commission as soon as congress has completed its work, but because of the delay in making the start for Europe he has abandoned his plan to make a tour of the state in the interests of the deep waterway.

He said that he regarded it as essential that the state should have a state wide primary act providing for the convention system of nomination. He opposed the direct system, but admitted that the necessity for a law governing primaries demanded a special session.

With regard to the situation in the Sixth congressional district, involving his successor in the national house of representatives, the senator was noncommittal. B. A. Eckhart, who at various times has suppressed an ambition to sit in congress, is being put forward again as a candidate for the Republican nomination. It is presumed that if his candidacy is announced it will be as the result of an understanding between Gov. Deneen and Senator Lorimer. Of this the senator had nothing to say.

Buys Paper to Fight Snapp.

Col. Ira Copley of Aurora, the inveterate enemy of ex-Senator Albert J. Hopkins and Congressman Howard N. Snapp, is preparing to attack the latter in the next congressional primaries and as a means to that end will use his new newspaper property, the Elgin Courier. Congressman Snapp was saved from defeat in the last primary contest by Elgin, where his entire plurality was obtained. Copley with his new newspaper hopes to weaken him there.

FIVE CHICAGO GIRLS ON HIKE; ARRIVE AT LINCOLN FARM.

Usual Summer Jaunt Takes Them to Scene of Martyr President's Birth—Five Weeks on the Road.

Hodgensville, Ky., July 23.—[Special.]—Five girls arrived here yesterday after a five weeks' journey on foot from Chicago. They gave their names as Misses Mabel and Susan Martin, Julia Nelson, Agnes and Gertrude Smith. The girls were tanned and travel stained. They said they were on their usual summer jaunt and their objective points were Lincoln's birthplace and Mammoth cave. They were well supplied with cameras and each "toted" a smell grip.

With the exception of a few instances when they considered it a novelty to take a lift from a farmer on the high road and be ferried across streams, they had made the trip on foot.

After a rest here they hit the pike toward the Lincoln farm with the heel and toe step that would make Pedestrian Weston envious.

TOMCATS FOR TARIFF TINKERS.

Felines Bedecked with Ribbons Sent to Tawney, Mann, and Smith of Michigan.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—Three tom cats, gayly bedecked with ribbons and ensconced in a basket that had evidently been decorated by feminine hands, were received at the office of Representative Tawney of Minnesota at the capitol today. A card attached said that one of the felines was intended for Mr. Tawney, another for Representative Mann of Illinois, and a third for Representative Smith of Michigan.

Mr. Tawney looked the cats over, but said he had no use for them. He directed his messenger to set the cats free, which was done.

The debate in the house on Monday relative to "Tom cats and other kinds of cats" evidently was what inspired some one of a facetious frame of mind to send the cats.

DOLES WIFE PLUGGED QUARTER.

John Ford Thinks She Can Pass It Best, but She Resents Tampering with 25 Cent Allowance.

John Ford, who never has given his wife, she says, more than 25 cents at a time since they were married 17 years ago, doled out a plugged quarter to her yesterday, and she promptly had him arrested for non-support.

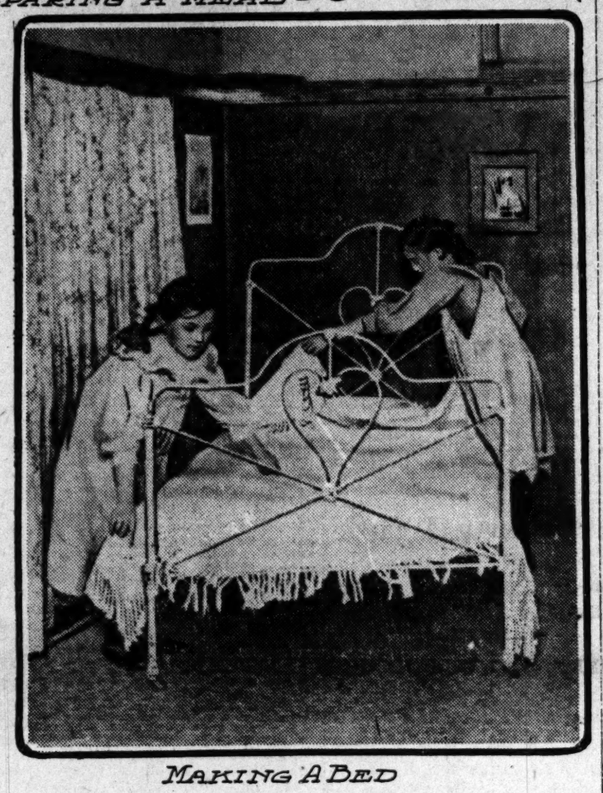

He told Municipal Judge Goodnow that he thought she could pass the quarter better than he could. Mrs. Ford said she worked every day and never had objected to her small allowance until she got the quarter in question.

She declared her husband even would not tell her where he worked, fearing she would try to draw his wages. Ford was fined $25 and costs and sent to the bridewell, while his wife returned to her home at 6943 Throop street.

Housekeeping Class at Daily Tasks in School's Model Flat.

MAKING A BED

Every day is "housekeeping day" for the several hundred little girl pupils of the Dante vacation school, Desplaines and Ewing streets. The three R's have been supplanted temporarily by courses in model housekeeping conducted in a real model five room flat. There are walls and partitions, the flat being in a large classroom, and every room is furnished as though in actual use. The pupils are divided into classes of thirty and each class has charge of one room for a day or two. The work is in charge of Miss Mary Dunne, principal, and Miss Theresa B. Halle and Miss Lillian Ackerman. The pupils are mostly from homes in the tenement district, where their chances of learning housekeeping are slight.

tion and indicated that his view that the senate should prevail in these instances still maintains. Yet the senator in question returned to the capitol honestly convinced that the president had surrendered, and so informed members of the conference committee.

As a matter of fact, there has been no weakening on the part of the president, and he is relying upon the tacit understanding with the conferees, arrived at as a result of the White house dinner on Wednesday night, that his wishes would be respected.

Further assurances to this effect have been given to the president. He understands the difficulty of bringing together the diverse interests which are affected by the modifications he wants.

Matter of Compromise.

The president understands, also, that the tariff bill, like any other legislation, is a matter of compromise. But the president feels that he cannot consent to any compromise which fails to carry out the downward revision promise the Republican party made in order to win its victory last November.

Consequently he has been anxious for the conferees to have ample time not only to reach an agreement among themselves but to convey their decision to their colleagues in the senate and house with a view to securing the general approval of their report when it shall be submitted.

From time to time the conferees have been sending for members of the senate and the house to ascertain if a suggested compromise would be satisfactory.

This was the case today when Senators Lodge and Crane of Massachusetts were invited to talk with Senators Aldrich and Smoot with reference to the proposed reduction on leather and boots and shoes and one or two other articles of importance to their constituents.

Conferees Receive Committee.

The conferees also received a committee consisting of Representatives Gaines of West Virginia, Mondell of Wyoming, Kennedy of Ohio, and Young of Michigan, representing the small band of insurgents in the house against the Taft program.

It was asserted by these men that forty-five votes would be cast against the conference report if it contained the free raw materials proposed by the president. No real importance is attached to their opposition and it is predicted that when the report is submitted it will disappear like a summer zephyr. In the meantime their attitude is impressive, especially upon home constituencies.

The tenacity of Senator Burrows of Michigan apparently has had some effect upon the attitude of the conferees with respect to iron ore, if information from a source usually reliable is to be believed. It is now said this material will bear a duty of 5 cents a ton instead of the 25 cents fixed by the senate.

The president wanted iron ore admitted free. The difference is so slight, however, that it may be he will agree to the nominal duty. He indicated today that his judgment had not changed and that this material should go on the free list, but he will be asked again tomorrow to assent to the latest compromise.

Both Houses Take Action.

Both branches of congress took action today in expectation of the submission of the conference report early next week. It is predicted now that the house will receive the report at noon on Tuesday.

The senate, at the instance of Senator Kean, adjourned until Monday, and there is some talk tonight that the report will be submitted first to the upper house. There has been discussion as to the best course to pursue.

The senate rules are clear. They provide that the report shall be made first to the house agreeing to the conference.

It will be recalled that when the senate passed the bill a motion was adopted requesting the house to agree to a conference and the house assented.

Consequently the natural course to take will be to present the report to the house before doing so to the senate.

Moreover, this chimes in with the views of the leaders. They do not want to give the members of the house too much time to study the conference report.

If the document were to be submitted to the senate on Monday, members of the house would have twenty-four hours to consider the effect of the changes made and to make combinations which might defeat the report. This would throw the whole tariff question open again, and neither the president nor any of the leaders in congress want anything of this kind.

WORK OF THE CONFEREES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—While no agreement was reached by the tariff conferees today on coal, lumber, hides, oil, iron ore, the cotton schedule or wood pulp and print paper, it was said tonight by the conferees after adjournment for the day that the prospects of settling these big questions tomorrow were excellent.

All except the actual conferees were excluded from the chamber and it was agreed that discussions leading up to a settlement of any of the subjects familiarly termed "national issues" should be regarded as confidential. All of the conferees said tonight that the feelings entertained for each other were more pleasant than they had been for many days.

When Arthur B. Shelton, clerk of the finance committee, and William K. Payne, clerk of the house ways and means committee, were excused from the conference, it was understood that votes would be taken on all of the subjects in dispute before adjournment for the day.

Hide Question Discussed.

As the question of hides is giving the committee more trouble than any other of the schedules that have claimed the attention of the president, it was discussed first. The discussion had not proceeded far before it was developed that the differences between the two houses were almost irreconcilable unless boots and shoes and other leather goods should be greatly reduced if hides were to go on the free list.

Senator Aldrich had reports from many western senators protesting against the removal of the duty on hides or a reduction below 10 per cent ad valorem.

Discussion then turned upon the amount of reductions the leather trade could stand without serious injury. Soon it was developed that the conferees would have to confer with associates not on the conference committee, and therefore an adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock tomorrow. The strict executive sessions inaugurated today will be resumed tomorrow.

Iron Ore Expected to Give Trouble.

After the duty has been fixed on hides and leather goods little difficulty is apprehended in reaching an agreement to put oil on the free list and in compromising upon a duty of about 45 cents a ton on coal, a rate of $1.25 a thousand feet on rough lumber, with proportionate differentials, and a rate of about $3 a ton on print paper. Iron ore is expected to give more trouble than any of these subjects except hides.

The cotton schedule was considered at the forenoon session of the conference committee. While this was not disposed of, the conferees are practically in agreement to adopt the senate increases on mercerized cottons, but to reduce a number of the senate rates on lower grades. It is said that most of the specific duties which were adopted in lieu of the existing ad valorems for the purpose of preventing undervaluation will be accepted.

It was announced today that the increased rates of internal revenue tax on tobacco, which were adopted by the senate at the instance of Senator Beveridge, will be accepted. It was reported yesterday that these amendments would be eliminated from the bill, and Senator Beveridge protested with good result to President Taft and Secretary MacVeagh.

The conferees accepted a senate amendment imposing a duty of 45 per cent ad valorem on structural steel punched for use. In determining this rate the house members had their first roll call of the conference.

CRANE CONFIRMED BY SENATE.

Chicagoan's Appointment as Minister to China Acceptable to Upper House of Congress.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to China—Charles R. Crane, Illinois.

Assistant director of the thirteenth decennial census—William F. Willoughby, District of Columbia.

The nomination of Charles R. Crane was confirmed.

FAULT SEEN IN U. S. TARIFF

Revision Is Triumph for American Trusts, Says Premier.

HE POINTS A MORAL LESSON.

Asquith Declares Public Opinion in England Opposes Customs Impost.

LONDON, July 23.—Addressing a meeting of city men this afternoon in defense of the budget, Premier Asquith declared the only alternative offered to Chancellor Lloyd-George's proposals for raising the new revenue necessary was the introduction of a tariff, but the Liberals, he said, would not look at any suggestions for a tariff.

"Two great countries, the two greatest commercial rivals we have in the world," continued the premier, "have been trying their hands at tariff fabrications for the last two or three years. Germany for two years has had in operation a full blown scientific tariff, and Germany's deficit is much greater than our own, and it has already caused the downfall of one of the most powerful ministers in Europe.

Dissatisfaction in America.

"And if we look on the other side of the Atlantic, they have just completed a revision of the Dingley tariff. It is not for us to speak disrespectfully or find pleasure and complacency in the troubles, struggles, and misfortunes of our friends and neighbors, but when we are told that the sovereign remedy for our financial troubles is to create in Great Britain what has been created in Germany and what is just being re-created in America—a general tariff—we are entitled to look to the experience of those who have adopted these methods.

"And what is the case of the new American tariff? Why, as far as I can make out it is universally condemned by the whole American press and regarded by American people as a triumph of particular interests over general interests, for they see trusts and monopolies reintrenched and reinforced in their long and too-victorious campaign against the consumer."

Public Opinion Strong.

Mr. Asquith added that unless there was a revolutionary change in public opinion here it would be impossible to carry a general tariff through the British house of commons.

A vote of confidence in the government's financial proposals, following the premier's speech, was carried unanimously.

Temperance Chautauqua Plans.

The Lincoln Temperance Chautauqua will open its third season in Evanston Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 10, continuing daily until Sunday evening, Aug. 15. Col. John Sobieski, the Polish count, will deliver the opening address.

INDIANA TIPS OFF BOUT TO ILLINOIS

Governor Orders Hammond Fights Stopped; Finds They Are in West Hammond.

PROMPT ACTION TAKEN.

Cook County Authorities Announce Meet Advertised for Tonight Will Be Blocked.

Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana inaugurated a reform in Illinois yesterday. His activity so stirred up the authorities of Cook county that they announced the decision that an advertised prize fight would not be allowed to take place tonight at West Hammond, Ill.

Deputy Sheriff Charles W. Peters, who is in charge of the office during Sheriff Strassheim's vacation, stated last night that he would send a posse to West Hammond to stop anything resembling a fight, and that the authorities of this county never would countenance a fistic combat if they were informed of the place and time of the affray.

According to accounts from Indiana several fights have been pulled off at West Hammond because that part of the town happens to be in Illinois, while the fights have been advertised as taking place in Hammond, which is in Indiana.

Marshall Starts Inquiry.

This discovery was made by the Cook county officials when dispatches announced that Gov. Marshall had sent a telegram to Judge W. C. McMahon of the Circuit court at Crown Point advising him to take steps to stop a scheduled bout between Danny Goodman and Clarence Forbes at the Columbia Athletic club of West Hammond. The fight is billed for tonight.

The judge notified Sheriff Thomas Grant of Lake county to stop the bout, and the sheriff reported back that the clubhouse in West Hammond was on the Illinois side of the state line and that he was powerless in the case.

"But there have been fights at the club," replied the judge; "at least, I have seen reports of them."

"That is because they have been advertised from Hammond and have been pulled off in West Hammond," replied the sheriff.

Cook County Gets Tip.

Then the Cook county authorities were communicated with.

"If we have been deceived," said Deputy Sheriff Peters, "and if ten round bouts have been pulled off in this county we will investigate and make it lively for the promoters. I never have heard of the fine point of a bout being advertised for Hammond and fought out on this side.

"If this has been the case, the bouts will stop right now. I will see that a posse is sent to our side of the state line tonight and there will be no fight in Illinois."

It was reported that the authorities of the club have learned of the complaint to the Illinois authorities and that an effort will be made to have the fight on the Indiana side, now that the authorities there are expecting it to be arranged on the Illinois side of the state line.

SOLDIERS BEGIN RIFLE TEST FOR NATIONAL COMPETITION.

Preliminary Marksmanship Practice Results in John G. Grika Making Best Average at Fort Sheridan.

The preliminary competition in the annual northern rifle shoot at Fort Sheridan was begun yesterday. Further tests will be held today, then from Monday to Thursday the regular competitive events are scheduled and a team of thirty will be selected to represent the northern division in the army shoot, which begins Aug. 2.

The eastern, southern, western, and Pacific divisions will compete with the northern division then. The army of the Philippines will not be represented as last year.

The first two days' practice is to familiarize the soldiers with the range. The highest average made yesterday was 266 points out of a possible 300 by John G. Grika, corporal in company I, Nineteenth infantry.

K. C. MEN PLAN GREAT PICNIC.

Expect 5,000 Members and Friends at Outing Tomorrow at Rock Run Park, Near Joliet.

No fewer than 5,000 members of different councils of the Knights of Columbus are planning to attend the first annual joint outing and picnic of the St. Cyr day and Daniel Dowling councils of the order, which will be held tomorrow at Rock Run park. The park is on the Rock Island road, six miles from Joliet.

Many athletic events have been arranged, including a ball game between the nines of Calumet council, the champions of the K. C. league, and Daniel O'Connell council.

The events will be in charge of a committee composed of the following members of the two councils giving the picnic: E. J. Engler, chairman; John Gerber, J. J. Wathier, John Sweeney, R. J. Longmore, Charles Kennedy, W. Birchler, R. E. Crotty, W. McGregor, C. C. Doyle, H. Bonfield, T. J. McNally and J. A. Bulger.

GIRL LOCKED UP IN BUILDING.

Screams "Murder" from Window and Runs Away When Firemen Rescue Her.

Engine company No. 1 had a call to the factory of the Duck Brand company, 316 Franklin street, at 1 o'clock this morning and when it arrived it found a woman standing in a window on the eighth floor screaming "murder." Pipemen Peter Corrigan and James Curtell went up the fire escape and carried the woman to the sidewalk below, whereupon she ran south in Franklin street and disappeared. The firemen think the young woman is an employé of the Duck Brand company and that, being a foreigner, she was unable to summon help when locked in the building by mistake, save by shouting "fire" and "murder."

CATCH THIEF WITH HAMMOCKS.

Englewood Detectives Surprise Two Back Porch Raiders, but One Makes Escape.

Two men, who for several months have been stealing hammocks from back porches and disposing of them, were caught last evening by Detectives Prendergast and McGuire of the Englewood police station with twelve hammocks in their possession. One of the men wrenched himself free after the detectives had stopped them as they were emerging from an alley, but the other, Frank Destero, an Italian, was taken to the station, after a desperate fight. He confessed that he and his companion had been disposing of the hammocks at a place which he refused to reveal.

SAVING ON ATHLETIC HELPS

Manual School Boys May Make Apparatus for Use of Pupils.

GARTZ'S PLEA IS EFFECTIVE

Appropriation Made for Electrical Work in Lane Institution.

When you were a school boy did you require patented jumping horses, costly flying rings, and expensive adjustable ladders to exercise your muscles and train your eye and hand to quick action? You probably did not, and no more do the schoolboys of the present generation, according to Adolph F. Garts of the Chicago board of education.

Mr. Garts made a plea before the buildings and grounds committee of the board yesterday for old fashioned physical education and the plea may have the effect of lopping off thousands of dollars of annual expenditures for costly gymnasium apparatus for the Chicago public schools.

The question of physical education came up with a proposal to appropriate approximately $1,000 to furnish additional gymnasium apparatus to several schools. The appropriation was asked to replace articles such as horizontal bars, ladders, dumbbells, Indian clubs, wands, and rings. It costs the board thousands of dollars every year to purchase such gymnasium supplies from the manufacturers.

May Be Made by Schoolboys.

"Mr. Chairman, isn't it possible for our schoolboys to train their eyes and hands and to obtain physical culture without expensive patented appliances?" demanded Mr. Garts. "And isn't it possible for our repair department to turn out bars, ladders, flying rings, dumbbells, clubs, and wands at less expense than we pay in fancy prices to manufacturers of athletic apparatus? I think it can, and that expensive patented appliances are unnecessary."

"I think it might be done profitably," declared by Architect Dwight H. Perkins.

The matter was discussed, and the committee delegated Henry Suder, supervisor of physical culture, and Trustees Greifenhagen, Garts, and McFatrich to investigate athletic and gymnasium equipment in the schools and to act in the matter as they see fit.

More Money for Lane School.

A recommendation for an appropriation of $1,000 for extra electrical work at the Lane technical high school brought a mild protest from Trustee Spiegel.

"At every committee meeting for the last six months," he said, "we have been asked to appropriate from several hundred to several thousand dollars for extra equipment for the Lane technical high school. The original appropriation for the school was $500,000. We expended that and then the appropriation was raised to $750,000. That is spent, and I venture to say when we are through we will have expended $100,000 above the last figure. It's time to call a halt."

Architect Perkins made an explanation which satisfied the committee.

"The trouble is that the school originally was planned to accommodate 1,400 pupils," he said. "We have 1,800 there now, and considerable additional equipment is needed. Most of the appropriations have been expended for educational equipment recommended by the superintendent's office."

"Well, that alters the case, then, though it does seem that the expenditure per capita is pretty high," said Mr. Spiegel.

Then the appropriation was passed.

SARATOGA SPRINGS CASE UP AT SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

Hughes Calls Tribunal to Determine Action Begun by State to Prevent Pumping of Carbonic Acid Gas.

Albany, N. Y., July 23.—With a view to bringing about a prompt trial of the pending actions instituted by the state to prevent the continued pumping of carbonic acid gas at Saratoga Springs, Gov. Hughes today called an extraordinary special term of the Supreme court to be held in Albany on Sept. 20.

The action followed a suggestion by the commissioners of the Saratoga state reservation, appointed recently by the governor to acquire springs at the Spa for which $600,000 was authorized by the legislature. The commissioners, Spencer Trask, Edward M. Shepard, and F. N. Godfrey, state that under the continued pumping they cannot correctly value the spring properties or proceed to acquire them, and will not do so until the validity and effect of the anti-pumping law shall be settled.

Pointing out that for many years Saratoga was by far the most important health and summer resort in the United States, the commission says:

"There seems to be no doubt that these advantages to the state and to Saratoga itself have in late years been largely lost by reason of the interference with the natural flow of the waters by those desiring to make some springs profitable at the expense of others. It is the view of some experts—although this view we are not prepared to accept—that if the present situation continues much longer the reputation of the springs at Saratoga will be entirely lost."

The Telephone Way of transacting business means a saving of many dollars every day to any concern. It also means the making of many dollars which always come with increased trade. It is the quick way—the convenient way—and the sensible way. ELIOT'S RELIGION IS HELD NOT NEW

One Chicago Pastor Asserts He Has Preached It Here for Thirty Years.

OTHERS DECLARE IT HAZY

Reformed Jews Approve, but Evangelical Clergy Insist on Christ's Divinity.

Many views, some of them widely divergent, obtain among Chicago theologians regarding the theories and prophecies given to the world by Charles William Eliott, president emeritus of Harvard university, in his recent lecture entitled "The New Religion."

By one man he was called a "visionary" and an "arm chair critic"; another man called his theories "hazy" and his prophecies "ancient history." A Jewish rabbi declared that Prof. Eliot's "New Religion" is almost identical with one of the oldest forms of worship in the world, and a Unitarian minister said the whole thing is no more than what he himself has been preaching for thirty years right here in Chicago.

Among all the ministers who were interviewed the man whose opinion differed most widely from the views expressed by Prof. Eliot is the Rev. John A. Morison, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

"I may say in answer to what Prof. Eliot has put forward as the principles of a new religion," he said, "that I am disposed to think we must lay much stress and emphasis upon the things which we know have existed for a long time. We cannot brush away, with one sweep of the hand, the truths which have been received by a majority of the thinking world for centuries.

Holds to Divinity of Christ.

"The consensus of opinion among theologians is a strong belief in the divinity of Christ, and I think you will find a majority of the churchmen of the world agree with me in this. It seems strange to me that a man of Dr. Eliot's erudition should choose one single verse among all the preachings of Paul to emphasize his point and utterly disregard other verses in the same chapter which tend to contradict the quoted verse. He has chosen Acts xvii., 28, whereas in all fairness and in order not to be misleading he should have given reference to all the verses in that chapter from the twenty-second to the thirty-first, for it is only from the whole context that Paul's meaning can be determined.

"Dr. Eliot has retired, I understand, from the activities of life, and has become a sort of arm chair critic. As an old man it is permissible and right that he should see visions, for it has been the prerogative of aged men from the time of the ancient prophets to have visions, and we hope and trust Dr. Eliot's visions may always be good and make for the betterment of mankind.

Praises the Catholic Church.

"The churches today that are really doing things are those that hold strictly to the transcendency of God and the divinity of Jesus Christ, and believe a change comes into the hearts of human beings through an understanding of the divinity of Christ—call it conversion or whatever else you will.

"The Roman Catholic church never has been stronger than it is today, and that church always has held strongly to these doctrines. All the orthodox churches hold essentially to the same beliefs, and it is by them that the greatest good is done to mankind. The essential and important thing in religion is to save men, and there is no other power so influential in this purpose as the belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ.

"In my opinion those societies or associations which are doing the most for the uplift of man are those which are imbued with strong faith in the divinity. Take the Presbyterian hospital, for an example. There we treat every year hundreds of poor persons who are not able to pay for the care they receive. The hospital board acts upon the theory that Christ taught and preached—namely, to minister unto the least of men.

"For myself, I hold strongly to the divinity of Jesus Christ, and there are many men today who are giving up their lives to help their fellow beings who are actuated solely by this same faith."

Says He Contradicts Himself.

Another criticism of Dr. Eliot's philosophy, from a somewhat different point of view, was given by Bishop Samuel Fallows of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church.

"Prof. Eliot's statements seem to be rather hazy as to their philosophy and theology," he said. "In the first place the religion which he predicts for the future eliminates entirely the supernatural and leaves men to obey simply the laws of nature.

"He tells men they should be of service to each other. He eliminates all dogma and creed. He contradicts himself in many places. He says there will be no deification of the individual, and yet in another part of his lecture he goes on to say that the law of God and man must be the predominating principle. But if the supernatural is eliminated, then I fail to see how he can have any belief in God left. Of course his reference to the deification of an individual means the divinity of Jesus Christ.

"I believe with Prof. Eliot that happiness, cheerfulness, and optimism should be the ruling forces of life. I believe too that we should pay more attention to this world, that is, we should not think the less of this world because we are looking forward to a future life."

Compares Eliot with Prophets.

From the viewpoint of the reformed Jewish church, as expressed by Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber, there is no need for a new religion so long as Judaism exists, although he professes to find many parallels between the cult proposed by Prof. Eliot and the religion of the prophets.

"The religion of the prophets," Dr. Schanfarber said, "contains all the elements needed for the moral guidance of man. No higher creed can be found than that of the prophet Micah, 'To do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with thy God.' This is sufficient and man need not try to add to it.

"In recent years there have been not a few so-called new religions. There was the ethical culture movement, which professed to bring new and higher conceptions of religion. Of this, as of all others with like pretensions, it may be said that what is new is not true and what is true is not new.

"Dr. Eliot said the religion of the future will give more attention to the present life and will be concerned less with that after death. That would be more like Judaism, which is a present day religion, placing emphasis on correct life today and happiness today.

Authority Needed in Religion.

"I take it that Dr. Eliot seeks freedom from authority. Some authority always will be needed or there will develop extreme individualism, which means religious anarchy.

"I agree with Dr. Eliot that sacraments are superfluous. Reformed Judaism has no sacraments, places no weight on ceremonials. It is a religion of the inner man, such a religion as that of the future must be. This religion must contain a proper balance of head and heart. For where it is all head and no heart, we have fanatics, cold and merciless, and without feeling or sympathy. And where it is all heart and no head, there are the emotionalists, carried away by unreasoning storms of passion. Where Prof. Eliot makes the statement that 'God will be so immanent that no intermediary will be needed,' he is simply reiterating a part of the Jewish creed, for in Judaism there is no intermediary in the form of man."

Approved by Rabbi Hirschberg.

Another Jewish rabbi, Dr. Abram Hirschberg, of the North Chicago Hebrew congregation, finds himself in full accord with Prof. Eliot's views.

"From what I have seen of Prof. Eliot's remarks," he said, "I should say it is only a reiteration of what Judaism has stood for during all the centuries since its foundation. We of the Reformed Jewish church believe all religions have been gradually growing to conform more and more to ours and to accept the faith of Judaism, and as for myself, I am in thorough accord with all that Prof. Eliot has said."

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, pastor of All Souls' Independent church, in discussing Prof. Eliot's views, said:

"Why does he call it a new religion? It is just what I have been preaching right here in Chicago for the last thirty years. There is nothing new in what Dr. Eliot has to say. These doctrines are the foundation of faith and the convictions of all thinking men, for it is the only sensible belief."

"Straw Man" Knocked Down.

The Rev. Hugh T. Kerr of Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian church said:

"Prof. Eliot has set up a straw man and then proceeds to knock him down. The preaching of today is not based on saint worship. It is based on human experience, and this experience can be scientifically demonstrated. Prof. Jeames has made scientific tests of religion, proving infallibly its effect upon the human mind. But I take exception to Dr. Eliot's statement that conversion will become obsolete, for if that be true, what then will become of those grand, good teachers, Paul, Wesley, Luther, Bunyan, and others?

"We preach today a loving God and a social religion. We preach that no man can go to heaven alone. Prof. Eliot, is a reactionary when he asserts that we stand in need of a new religion, for Christianity is not worn out yet. It is not obsolete, nor has it failed. The test of Christianity is 'By their fruits ye shall know them'; and Christianity must be tested by its power to save men. If it succeeds in this, and I say it has, then it should be more firmly established than ever."

Is for Practical Religion.

The Rev. Austin K. de Blois of First Baptist church said: "Each generation must have its own conception of religion and the Deity, though through all the ages God remains the same. The tendency of the times is towards development from within, but there must always be some authority. In the early days of Christianity the church was the authority supreme, until the Protestant church came into the field, and now the authority rests with God and Jesus Christ.

"To say that there shall be no personal God borders upon pantheism, because God must be personal. What we need in the Christian religion is more practicality and more reality. Today the tendency is too much toward the metaphysical interpretation of the scriptures, despite the opposition of the leaders of religious thought. We must apply our religion in a direct and practical way towards the needs of the humble—in other words, interpret our duty as it was preached by Jesus Christ, and not go in for metaphysics and pure vagaries."

Doctrine Taught by Paul.

The Rev. William T. McElveen of Evanston Congregational church said:

"In the first place, Prof. Eliot quotes the apostle Paul, so you see that, after all, he hasn't said anything new. He has, in fact, said nothing that has not been said many times before. I think there will be a new religion, but it will simply be a development of the Christian religion, for we have not exhausted the possibilities of that, by any means. Prof. Eliot has simply taken a new phase of the question, one that has not been exploited much as yet, but as far it being a new cult, I fail to see wherein there is anything new."

RIDICULES ELIOT'S PROPHECY.

Trenton, N. J., July 23.—[Special.]—Bishop James A. McFaul, head of the Catholic diocese of Trenton, who recently created a sensation by his statements relating to the moral status of students of American colleges, today answered the suggestion of a new religion made by President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard in his address before the Harvard summer school of theology. After reading a summary of the address by Dr. Eliot the bishop gave this interview:

"It appears that Dr. Eliot now has assumed the rôle of prophet. I am sorry for this, because I always have highly esteemed Dr. Eliot and have observed that modern prophets are not successful. It would be ludicrous were it not so pitiable to hear a man of Dr. Eliot's reputed learning and character outlining the 'church of the future.' God help humanity when it has to deal with so-called 'religion of the future.'

"Catholics always have held that religion is a necessity, that it has been just as necessary in the past and is just as necessary in the present as it will be in the future. The doctor says that the religion of the future will be bound by no dogma or creed. In that case it will be a sort of nondescript, jellyfish religion. It would be hard to find, not easily caught, and difficult to retain."

Royal Couple Whose Romance Is Worthy of Story Books: Spanish Government Degrades Prince in Spite of King.

Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans

Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha

The recent marriage of Prince Alfonso, son of Infanta Eulalia, and cousin of the king of Spain, to Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg was preceded by several scenes between King Alfonso and his cabinet. The king endeavored to secure a papal dispensation for the marriage of his cousin to a Protestant princess, but found his efforts blocked at the vatican by his ministers. Failing to get what they wanted from the pope, the young couple, with the connivance of the king, were married secretly. The news of the marriage got out, however, and King Alfonso's ministers announced the prince's degradation in the Spanish army.

CAMPERS ARE GIVEN WARNING

The Rev. W. E. Biederwolf Advises Them of the Future.

WIND SHAKES THE TENTS.

One Meeting at Desplaines Has to Be Changed to Safer Place.

"If hell was a place of green tables and ice chests, with beer on tap, you'd believe in it, but the hell that God tells you about you don't like, and so you say you don't believe in it, and that settles it," said Dr. W. E. Biederwolf at the Desplaines camp meeting last evening before a great throng.

"If you find a man," he continued, "who goes out of his way to deny the judgment of God, and keeps his little garden hose turned towards the other world to put out the fires of hell, you can bank on it that there is something wrong in his life. If people spent less time in trying to find out where sin came from and more time in trying to get rid of it, the difference in their lives would make up for the disappointment in the lack of knowledge.

"People talk about ethical culture, and sewer gas, and ventilation, as though all the rascals lived on the Bowery and all the ethical models lived on Fifth avenue. No one denies that there is some good in all of these things, but not as a substitute for God's plan of getting rid of sin.

"I wouldn't give one of the revelations of God for 200,000,000 trainloads of the opinions of men. 'He that covereth his sin shall not prosper.'"

Would Guard Boys.

Character building was vigorously commented on by the Rev. Dr. C. H. Morrison. "I don't want to put my boys in a cage of steel where they cannot by any possibility drink whisky nor smoke vile cigarets, but I want to instill in them such principles that they will not want to use them.

"God doesn't carry around character in a bucket and dip it out. It takes time to build character and we must submit to the process of being put through the grinding mill.

"When I was a young man I was a 'trunk' member of the Methodist church, that is I had my letter in a trunk. I went to a Presbyterian church and confessed my sins. The next day the Methodist preacher and all the women of the church were after me. They would have let me go to hell, but not to the Presbyterian church. A hand shake and a little love would have won me long before.

"A worldly minded bejeweled young lady once said to me, 'God is so good that he wouldn't send me to hell.' I said to her, 'If you go to heaven with the character you now have you would run the angels down and pluck out their wings and put the feathers in your hat.' What we need is not to be saved from hell, but from sin."

Mrs. O. R. Irish, a returned missionary from Kiu Kiang, China, gave the address at the Woman's Foreign Missionary society meeting. She told a story of the tortures and the final conversion of Chundra Lela, a Hindu woman.

Wind Shakes Tents.

The Rev. J. O. Randall was obliged to transfer the young people's meeting from the Epworth league tent to the main auditorium, as the tent poles shook so much in the wind that it was thought unsafe to risk them.

Preparations are being made for the entertainment of the crowds of people who are expected to visit the grounds today. All who can spare any room in their cottages are offering to entertain. Several rooms in the preachers' cottage have been set aside and marked "reserved."

The story of how the Rev. Dr. W. A. Phillips, a prominent Methodist preacher, pastor of the Auburn Park Methodist church, got aboard the wrong train and spent the day at a German picnic instead of spending it on the Methodist camp grounds brought amusement to the Desplaines worshipers during the morning.

Woman's foreign missionary work was discussed during the day. Mrs. Hale Volintine was chairman of the meeting, which was held at 2 o'clock. A quartet of women from the Granville avenue church sang.

The early morning consecration meeting was led by the Rev. E. E. Farmilloe. The sermon at 10:30 was preached by the Rev. Dr. Grover C. Clark of Mayfair.

PRINTERS ROLL IN WEALTH

Chicago Union Hears Average Earnings Are $897 a Year.

COMPLY WITH 10 HOUR LAW.

Officials of Armour & Co. to Regulate Women's Work.

That prosperity has been the rule in the printers' trade during the last year was shown in a report made by Secretary-Treasurer J. W. Hays of the International Typographical union, which was received yesterday by officers of the Chicago Typographical union No. 16.

The report shows that the average earnings of each member of the union for the year was $897, which probably is the highest annual average of any organized trade in the country. The average number of members in good standing during the year, the report states, was 44,921, and the average membership for the last three months is given as 47,174.

The average annual income of the printers for the year is calculated from the one-half of one per cent tax every member of the union pays on his wages into the old age pension fund of the international union. A total of $69,550 was paid out for old age pensions during the year, leaving a balance in the pension fund of $159,767.

Comply with Ten Hour Law.

Officials of Armour & Co. during the day notified Edgar T. Davies, chief of the state department of factory inspection, that they are satisfied with Mr. Davies' ruling on the application of the new ten hour law to the women employed in the various departments of the stockyards packing plant and that they will comply with the law at once.

"The law and the ruling of Mr. Davies are perfectly satisfactory to the company," said an attaché of the legal department. "The ten hour arrangement, however, will be a hardship on many women and girls in the busy season, when they have a chance of making up the wages they lose in dull seasons, when the hours are cut short.

"Many of the girls clamor for a chance of working overtime so as to equalize their pay and make up for their short pay in dull seasons. We shall comply with the law, however."

The striking car repairers at the E., J. and E. shops at Joliet, who walked out a week ago demanding a ten hour day instead of eight hours, will return to work this morning under the old conditions. This action was decided upon by the strikers following a conference between a committee and Superintendent Harrigan. Two hundred and fifty men were involved.

Denies Madden a New Trial.

Martin B. ("Skinny") Madden, Fred A. Pouchot, and M. J. Boyle, convicted of conspiracy to extort $1,000 from the Joseph Klicka company in connection with the calling and settling of a strike at the company's plant, were denied a motion for a new trial by Judge McSurely.

Only Boyle and Pouchot were present in court, Madden, the two defendants said, being in New York on business. Arguments on the motion were made by Attorney David K. Tone, who was granted time until next September in which to file an appeal to the Appellate court.

Attorney Tone cited a large number of alleged technical errors, which, he contended, entitled the defendants to a new trial. State's Attorney Wayman, who opposed the motion, said:

"The evidence showed that the defendants represented to Joseph Klicka that they had the power in consideration of a sum of money to call off the strike. We produced evidence here showing that they did not have the right to settle any strike in consideration of any sum of money."

The jury fixed a fine of $500 against the convicted labor leaders.

Chicago Canners Are Healthy.

Commenting on the mysterious disease which caused the death of two girls working in a canning establishment in Baltimore, as reported in a dispatch from that city, officials of Armour & Co. said no disease of a mysterious nature ever had come under the observation of the company's medical department at the canning plant at the Chicago stockyards.

ALTMAN INDICTMENTS IN COURT

Vincent A. Charged with Exploding "Bomb 31" and Included in Brother's Case.

Formal return was made yesterday by the grand jury of the indictment of Vincent A. Altman, assistant business agent of local 58 of the carpenters' union, charged with the explosion of "bomb 31" in the rear of the Chicago Telephone company's Central exchange. As he already is under heavy bonds no capias for his arrest was issued, but he was notified to appear at the office of the clerk of the Criminal court and renew his bonds.

Joseph Altman, brother of Vincent, also was indicted with his brother on the charge of causing an explosion at the plant of the Standard Sash and Door company a year ago. The charges against the brothers are malicious mischief and destroying property with explosives.

State's Attorney Wayman said that, so far as he is concerned, there is nothing new in the case, but it was rumored that the police expect to produce testimony to the effect that the explosives alleged to have been used by one or both of the Altmans were stolen from a powder concern.

FIGHTING MOORS KILL SPANIARDS

Tribesmen Attack Before Dawn and Are Repelled After Furious Battle.

OFFICERS AMONG SLAIN.

Warfare Is Renewed in Afternoon and Africans Score a Decisive Victory.

MELILLA, Morocco, July 23.—An official statement issued this evening concerning the fight between the Spaniards and the Kabyle tribesmen says that before dawn this morning the Moors opened a general attack on the Spanish advanced positions, concentrating their efforts against Sidi Musa and the garrison at Cape Moreno.

The fighting was of the most furious character, but a sortie by six companies of Spanish infantry and a light field battery was successful and the enemy fell back two kilometers.

In the fighting a Spanish colonel and three other officers were killed and thirteen wounded. The number of casualties among the enlisted men is not known. Newly debarked troops have been hurried to the front.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon the Moors renewed their attack and defeated the Spanish troops. Under a galling fire by the Moors they were unable to hold the ground they had gained and at nightfall, in order to avoid disaster, retreated to their old positions.

Needs 40,000 More Troops.

MADRID, July 23.—It is reported that Gen. Marina, commander of the Spanish forces at Melilla, has informed the government that he will require 40,000 men to insure a decisive defeat over the Moorish tribesmen.

The persons arrested yesterday in connection with the demonstrations against the departure of the troops will be charged with sedition and tried before a court martial.

The outside world, the government officials declare, should understand, however, that the Liberals and Republicans are exploiting the unpopularity of the war for political purposes and are suspected by the authorities of inciting the reservists, who were forced in many cases to leave their families without support, to resistance.

In response to a telegram from a group of Liberal and Republican deputies demanding the convocation of parliament, Premier Maura replied that, without desiring to ignore parliament, he considers that the demand was based on a false conception of the situation, as events in Africa in no wise modified the policy of the government.

The government today announced the opening of subscriptions throughout the country for the benefit of families of reservists sent to Melilla.

Troops Mutiny Before King.

HENDAYE, France, July 23.—Mail advices from Madrid tonight say that the demonstrations against the war in Morocco continued Wednesday and Thursday. When King Alfonso visited the barracks to say farewell to the soldiers bound for Morocco, the troops and their wives made violent manifestations.

Three companies of chasseurs mutinied and threatened the officers, who tried to quell the trouble, but finally were surrounded and deprived of their cartridges. During the rioting at the railway station the crowds shouted, "Down with the war," and tried to wreck the cars. Troops were ordered up to aid the police in restoring order. During the manifestations women and children were trampled under foot and many of them were injured.

TAFT'S CHINESE LOAN ACTION STIRS UP FLOWERY KINGDOM.

Regent Realizes Now if Drifting Policy Continues Less Friendly Warnings from Rulers May Follow.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 24, 8 a. m.—The Peking correspondent of the Times says President Taft's telegram concerning the Chinese loan has stirred up the Chinese. Upon its reception the regent for the first time summoned the whole of the board of foreign affairs in audience and showed considerable anxiety, for if this policy to drift continues he realizes that he may receive less friendly warnings direct from other rulers.

Prince Ching, whose neglect of his high duties as president of the board of foreign affairs does China much dishonor, discussed affairs with the British minister, Sir John Jordan, on Tuesday, for the first time since the latter's arrival three years ago. Sir John gravely warned him of the risk China is running by failure to enforce the orders of the central government upon the provinces.

President Taft's telegram was directly due to the intrigues of the Deutsch-Asiatische bank, whose influence over the Hongkong and Shanghai banks is injurious to British interests in China. Their agent induced Chang Chih Tung to write a dispatch to the board of foreign affairs, saying that unless arrangements speedily were made with America respecting participation in the loan he would proceed to attach his signature to the final contract, notwithstanding American protest, or would relinquish the scheme altogether.

This dispatch, coupled with the uncertain action of the board of foreign affairs, promptly was cabled to Washington and called forth Taft's excellent and opportune message.

KING TO VISIT WHITELAW REID.

Will Spend Week-End with American Ambassador and Wife at Country Place.

BEDFORD, England, July 23.—The greatest interest is being manifested throughout Bedfordshire over the impending week end visit which King Edward will pay to Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid at Wrest park.

On his majesty's arrival tomorrow at Silsoe, the little village at the gates of Wrest park, the municipal and school authorities and the county magistrates will present an address of welcome, to which King Edward will make a brief reply.

As is usual on his week end visits, King Edward has requested that Sunday be observed quietly. He will attend services in the little parish church of Silsoe with the members of the house party and probably will make a short motor tour of the surrounding country.

The boy scouts of Bedfordshire will form a guard of honor when his majesty attends the services at Silsoe, lining the route from the park gates to the church.

BIG BANK MERGER IN LONDON.

Institutions Combined Have Capital of $110,000,000 and Deposits in Excess of $355,000,000.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 23.—The London and Westminster and the London County banks have been amalgamated under the title of the London County and Westminster bank, with subscribed capital of $110,000,000 and combined deposits which exceed $355,000,000.

The amalgamation is regarded as one of the most important mercantile combinations ever recorded in London. The banks together cover about 106 branches in Greater London, while the London and County bank maintains nearly 200 branches in the provinces.

It is understood that a group of financiers in London has acquired control of an important combination of Russian banks having seventy branches in European and Asiatic Russia. The negotiations succeeded largely through sympathy in high quarters with London financiers, despite the severe opposition of German financiers, which hitherto was all powerful in Russia.

BRIAND NAMES NEW CABINET

French Premier Announces Ministry to President Fallieres.

M. CAILLAUX ELIMINATED.

Modification of Income Tax Part of Financial Policy.

PARIS, July 23.—After a day of conferences, Aristide Briand formed a new French ministry and officially announced the success of his endeavors to President Fallieres at 10 o'clock tonight. The new cabinet is made up as follows:

Premier and minister of the interior and of public worship—M. Briand.
Minister of justice—M. Barthou.
Minister of foreign affairs—M. Pichon.
Minister of finance—Georges Cochery.
Minister of education—M. Doumergue.
Minister of public works, posts, and telegraphs—M. Millierand.
Minister of commerce—Jean Dupuy.
Minister of agriculture—M. Ruau.
Minister of the colonies—M. Trouillot.
Minister of labor—M. Viviani.

The portfolios of war and the navy will be filled tomorrow morning. These have been offered to Gen. Brun and Admiral Boue de La Payrere and both are expected to accept.

One Post to Be Suppressed.

The post of under secretary of posts and telegraphs, which was held by M. Simyan, whose resignation was demanded during the recent strike of postmen and telegraphers by the Socialists, will be suppressed. An under secretaryship of finance will be created and the office given to Rene Renoult. M. Dujardin-Beaumetz will remain as under secretary of public instruction and beaux arts.

M. Briand had considerable difficulty in appeasing the appetites aroused by the fall of the cabinet and only satisfied the radicals who charged him with being a Socialist by the statement:

"I intend to complete the work of the Clemenceau cabinet and carry out the wishes of the president and form a republican cabinet committed to republican policies."

M. Caillaux, minister of finance in the old cabinet, laid down certain conditions relating to his again accepting the portfolio, which M. Briand could not grant, and besides the opposition in the senate to Caillaux's draft of the income tax bill made it advisable to substitute M. Cochery, who was minister of finance in the Meline cabinet of 1896-98. It is announced that M. Cochery's selection does not mean the abandonment of the income tax measure, but its modification on lines more acceptable to the senate.

Would Appease Labor and Capital.

A ministerial declaration, which was formulated and unanimously accepted by the members of the new cabinet, contains an important statement indicating that the cabinet is committed to an attempt to end the war between labor and capital, which has disturbed France for so many years.

An official note says this declaration, after quoting the famous remarks of M. Waldeck-Rousseau, "capital must work and labor possess," insists upon the necessity of an alliance between labor and capital and the avoidance of every cause of conflict; that the members of the cabinet, regardless of their political affiliations, resolve with the aid of parliament to ameliorate the moral and material wellbeing of the workers as far as in their power lies, but that the accomplishment of this end will depend upon the support of the workers themselves; that the latter must give security to capital, or otherwise undertakings will be abandoned and the economic development of the country arrested.

MANY WORKERS ARE BURIED IN COLLAPSE OF BUILDING.

Three Bodies Are Recovered from the Ruins of Structure Which Fell in the Russian Capital.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—A six-story house in course of construction here fell today, burying a large number of workmen in the ruins.

Three bodies were recovered and fourteen others are definitely known to be still buried under the debris.

Altogether twenty-three men are still unaccounted for. Eight of the injured have been sent to hospitals. Several bodies are in view of the rescuers, but the work of recovering them is conducted with great difficulty owing to the danger of further collapses.

This is the third similar catastrophe within recent years of buildings in the charge of a man who makes a specialty of reconstructing old edifices.

DEATH FOR INDIAN SLAYER.

Dhingra, Fanatic Who Killed Sir William Wyllie in London, Is Sentenced.

LONDON, July 23.—Madarlal Dhingra, the fanatic Indian student who shot and killed Lieut. Col. Sir William Wyllie and Dr. Cawas Lalcaca today was found guilty and sentenced to death.

During the recital of the occurrences at the Imperial institute on the night of the tragedy the prisoner declared:

"Whatever I did was an act of patriotism."

At the close of the evidence Dhingra asked that the statement in justification of his act that he made in the police court July 10 should be read.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

LONDON.—The man whom an American visitor saw outside a jewelry shop here on July 15, and identified as Leon Ling, the Chinaman suspected of the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York, has been proved to be a Japanese financier.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The first anniversary of the granting of the Turkish constitution was celebrated throughout the country today as a national holiday and the sultan reviewed 15,000 troops.

VIENNA.—The Countess Szechenyi, who was Gladys Vanderbilt of New York is coming to Vienna at the end of July to remain ten days in a sanitarium. Her ailment is not serious.

VIENNA.—Private telegrams from Belgrade, Servia, say that King Peter is seriously ill and his sudden death would cause no surprise.

BABY RESTLESS AND SUFFERING

With Severe Eczema—Spread from Face All Over Scalp—Developed Into a Solid Scab and Her Ears Seemed Ready to Come Off.

PERMANENTLY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

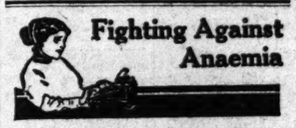

"My baby suffered about three weeks and she was in a very bad condition. The eczema commenced on her face and spread all over the scalp. It was a solid scab and sore, and her little ears looked as though they would come off. She was very fretful and could rest but very little. She would rub her little ears and head much of the time. She looked awfully bad. We then heard of the Cuticura Remedies and I bought some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I decided to give them a trial. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. At the time I commenced to use the Cuticura Remedies she was in a very bad fix. I began the treatment by bathing with Cuticura Soap three times a day and also used Cuticura Ointment after each bath, and it was but a few days before we began to find out she was improving. She continued to improve and in about three weeks she was entirely cured and has not been troubled with any skin disease since. She was at that time about three months old and she is now three years and two months and is a fine, fat baby girl. I will gladly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who is suffering from that terrible disease and I give to Cuticura many thanks. I will gladly tell of her cure to any one who will ask or write about it. Mrs. M. M. Reynolds, Box 40, R. F. D. 2, Windsor, Va., Oct. 20 and Nov. 6, 1908."

MORRIS & CO. GIVE BOND ISSUE DEED

Packers Secure $25,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds with All Properties.

ACQUIRES TWO CORNERS.

Louis Falkenau Contemplating Erection of Apartment Houses on the South Side.

Record was made yesterday of the trust deed given by Morris & Co. to the First Trust and Savings bank and Emile K. Bolsot, trustee, securing an issue of $25,000,000 4½ per cent first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds. The object of the bond issue is stated to be the funding of certain indebtedness, the providing of necessary additions to and improvements upon its manufacturing plants and other corporate purposes, for which there will be an immediate issue of $12,500,000. The further sum of $12,500,000 will be issued as required. The bonds, which are payable July 1, 1939, may be redemmed at the option of the company on any semiannual interest day thereafter by the payment of the principal thereof and all interest due, together with a premium of 3 per cent upon the principal.

A formal conveyance was made at the same time by the Fairbank Canning company by Edward Morris, president, to Morris & Co., comprising the property at the northeast corner of Ashland avenue and Forty-fifth street, 40 acres, with improvements, and other property. This was to arrange title in connection with the bond issue. All the property of the Morris company in Chicago, Kansas City, East St. Louis, and elsewhere was given as security.

Corners to Have Apartments.

Louis Falkenau of the Falkenau Construction company has acquired from John N. Dubach the vacant property at the southeast corner of Ellis avenue and Fifty-first street, 183x164 feet, west front, and from Arthur L. Hardin the property at the southwest corner of the streets named, 183x138½ feet. A nominal consideration was given. While no definite plans have been made regarding the future of the two properties, it is likely they will be improved with high grade apartment house buildings.

Mr. Falkenau conveyed as part payment to Mr. Hardin the high grade flat building in Sixty-fourth street near Ada street and a similar building to Mr. Dubach.

The Cameron-Schroth-Cameron company, wholesale dealers in heating and plumbing supplies at 189-197 Michigan avenue, have leased from Augustus Newman the six story and basement building at Rush, Michigan, and North Water streets, having a total floor area of 76,000 square feet, for a long term at a gross rental of $161,250. Extensive improvements are planned. The property has switch connections with the Chicago and Northwestern road. The lease was negotiated by the Bowes Investment company. The members of this firm formerly were connected with the Kellogg-Mackay-Cameron company.

Add to Ravenswood Holdings.

William E. Harmon & Co. have made an addition of thirty-two acres to their Ravenswood Manor subdivision, acquiring the property from the Northwestern Land association, who also sold to them the sixty acres comprising the original subdivision. The land was acquired several days ago, although no record has been made of the transfer. It was immediately platted, and more than $50,000 worth of lots are reported to have been sold. The addition lies on the east of the main tract and is between Lawrence and Montrose avenues.

Mary B. Hellman of Canton, O., has purchased from Charles A. Darnell of Plano, Ill., the large apartment house building at the southeast corner of Washington avenue and Fifty-sixth street and the leasehold interest in the land, 100x150 feet, for $60,000, subject to an incumbrance of $21,000, which the grantee assumes as part of the consideration. The lease on the land runs for ninety-nine years.

The Merchants Loan and Trust company is understood to have made a loan of $300,000 to the W. M. Hoyt company, wholesale grocers, with interest at 4½ per cent and principal payable at the rate of $25,000 yearly. The money is to be used to complete the building of the Hoyt company at Twenty-second and Grove streets and the river. The building is a five story and basement reinforced concrete structure, with a frontage of 251 feet on Twenty-second street, 475 feet in Grove street, and 350 feet on the Chicago river. It will cost about $400,000.

Conveys Seventy-six Lots.

Sarah E. Pitts, widow of Charles A. Pitts, Long Beach, Cal., conveyed to Mrs. Margaret C. Johnson and Mary M. Prescott Newton a tract of 506x319 feet at the southwest corner of South Park avenue and Seventy-first street, and seventy-five other lots in the same subdivision, a nominal consideration being given.

Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Newton subsequently conveyed the property to Charles M. Harlan, also for a nominal consideration. Mrs. Pitts also quitclaimed to Mrs. Newton the premises at 214 Park avenue, 30x124 feet, with building and contents.

Michael Sieben has sold to August Sikowski the southwest corner of Fullerton avenue and High street, 49x120 feet, north front, with brick improvements for $17,500.

The Berkshire Life Insurance company has sold to Holger Hountsrup the property at 415-423 Fulton street, 116x120 feet, north front, with brick improvements. No consideration is given.

Charles G. and William J. Blake have purchased from the estate of Auguste Leverenz 48x125 feet at the northwest corner of Greenwood avenue and Sixty-seventh street, and the same amount of ground at the northeast corner of the streets named. A nominal consideration is given.

Sells Twelve Acres in Glencoe.

McGuire & Orr have sold about twelve acres on the east side of Glencoe, with ravine running through, to F. MacDonald Lowe for $30,000.

Mary P. Chenoweth of Indianapolis has purchased from Niels C. Jensen and Nels J. Turnquist the apartment house property in Clifton avenue, 306 feet north of Montrose boulevard, with 120x164 feet of ground, west front. The consideration is given at $1, but the sale was subject to an incumbrance of $36,800.

Mrs. Edith Healy Hill and her husband have given a trust deed to Edward F. Dunne to secure a loan of $15,000, five years, but with no interest. It is subject to a prior incumbrance of $50,000, and is secured by the Stone building at the southeast corner of Ashland avenue and West Madison street.

LAKE SHORE TO BE RIGHT HAND ROAD

Will Abandon Its Old Custom of Running Trains on the Left Track.

UNIFORMITY IS THE AIM.

Only One Line in America, the Northwestern, Sticks to English Precedent.

"Left handed" trains will be given up by the Lake Shore railway in a few days. The switches and signals are being rebuilt and all trains will be run on the right hand track, as they are on every other railroad of consequence in the country except one—the Chicago and Northwestern.

"The transfer from the left hand to the right hand track will be made next Sunday or that following," Vice President C. E. Schaff of the Lake Shore said last night. "It has been considered advisable to make the change to secure uniformity of operation on the Lake Shore itself and with other New York Central lines.

"Lake Shore trains now run on the right hand track to Englewood, where they pass over to the left track. At every junction point with another double track railway we find some complications, for the other line always runs right handed."

Asked the reason for the adoption of left handed trains in the first instance, Mr. Schaff said:

"The custom is older on the Lake Shore than I am. It seems to have come down from the first days of the road's history. It is believed it was adopted in imitation of English custom, as roads in Great Britain generally are 'left handed.' I understand the reason there given is that the arrangement throws the engineers on the inside, where they have a better view of other engines and of the track.

"I know of no other road east of Chicago that runs its trains 'left handed,' and, so far as I know, the Northwestern will be the only line in the country continuing the custom when we give it up."

Would Prevent Car Shortage.

Although there are at present 260,000 idle freight cars in the United States, Canada, and Mexico, according to the reports of the American Railway association, traffic tonnage has been increasing so rapidly of late that railroad officials are taking steps to prevent possible car shortage this fall. Especial attention is being devoted to the coal traffic.

Remembering the coal famine of the winter of 1906-1907 in the northwest, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways urge dealers to lay in fuel supplies now, before the fall crop movement begins. The following circular has been issued by the Great Northern:

"We desire to impress upon all concerned the importance of placing orders for and securing movement of coal during the months of July and August, when railway equipment is available, in order to prevent a shortage of transportation facilities this fall.

"The indications point to an exceptionally heavy grain and other traffic movement, and shippers, dealers, and consumers of coal should give this subject of prompt placing of their coal orders and filling to full capacity available storage space careful consideration, as transportation facilities will doubtless be heavily taxed and car shortage created unless as much coal as possible is moved from the docks before the heavy fall business is upon us."

New Local Passenger Service.

Local passenger service between Seattle, Tacoma, and St. Paul probably will be started by the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railway within the next thirty days, according to a statement made by Traffic Manager R. M. Calkins. Through passenger service from Chicago to the Pacific coast is not expected before next summer. Freight shipments from Chicago to Seattle are now sent on the schedule of 176 hours.

It is announced that the daily merchandise car from Chicago to Atlanta, Ga., via the Panhandle, Louisville and Nashville, and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis roads, has been resumed on a schedule of 51½ hours. This car handles less than carload shipments for Atlanta proper, as well as for points in Georgia, Florida and North and South Carolina.

The western roads have decided to extend the final return limit on the reduced summer tourist fares to California from Oct. 31 to Nov. 10, on all tickets sold after Sept. 1.

HIGHER LEVY FOR PAWNERS

Reviewers Look Up Brokers to Increase Assessments.

LEGAL POINT IN PLEDGES.

Loan Banks Protest They Are Not Real Owners of Property.

The board of review began looking up the pawnbrokers of Chicago yesterday with a view to summoning them to show why their assessments should not be raised. The assessors have returned a list of eighty-two pawnbrokers, and the reviewers believe their assessments are far too low.

A legal question is involved in the taxing of the personal property in the possession of pawnbrokers, some of them having set up the claim that they are only "custodians," and should not be assessed for property likely to be redeemed by the real owners within a short time. The board will refer this question to County Attorney Lewis for an opinion prior to calling in the loan bank proprietors.

Of the assessments against pawnbrokers, the largest is that of the First State Pawners' society. The valuation on its personality is placed by the assessors at $440,976, as against $401,382 last year.

Pawner Assessed $200,000.

The Chicago State Pawners' association follows with an assessment of $200,000, as against $175,000 one year ago.

Frank's Collateral Loan bank is assessed at $100,000, being an increase of $25,000 over the assessors' figures of last year. The United States Loan bank of the D. M. Berstein estate was granted a reduction from $18,000 a year ago to $12,500 this year.

One of the heaviest assessed loan banks outside of the loop district is the Alhambra Loan bank, 1916 State street, against which the assessors returned a valuation of $10,500, an increase of $500 over the assessors' figures a year ago. It is believed by the reviewers, however, that the figures on this particular loan bank should be considerably higher, it being located near the "red light" district, where the pawn business is believed to be flourishing.

Would Tax Traction Fund.

William F. Struckmann, assistant county attorney, is preparing to go before the state board of equalization at Springfield in September and demand that the 55 per cent of the net receipts of the Chicago City railway company and the Chicago Railways company which was paid to the city this year be taxed for the benefit of the county, state, sanitary district, parks, and other taxing bodies, which usually share in taxes assessed upon Chicago property.

Mr. Struckmann estimates that such a tax would bring in $360,000, of which the city would get back again for city, school, and library purposes all except $135,000.

Thompson to Aid Suits.

County Treasurer Thompson in ten days will furnish the county attorney's office with a list of names of all persons, firms, and corporations who have failed to file schedules, and County Attorney Lewis will start suit against them at once. A batch of 100 suits, for amounts from $50 to $100 in back taxes, will be started Monday morning.

This year's assessments against the traction companies, compared with the figures of the board of assessors and the board of review for 1908, follow:

	Assessors, 1909.	Reviewers, 1908.	Assessors, 1908.
Chicago Rail'ys. Co.	$20,000,000	$8,322,283	$20,000,000
Chicago City railway company	19,700,000	11,400,000	19,000,000
Chicago Consolidated company	2,775,000	1,811,127	3,594,806

Hearings on the traction companies assessments will be held within the next few weeks. The board also is preparing to summon aldermen and police officials to show why their assessments should not be raised.

ATTEMPTS TO ATTACK VOLIVA.

Follower Goes to Wrong House, Learns Mistake, and Runs to Overseer's Home, for Which He Is Fined.

Albert Davis started out in Zion City yesterday to attack Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva. He went to the wrong house, that of Mrs. Moore. When no one answered his summons he broke a pane of plate glass, only to learn he had made a mistake. He ran to Voliva's house and tried to assault him, but was overpowered and taken into custody. Although his son paid his fine and damages, Davis insisted on remaining in jail.

CHINESE GIRLS HELD AS SLAVES

Two Tell Judge Aged Owners Worked Them 20 Hours a Day and Beat Them.

TAMMANY GETS A JOLT.

Mayor McClellan Vetoes Organization's Pet Building Code.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, July 23.

Two little round cheeked Chinese maids, their almond eyes wide, their straight bangs brushed flat across their foreheads, their black braids, laced with scarlet silk, hanging precisely down the middle of their backs, stood demurely before Justice Wyatt in the Children's court today and swore to a story which left little sympathy in those who heard for the two elderly celestial merchants who reported their "children" missing to the police on last Wednesday night.

Chinese Maids Say They Are Slaves.

For both little girls swore they had been held against their will as household slaves, harshly treated, and forced to work long hours. They were accompanied by an agent of the Children's society, who had found them on the day following their disappearance from Chinatown at an east side parish house. The two made sworn statements which were read today in court. One said: "My name is Moy Yum Toy. By Chinese reckoning I am 15, by American, 14. My father died when I was young, and my mother married again and left me alone with my grandmother, who was extremely poor. I was sold to the wife of Moy See Chai and she brought me over here to America about two years ago, and I have been with her ever since.

"I have had to work hard in the house, making buttons and button loops from early morning until late at night. When I take a rest I get scolded and beaten."

Chin Fing Toy's narrative was similar. She was sold in China for $160, she said, brought to this country and sold again for $500 gold.

"Some mornings," her statement reads, "I had to get up at 7 o'clock and sometimes work right on until 2 o'clock the next morning.

"I would rather die than go back to Mott street.

Neither she nor her companion will have to go back. Pending full investigation of their tale they will be held by the Children's society. Their story has aroused talk of another rigid investigation in Chinatown, which has hardly settled down after the chaos and probing which followed the murder of Elsie Sigel.

Theodore Greenwald, the missing treasurer of the New Lebanon, Conn., school district, blew out his brains today in the New York Central station in the Bronx. He had been missing for a week. A warrant charging him with embezzling $2,500 had been issued.

Mayor McClellan, although a Democrat, jolted Tammany hall today by vetoing the revised building code, a measure recently pushed through the board of aldermen by Tammany. Its almost prohibitive clause concerning fireproofing material which practically gave a monopoly to hollow tiling, and barred cinders and concrete, kicked up a rumpus which reached the massmeeting and billboard stage. The allied real estate interests fought the proposed regulations tooth and nail.

McClellan Vetoes Tammany Measure.

The mayor's action practically kills the code, for to pass it over his disapproval would require a two-thirds vote—sixty members—and the alignment at the meeting at which the code was passed showed the complete strength of its advocates to be only forty. If a new code is drawn it will not be ready until fall and in the meantime the present code remains in force.

Seven reasons are given by the mayor for his veto, but the sixth, relating to fireproofing, was the one around which the political fight centered. Cinders and concrete have been used in many New York buildings with apparent satisfaction, argues the mayor, who does not seem to agree with the makers of the code that these materials are so dangerous as depicted. To settle the question, he has appointed an engineer to make a report on the matter.

Max Ozzine literally was wrung to death in a Hoboken laundry today. His hand caught between two immense rollers, and he was crushed and flattened like a midget garment before aid reached him. He was 55 years old.

The state insurance department will make public tomorrow its report of the investigation just concluded into the affairs of the Casualty Company of America. The examination, the report states, was made as of Dec. 31, 1908, and shows the income and disbursements for the previous twelve months and the assets and liabilities at the beginning of the present year. Supt. Hotchkiss said tonight:

Find Insurance Company Solvent.

"The report shows the Casualty Company of America to be entirely solvent. It is the policy of this department to examine all companies immediately after being apprised of radical changes in their management, and this was the reason for the examination recently ordered. A hearing, held in New York yesterday, at the company's request, resulted in several changes being made in the report, which will be filed in Albany tomorrow."

The views of John S. Wise Jr. as cabled from Paris today on former President Roosevelt entering the New York mayoralty campaign this fall are in line with a report circulated here last spring and again within the last few weeks. Col. Roosevelt's friends in the local Republican ranks have long had him in mind as a candidate, provided he can be induced to lead the fight against Tammany. They believe he possesses sufficient strength among the independent voters and even in the ranks of Tammany Hall itself to make him the most formidable nominee that could be put in the field.

More Talk of Roosevelt for Mayor.

A baby girl with the distinction of having been born in Tarsus, Asia Minor, during the recent Armenian massacre, arrived in New York today. She is Christine, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Adams Gibbons of Hartford, Conn., who came home on the Lusitania. Mr. Gibbons remained in Paris. During the massacres he was at Adana and his wife at Tarsus. Each thought the other killed, but a happy reunion followed.

Austin Business Men Whose Wives Are Away Hold Second Secret Meeting of Season.

The Merry Widowers club, which is said to be composed of twenty-five of Austin's business men, whose wives are out of town, held its second secret meeting of the season in the town park last night.

The officers are said to be John P. Garner, 414 Laurel avenue, president; Daniel F. Ganahan, 5427 Ontario street, treasurer; and W. O. Cline, 216 North Central avenue, secretary.

"This club," said one of the members, "is organized for a harmless good time for those men who can't get away during the summer months."

Child to Unveil Horse Fountain.

ELIZABETH WHIPPLE WHITE.

Elaborate ceremonies will mark the dedication of the horse show fountain in Oak Park, which will be unveiled today by Elizabeth Whipple White, the small daughter of Charles E White Jr., president of the Fine Arts society.

Charles S. Woodard, chairman of the fountain committee, will introduce the speakers. Louis E. Yager, former president of the horse show association, will be orator of the day.

Miss Ethel D. Edmunds, the Oak Park girl who induced the association to set aside $800 for the building of the fountain, will occupy a seat of honor at the exercises, as will also Richard Bock, the sculptor.

JONAH? HE WAS AN AMATEUR! LEGLESS WONDER PROVES IT.

Thrown Into Sea Minus Artificial Limbs, He Regains Them 15 Miles Away and Swims 30 Miles.

Galveston, Tex., July 23.—[Special.]—William Davies of Groveton, Tex., a legless man 29 years of age, furnished the most thrilling experience of any of the storm victims so far recorded. He was a guest at the Tarpon fishing pier, located on the north jetty six miles from Galveston, in the gulf, and with others was thrown into the sea when the big building was demolished by the hurricane.

Before the building collapsed Davis had discarded his two cork legs. Catching some of the débris, he was carried about fifteen miles seaward on the storm tide. Washed time and time again from the raft, when it finally broke up he was sent adrift in the gulf.

Searching about for débris to catch on to he was astounded to see his cork legs floating with the current, but with great presence of mind he grabbed them. With these as supports under his arms, he swam back into the bay and was carried by the tides into Galveston upper bay, thirty miles from where the pier collapsed. Later he was picked up by a boat.

He was in the water thirty hours, twelve of which he was battling with the storm waves. Shortly after being taken out he became delirious, but will recover. Davies lost his legs by being run over by an engine at the world's fair in Chicago, in 1893. He then was 18 years old. His father is a mine inspector in Illinois.

CRACKER TRUST HAS RIVAL WITH $6,000,000 CAPITAL.

New Concern Organized Under Laws of Connecticut Will Fight National Biscuit Company.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—A $6,000,000 biscuit company, which probably will enter into active competition with the National Biscuit company (the cracker trust), was organized in Hartford, Conn., today, papers of organization being filed with the secretary of state. The company is organized under the laws of Connecticut and is called the General Biscuit company. The $6,000,000 capital is to be half common and half preferred stock.

Officers of the new company are: President, John B. Summerfield of the firm of John B. Summerfield & Co., note brokers of 71 Wall street; vice president, Arthur N. Taylor of Brooklyn; and secretary and treasurer, Henry M. Haviland of Brooklyn. Mr. Summerfield is a trustee of the City National bank, Brooklyn, president and director of the Miners' Smelting company, and a director of the W. H. Beard Dredging company.

A. W. Green, president of the National Biscuit company, when asked what effect the new corporation would have on the trust, said:

"I have not heard anything about the organization of this new company and therefore am not in a position to say much about it. I do not see how it can have any effect on the National Biscuit company. We now have more than 200 competitors and we still are doing business."

CHOLERA KILLS WISCONSIN MAN

Death Cuts Short Honeymoon of Roger Whinfield of Fond du Lac.

WIDOW IS QUARANTINED.

Young Woman's Tour of World First Marred July 7 by Father's Demise.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

KOENIGSBERG, Prussia, July 23.—Asiatic cholera of the most virulent type interrupted the honeymoon of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Whinfield of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Daytona, Fla., when the bridegroom died here on Wednesday after a few hours' illness.

Tonight the young widow is held in closest quarantine, lest she spread the germs of the dread disease, even though escaping infection herself. Her husband's body was buried immediately after death, with the greatest privacy, at night, so that the people of the town might not be thrown into a state of panic.

Bride's Father Dies July 7.

An added touch of pathos is given the sad plight of the widowed bride through the fact that her father died in Dresden only sixteen days ago, having come from his home in Pittsburg, Pa., to join her and her husband for the latter part of their honeymoon journey.

The Whinfields were married several months ago and set out for a trip around the world. They came into Prussia across the Russian frontier and it is supposed Mr. Whinfield contracted cholera in Vladivostok, as his baggage, which was seized and fumigated in Dresden, bore labels indicating that place as its last stopping point.

Dead Man Yale Graduate, '95.

Roger Whinfield has relatives in St. Louis, Mo., and other cities in the middle west. He formerly was in business in Fond du Lac and Beaver Dam, Wis., but of late years has made his home at Daytona. It was here he met and wooed his bride, whom he married at her father's home in Pittsburg. He was 38 years old and was graduated from Yale university with the class of '95. While at Yale he held membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Theta Pi fraternities.

HOLDUP MEN ROB EMIGRANTS ON TRAIN BETWEEN STATIONS.

Erie Conductor Learns of Bandits' Success and Getaway Only When Noise of Victims Reaches Him.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—When the Erie limited reached Paterson, N. J., today the conductor learned that a holdup had been pulled off while the train was running at a forty mile clip between Jersey City and Paterson. The noise the victims were making gave him the first news of the robbery.

The two rear cars were occupied by sixty emigrants. Two men entered the emigrant cars just after the limited left Jersey City. They wasted no time. One man, who was masked, stood at the front door of the first car with a revolver ready for business. His pal went through the coach from end to end, nimbly frisking the passengers. The emigrants showed no fight and handed out their money in a hurry.

The highwayman wasn't satisfied merely with making the emigrants turn their pockets inside out. He made them empty their valises and bundles. The trick was repeated in the second car.

It was impossible for the trainmen to learn just how much money the emigrants lost. Evidently the robbers left the train just as it was slowing down for Paterson.

DEATHS.

[For other death notices see page 13.]

BUTTERWORTH—Charles Butterworth, formerly of 6334 May-st., beloved son of Joseph and Sarah Butterworth, nee Lindley. Funeral will be held from his aunt's residence, 433 W. 61st-st. North Yakima, Wash., papers please copy. Funeral notice later.

AUTO SEARCH FOR CLARKSON

Party Hunts Down Clews in Suburbs on North Shore.

TIPS GIVEN IN LETTERS.

Villagers Write to Relatives of Former Kenosha Judge.

A vigorous search for Joseph R. Clarkson, the former judge of Kenosha, Wis., who disappeared ten days ago, was conducted in the north shore suburbs of Glencoe, Winnetka, Kenilworth, and Wilmette yesterday. The search was inspired by letters received by Mrs. Clarkson and James Cavanaugh, the missing man's former law partner, giving information, but asking that the names of the writers be held in confidence.

Traveling in an automobile under the direction of John Burns of Kenosha, the searchers learned that a man of Clarkson's description was seen in the villages on Tuesday and Wednesday, but they returned home without any definite clew.

Two Women Send Letters.

"Two letters were received today from women in Kenilworth and Wilmette, saying Mr. Clarkson had been seen in the villages the day before," said Burns. "We visited the writers and were informed that a man of his description was seen in Kenilworth and Wilmette. We were informed that the man was traveling toward Grosse Point when seen in Kenilworth, and that he was going in a westerly direction when seen in Wilmette."

Another clew was followed up without result. An unkempt man without hat or coat but answering closely the description of Mr. Clarkson was seen kneeling by the roadside which leads into the woods just west of Winnetka on Wednesday morning.

Seen on Roadside by Boy.

The man was seen by a boy by the name of Wyman, who is employed as a caddie on the Skokie golf links. His eyes were raised and he seemed to be mumbling a prayer. His actions so frightened the boy that he ran home. Wyman returned with his mother, but the man had disappeared.

Later in the morning the man went to the Wyman home and asked for a drink of water. He acted queerly and Mrs. Wyman took a close look at him.

When shown the picture of former Judge Clarkson on Thursday, she declared she believed her strange visitor was the missing man.

LET JONES PAY THE FREIGHT.

Certain pensive thoughts are started by the offer of Gen. Edward F. Jones—"he pays the freight"—to foot the bill for the transportation of the figurehead of the battleship Illinois to Chicago. There was a time when the mere announcement that the freight had to be paid would have made instant appeal to the patriotism and civic pride of the residents of this fair city.

It cannot be that the efforts of Congressman Foss in securing from the government the offer of a loan of the figurehead are not appreciated or that the friends of the greater and more beautiful Chicago do not regard the bow ornament of the warship as a substantial contribution to the adornment of the city. It must be that there is here found one of those rare instances of heedlessness which occasionally mar the perfection of civic life in the best of communities. We contemplate this and regret that it was left to a resident of New York to come to the rescue.

Puttin[g] aside pensiveness, it is proper to express to Gen. Jones the sincere thanks of Chicago for the generous offer he has made in his letter to THE TRIBUNE. We believe that he will find in this act a full reward for his generosity. He will round out a useful life of "paying the freight" by a conspicuous exercise of this benevolent habit. Chicago can offer him but little in return, but, nevertheless, will accept his proposition. One small thing we can do, should do, and probably will do. When that bow ornament has been set in its place there can be inscribed prominently in its setting —not on the figurehead, the government only lending that—the legend:

"JONES OF BINGHAMTON, N. Y., HE PAID THE FREIGHT."

We suggest to the general that he could not wish for a nobler testimonial than such an acknowledgment made by a large and grateful city.

"A QUESTION OF FACT."

President Taft said to the congressmen who visited him to argue for the retention of the duties on hides, petroleum, etc., that the question in each case was a question of fact to be determined by evidence as to whether a duty was needed for protection. The Republican platform raised a question of fact as to most items in the tariff schedules when it declared that American industries should be protected by duties equal to the difference between the cost of production abroad and at home, including a fair profit to the manufacturer.

If congress had had the information as to cost of production which the Republican platform assumed it would get the work of making a tariff would have called for no more than the simplest kind of arithmetic. Congres could have got through in one month instead of five. It would have established duties which would have satisfied the consumers even though as to one or another article they might seem high, for the average American consumer, much as he likes cheap goods, is a firm believer in the protection of home industry.

Congress has had practically no information as to the cost of production abroad and next to none as to that at home. Figures were presented to it as to some industries, showing the low foreign and the much higher American wages. It was not informed as to the extent to which the low wages paid by the foreign manufacturer were offset by what President Taft has called "the effectiveness of American labor," getting the higher wages. Congress has legislated without evidence and as a consequence has agreed on duties which in many instances are generally believed to be much higher than if the rule laid down in the Republican platform had been lived up to.

The senate tariff bill empowers the president to appoint persons to investigate the production, trade, and commerce of the United States and foreign countries. Give the president authority and he will set at work competent men to collect the evidence which congress should have but has not. The evidence might be so strong and convincing as regarded many articles of general consumption as to provoke an irresistible popular demand for another and more effective revision of the tariff. Let us have the evidence as to cost of production and then the consumers will know which duties are excessive and which are not.

FLYING ACROSS THE CHANNEL.

The narrowest part of the strait of Dover is twenty miles wide. The average width of the English channel is seventy miles. When these distances are compared with those made by several aeronauts the likelihood that an attempt to fly through the air from Calais to Dover or between other points on opposite sides of the channel will be successful is evident.

Wilbur Wright in a motor aeroplane flew sixty-one miles on Sept. 21 last, remaining in the air an hour and thirty-two minutes. Two weeks later, carrying a companion with him, he covered nearly forty-four miles, being in the air over an hour. On July 1, 1908, Count von Zeppelin, in a dirigible balloon, was in the air for twelve hours, averaging thirty-four miles an hour. A German military dirigible last September covered 500 miles in thirteen hours.

Hubert Latham, who tried to fly across the channel in a monoplane but fell into the water after going sixteen miles, says he is ready to try again. A bad carburetor is blamed for the trouble experienced in the first attempt. M. Bleriot will try with an aeroplane. The Wrights say that they could make the trip easily if it appealed to them as worth doing. They have made far greater distances, traveling in a circle. If they were as successful in a straightaway test the channel crossing would be easy.

The aeronautic feats which involve longer time in the air and greater distance than the channel flight are becoming increasingly common. The water hazard adds an element of risk and daring. But the passage from cliff to cliff has already taken its place with other competitions in sport. Some one is likely to make it any day, and, as the mechanisms for flight become better understood, what now has the interest of uncertainty will become a tale that is told and will cease to attract attention. Who will get the credit for the first accomplishment seems likely to be a matter of luck.

SHOOTING DOGS.

A correspondent of THE TRIBUNE says he has failed to find any one who could enlighten him as to the legal right of the police to exterminate dogs by shooting. They have that right in certain specified cases. The ordinances read that any dangerous, fierce, or vicious dog running at large in the streets or public places is a nuisance and should be taken up and impounded. If that cannot be done safely such a dog may be killed by any policeman.

It follows that there is no legal warrant for the summary execution of a dog by a policeman merely because it is masterless and unmuzzled. A policeman may assume that such an animal, even though only a frightened puppy, is so fierce, dangerous, or vicious that self-protection compels him to shoot it, but as a matter of fact most of the dogs which have been shot could have been taken with safety by anybody who was smart enough to catch them.

The ordinances contemplate the impounding not the shooting of stray dogs. Therefore, there should be many dog catchers and dog wagons. The council did not provide them. Presumably that is why the police, in their desire to guard citizens against the horrors of hydrophobia, are overstepping the ordinances. The list of persons bitten by dogs during the last few weeks is alarmingly large. The shooting of dogs in the streets has its dangers. Not all policemen are good shots, and more than one "innocent bystander" may be a victim. It is a violation of property rights to kill without warrant of law dogs which have owners. The brutes have their rights also. If they must die it should be a painless death, not such as some of them suffer at the hands of policemen who are clumsy executioners.

Next year the council should appropriate for enough dog catchers. Then there would be no excuse for shooting except in special cases. But one fact must not be lost sight of. It is that if all owners of dogs had obeyed the law, and not let them go off the premises when unmuzzled, the recent mortality among dogs would have been considerably lessened.

The Moline Dispatch proposes what it calls "a simple bargain." It says:

> The country wants restriction of Chicago's representation at Springfield. Chicago wants a new charter. These are reasonable demands on both sides, and only Chicago's selfish desire to control not only her own destinies but those of all the rest of Illinois alone stands in the way of a bargain being struck.

One of the counts in the indictment returned against George III. by the representatives of the United States of America in general congress assembled reads:

> He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

OF ARTISTIC IMPORTANCE.

Persons of refinement who take pleasure in the artistic phases of life are recommended to arrange their affairs so as to include a visit to the west side ball park this afternoon when the heroes of the city council and the state legislature meet in the great national pastime for the benefit of the Ephpheta School for the Deaf.

There is no wish to issue an unduly roseate prospectus regarding this conflict, but it may be suggested that the flight of the Hon. James Hamilton Lewis, departing rapidly for the fence with several justly indignant statesmen whose susceptibilities have been injured by his decisions as umpire in pursuit, will be regarded as one of the leading art events of the year, to be equaled only by the effort of the Hon. John Farson, who shares with Mr. Lewis the arbitral duties of the field, to avoid physical contact with the hard hit sphere.

It is necessary merely to hint at the possibilities, and the remainder may be left to the imagination of any one at all familiar with the national pastime.

THE TETANUS VICTIMS.

The success of the movement in Chicago for a saner and safer Fourth was hailed as soon as the celebration was over. The list of fatalities was so small as to be negligible almost. The announcement made the morning after still stands, although more than a fortnight has passed. The usual story of death resulting from wounds has not been told. For Chicago, at least, the earnest efforts for a marked and decided change in methods of commemoration of Independence day have been rewarded in a most gratifying way.

The rest of the country has not been so fortunate. Day after day the telegraph brings its message of death from tetanus. The details are familiar ones. The toy pistol, the toy cannon, the cannon cracker, the revolver, the blank cartridge, and each of the other prohibited things figures in the record. Where they were not forbidden and where the "sane and safe" movement was not supported the accustomed results have followed until the total has reached 140, victims of the enthusiasm of the celebration in 1909.

The fierce charges of the British at Bunker Hill were attended with a total loss in killed, wounded, and missing of only 1,054. The killed and missing on the American side in that famous fight were 145, practically the death roll so far reported in connection with the commemoration of independence 133 years after the declaration. Such comparisons have often been made before. They should be made impossible because of saner actions on the part of American citizens in the future. It has been proved that the slaughter can be checked in Chicago, as it was also done elsewhere. A still more general adoption of the new policy is to be expected next summer.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1909: By the Brentwood company, all rights reserved.

ALTHOUGH Count Emerich of Leiningen-Westerburg died nearly three years ago, yet his family still is suffering all sorts of unpleasant notoriety in connection with his unsavory career. For it would seem that even on his death bed, and within four days of breathing his last, he made himself guilty of perjury and fraud for the sake of a few hundred dollars.

A week before his demise he was asked by one of those more or less questionable matrimonial agencies which flourish on both sides of the Atlantic whether in return for a pecuniary consideration he would consent to marry a Mlle. von Nordeck, and at the same time legitimize her 3 year old son, Maximilian. Count Leiningen, who belonged to one of those mediatized or formerly sovereign families of Germany, and which is today related to half the reigning houses of Europe, expressed his readiness to contract the alliance, if it were made worth his while, and the marriage took place just three days before his death, at Frankfort.

When the moment came to secure the license for the marriage he swore that he was divorced. Under ordinary circumstances he would have been obliged to produce a certified copy of his decree. But as his death was known to be imminent, and as there was no time to obtain the necessary documents from Vienna, where the divorce was alleged to have taken place, the authorities at Frankfort contented themselves with an affidavit of the count that he had been divorced in due form, influenced doubtless by the circumstance that in the Almanach de Gotha he was recorded as divorced.

Immediately after the ceremony of marriage the count went through the legal form of legitimizing his wife's illegitimate son, recognizing the child under oath as his own offspring. Then he died.

The widow thereupon went to live at Dresden, and, styling herself the "Countess Emerich Leiningen-Westerburg" and her little boy "Count Maximilian Leiningen-Westerburg," put forward demands upon the chief of the family for an income from the joint entailed property of the house of Leiningen-Westerburg. Before this annuity was granted, inquiries were instituted, and these led to the discovery that the Almanach de Gotha was wrong in describing the late Count Emerich as "divorced," and that he had been merely judicially separated at Vienna, and had therefore not been free to contract another marriage.

It also was ascertained that Mlle. von Nordeck's child could not possibly be his offspring, since he never had met her, or even heard of her, until eight days before his death —that is to say, when her boy was 3 years old.

On the strength of these discoveries the courts at Frankfort have just decreed that the second marriage of the late Count Emerich Leiningen was as invalid as his legitimization of the little boy, and that therefore neither Mlle. von Nordeck nor her child could any longer bear the name of Leiningen.

This Count Emerich of Leiningen, who thus continued a criminal even on his deathbed, was the blackest sheep of the ancient house of Leiningen, which dates back to the twelfth century. Queen Victoria's mother belonged to it by her first marriage. Indeed, the late queen's half sister, to whom she was so devoted, was Princess Feodore of Leiningen, mother of Prince Hermann Hohenlohe, until recently governor general of Alsace-Lorraine.

Some sixteen years ago Count Emerich was arrested in London, tried, convicted, and sentenced to a term of hard labor, for not one but several particularly atrocious offenses in connection with what is known as the "white slave trade."

There is no doubt that on account of the man's connections the matter would have been hushed up and he himself hustled out of the country had not his police record, both in England and on the continent, been so infamous. For it was shown in court that he had served at least one long term in an Austrian prison for fraud and forgery in 1873.

With regard to his first wife, from whom he was judicially separated in Vienna, but not divorced, she had been a barmaid, and, after quitting her husband, drifted all over the world, among other places to Buenos Aires and New York, finally landing again in Vienna, where she coolly styled herself "Princess" Marie Leiningen, and ended by being jailed for much the same offenses as her husband—fraud and the "white slave trade."

It is only fair to add that there is another Count Emerich Leiningen, who belongs, however, to the Billigheim and senior branch of the family. He is a different kind of a man, is a member of the house of lords of the grandduchy of Baden, is a veteran of the papal army, and is the widower of the Belgian comtesse de Ribeaucourt.

Were Queen Victoria to revisit Balmoral she would have considerable difficulty in recognizing her cherished Highland home. For King Edward, who proposes to spend a considerable part of the autumn there, remaining from early September until the end of October, has converted what was formerly the back of the house into the main front, has made a number of additions, and has caused the grounds which formerly were at the back of the house, but now are at its front, to be laid out in the most skillful and artistic manner.

This was done under the direction of Lord Redesdale, who is probably the greatest living landscape gardener. Formerly Redesdale used to go by the name of Bertie Mitford, and will as such be remembered by many as the author of that fascinating and one time popular work entitled "Tales of Old Japan."

The Canadian maple has been used extensively by Lord Redesdale in laying out the new gardens at Balmoral. In fact, it is to be seen everywhere.

While on the subject of King Edward's residences I may add that for the first time since his accession, and, indeed, almost within human memory, the exterior of Buckingham palace is to be repainted. Since the demise of Queen Victoria the interior of the palace has been entirely redecorated and refurnished, while the extensive grounds have been re-laid out, under the direction of Lord Redesdale. Hitherto the exterior of the palace, however, has received no attention, largely owing to considerations of expense, which fall, not upon the king's purse, but upon the government, since it will have to be paid for by parliament.

Thanks to the smoke and soot which fill the atmosphere of the British metropolis (to the extent of thousands of tons, according to recent chemical investigation) the exterior of the palace, at no time beautiful, presents the most dingy, not to say absolutely grimy, appearance, the dirt being all the more noticeable by reason of the contrast with the beautiful marble of the great memorial to Queen Victoria, now facing it.

King Edward has insisted that the scraping, cleaning, and painting of the exterior of the palace shall be no longer delayed, if the government wishes him to live in London, and the consequence is that it is to be undertaken this fall.

The ventilation of the palace is abominable, even in the large state apartments, as every one who has had the opportunity of attending any court or state ball has occasion to know, to his or her cost.

Lord Tankerville, who is married to Miss Van Marter of New York, and who, during the lifetime of his father, was known in this country as Lord Bennett, has lost his case against the timber merchants, James Jones & Sons of Larbert, Stirlingshire, to whom he had assigned a part of the timber in the park of Chillingham castle, his place in Northumberland, subsequently expelling them from the property before they had time to finish cutting the timber, or to fulfill their contract.

He has been sentenced not only to pay them heavy damages, to the tune of nearly $50,000, but also the costs, which are extremely heavy. As the trial brought to light the fact that he is already heavily in the debt of the Joneses, and that he has overdrawn, to the extent of thousands of pounds at several banks, who have been holding their hand in order to see which way the case went, it is to be feared that the inevitable crash will now come. It is difficult to see how he can possibly raise the money to meet either his old liabilities or the large addition which has just been made thereto.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

HEK!

O singer of the track and ring,
Pan's pipe is yours—likewise a pen.
How wild and weird the slang you sling!

The gay Heksameters you fling
Are often sweet as note of wren,
O singer of the track and ring!—

As often pungent, with a sting
Of sauce tabasco or cayenne.
How wild and weird the slang you sling!

But ever fresh the note you sing—
Sometimes a bit beyond our ken—
O singer of the track and ring!

You sling the slang that's slung—but spring
A new one every now and then.

Hekstatic Hek! The laurel bring
And bind it on his Number Ten.
O singer of the track and ring,
How wild and weird the slang you sling!

WHAT is the meanest thing you ever heard said of Chicago? One New Yorker writes us: "The more I go there the more forcibly it is borne home to me that there is actually no place in Chicago where one can obtain a first class meal. There are places where things are fit to eat, but there is no place where perfection—or anything approaching it—may be found." Can you beat it?

CHICAGO NATURE NOTES.

We have been much interested in a pair of fireflies who have built a nest in a maple in Washington park. The young fireflies have arrived and the operation of feeding the brood is worth watching. As soon as it gets dark the parents light their aft headlights and sally forth after food, which, as far as we have observed, consists of sparks gathered from the electric wires in the neighborhood. One does not have to live in the backwoods to get next to nature and study it.

Our bookwormy friend, Ernest Cooley, clipped out Dr. Münsterberg's analysis of the White Sox and has gummed it to the flyleaf of Dr. Hugo's latest book. Ernest says the Sox dope is the only intelligible thing that the Doctor ever wrote.

The redheaded woodpeckers seem uncommonly plenty this year, and they are uncommonly welcome, as their topnots add color to a not over-colorful landscape.

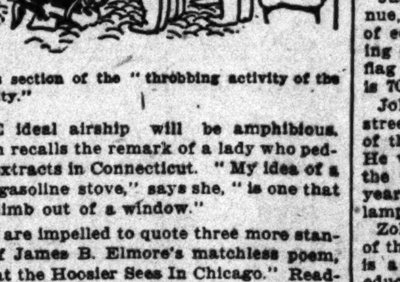

Greenwood avenue, as Hyde Parkers know, is an improvement society on its own account. It sprinkles itself, for one thing, and the householders pay the cost. One citizen has declined to chip, so the sprinkler shuts off while passing his property. He is now paying a colored man to turn the hose on. There is a committeeman for each block, and he guarantees the expense of the water wagon. Dr. Jaques, who is committeeman for his block, thinks he won't lose more than $30 or $40 this season.

The lighthouse standing in the deep

His mind goes out afar.
The buildings, too, above your head

The Board of Trade is an exciting place,
You cannot hear at all;
Their voices change from high to low
As the margins rise and fall.
Some go broke, and some have made,
And some still bid away;
And some possess a wan, sad face,
Expressed by "Alackaday!"

You pass along to Lincoln Park,
The grandest place of yore;
A perfect earthly paradise,
With treasures rich in store.
There are waterways and aqueducts,
And plants from every zone
Inside a grand glass crystal palace,
And thrive just as at home.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[No communications unaccompanied by the name and address of the writer—which will not be published if not desired—will appear. Communications for this department must not exceed 200 words.—Ed. Tribune.]

Discomfort for Car Patrons.

Chicago, July 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —We have a condition in State street from Thirty-ninth to Sixty-third street that should not be tolerated. The streets being torn up or dug out, it is an awful distance from the ground to the first step of the street car.

It is not only unsightly to see girls and women jump or climb such long distances, but it is, to say the least, hazardous. I have been troubled with a strained tendon of the greater toe for some time, caused by a jump to the car. I also know a woman who has been laid up for two weeks with a sprain caused by jumping from the step of a car at Fifty-ninth street.

Too much street is torn up at one time. To remedy the now existing evil there should be an elevation of some kind at each street crossing.

JOHN F. WHITE.

Foreign and Domestic Postage.

Chicago, July 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A card conspicuously displayed in the various postal stations says parcels may be sent to foreign countries for 12 cents a pound. The domestic rate on similar parcels is 16 cents a pound. The weight of parcels to foreign countries is limited to eleven pounds, and that of parcels for domestic distribution is limited to four pounds. A package weighing five pounds would be delivered in Germany for little more postage than an article weighing four pounds addressed to Evanston.

Is this a "protection policy," in which the express companies are the beneficiaries? If so, then we ought to find these "protected industries" paying higher wages than the postoffice department pays. How about that part of it?

Are there any clerks or carrriers in the Chicago postoffice who have been regularly employed for a year and a half who are not earning more than $55 a month?

INQUIRER.

Barbarous Killing of Dogs.

Chicago, July 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.] —Can you not advocate a different method to exterminate stray dogs from the one now employed? I refer to the cruel method of shooting. For some years I have been a resident of the neighborhood of Fifty-fourth street and East End avenue. My neighbors are property owners, taxpayers, and law-abiding citizens. Some are dog owners and take a pride in the care of their pets. We rarely have stray dogs and, as I say, we take care of our own.

Our neighborhood was awakened before 7 o'clock Wednesday morning by a shooting. A fine collie escaped for a moment from his home, only to pay the price of his life to the man with the gun. A case like that is an outrage. A puppy in Cornell avenue was maimed by a shot and flew to the steps of a neighboring residence, where the butchery was completed. It is an outrage that people should be subjected to such sights when other means could be employed. If some faint-hearted person were to see such a sight, with disastrous results, could not the city be held responsible?

The dog, by the way, lay there all day and was there the next morning when the writer passed. If, Mr. Editor, you can help to change this condition of affairs and prevent a repetition of such a scene you will receive the thanks of many thousands.

BUSSE TO CALL "PLAY BALL"

Mayor by Long Distance Phone Will Open Charity Game.

ALDERMEN VS. LEGISLATORS

John Farson and Col. J. Ham Lewis Shine as Umpires Today.

Mayor Busse will open the aldermanic-legislative baseball game at the west side baseball park this afternoon by long distance telephone. The announcement indicates that the city's chief executive yesterday had sufficiently recovered from his hospital experience to go to his brother's farm at Fox lake, accompanied by Mrs. Busse and his nurse.

His departure at 1:25 was accomplished quietly, but it sufficed to reveal the identity of the "man with the big voice" who will act as his proxy at the game by shouting the order to "Play ball!" that will come to him over the telephone.

"We can arrange to have him start the game even if he is up there," explained H. J. Mullaney, his secretary. "I guess I can hear him over the long distance as well as over the local wires."

"Did you say 'I'?" he was asked, and his blushes proved that he was to be the man with the megaphone on top of the grand stand when the order to begin play is given at 2:30 by the mayor.

Must Umpire Without Uniform.

The only disappointment that has come to those working in the interests of the Ephpheta School for the Deaf, which is to receive the proceeds of the game, is the delinquency of the tailor of Umpire John Farson.

That mirror of fashion on Thursday had an inspiration, as a result of which he ordered his tailor to make for him a special garb of light gray flannel trimmed with black, after the fashion of the Cubs' new traveling uniforms to be ready for this afternoon. The tailor later notified Mr. Farson that the order could not be filled until Monday at 3:45 p. m. As that would be 49 hours and 15 minutes too late, the umpire canceled the order.

Col. James Hamilton Lewis, the other umpire, is said to have ordered a special outfit with lavender as the keynote.

Heroes Who Will Play.

The final line up for the game follows:

Among the boxholders will be Archbishop Quigley, Charles Plamondon, Charles H. Wacker, John M. Smyth, D. F. Bremner, Michael Cudahy, James A. Pugh, Charles A. Comiskey, and Roger C. Sullivan.

STAGE SELLERS OF LAUGHS WOULD JOIN THE DRUMMERS.

Actors' Union Seeks Affiliation with the National Travelers' Association at Its Annual Convention Here.

Is an actor a salesman and a traveling man just because he sells laughs and other artistic goods to divers and sundry audiences?

This question was brought up yesterday at the convention of the National Travelers' association at the Palmer House. Despite many oratorical efforts and logical arguments the question was placed in the hands of a committee for further investigation.

Joseph Callahan and Robert Nome, representing the theatrical organization of the White Rats and Duke Darrows and George Kingsbury of the Actors' National union, presented a formal application to the convention for affiliation with the Travelers' association, on the grounds that actors are salesmen.

Resolutions commending President Taft for his stand for a tariff beneficial to the people, denouncing the mail order business, and asking for railroad rates that will not be discriminating to traveling men, were adopted at the executive business session. The resolution referring to President Taft follows:

"Resolved, That the National Travelers' association approves and appreciates the magnificent manhood and the high class citizenship and perfect patriotism of William H. Taft, president of the United States, as evidenced by his insisting upon both house and senate of the United States congress redeeming party pledges made before the national election of 1908."

A hot contest will be waged today over the location of the 1910 convention. Thomas L. Cannon, manager of the convention bureau of St. Louis, is working to get the convention for that city. Members of the association visited the various amusement parks in the evening.

The convention will close this evening with a banquet at the Auditorium hotel. The principal speaker will be Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor. The guest of honor will arrive in Chicago this morning, and will return to Washington on Monday.

NO PATRIOT WANTS TOWN JOB.

Treasurership Goes Begging—Until One Is Found Port Fulton, Ind., Is "Broke."

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—The little town of Port Fulton, Ind., across the Ohio river from Louisville, is searching for a patriot and cannot find him. His only qualifications need be willingness and eligibility to run for the office of town treasurer, so that Port Fulton may get its money out of the bank at Jeffersonville, Ind., and pay its bills.

James W. Taylor, its treasurer, resigned recently, and it was found that a special election must be ordered, the winner in which shall serve until January, 1910, when a treasurer elected at the regular 1909 November polls will succeed him.

No one will spend the money necessary to conduct a campaign for so short an official term. Meanwhile the town money cannot be drawn from the bank, and the bills are growing.

RECORD FLOCK OF PRIZE SHEEP.

Most Valuable Cargo of Animals Ever Brought to America Imported by Wisconsin Man.

Boston, Mass., July 23.—[Special.]—Frank Harding of Waukesha, Wis., who arrived from Europe today, brought back with him the most valuable flock of sheep ever landed in this country. He has been traveling through England for several months, picking up prize winning animals, until he had assembled the finest flock ever sent to America. In all there are 108 rams and 272 ewes. They include Cotswolds, Hampshires, and Shropshires, and among them are many of the most celebrated specimens produced in England and Scotland in recent years. Four of the Southdown breed came from the flock of King Edward at Sandringham. Nearly 200 won prizes at the royal cattle show held recently in Gloucester, England.

BALL GAME TO AID BOYS' HOME.

Picked Teams of Policemen and Fire Fighters Will Meet at White Sox Park on Aug. 7.

Picked teams of policemen and firemen will meet in a baseball game on Aug. 7 at the White Sox ball park, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Working Boys' Home, in a benefit for that institution. It is said that members of the "beauty squad" have been chosen to represent the policemen, while the pick of the fire companies will be among their opponents. Candidates for both teams already are limbering up on vacant lots near their stations and the spirit of friendly rivalry is growing with every practice. After the game, there will be an entertainment with a program and bazaar features. Girls from each section of the city are being chosen to take charge of the booths.

SUES PHYSICIAN FOR DAMAGE.

Mrs. Flora Porter Demands $15,000 from Dr. S. L. Weber Whom She Accuses of Malpractice.

Alleging malpractice, Mrs. Flora Porter filed suit for $15,000 damages yesterday against Dr. Samuel L. Weber, whose office is at 100 State street. Nothing but the praecipe was filed in court by Attorney H. A. Boissat, representing the plaintiff, but a complete bill of particulars will be forthcoming next week.

Dr. Weber, it is charged, performed an operation on Mrs. Porter several months ago, and for several weeks the wound did not heal. She then went to another physician, it is declared, who found that several yards of surgical gauze still remained in the wound.

The accused physician admitted Mrs. Porter had been his patient and said he had performed the surgical operation satisfactorily. The charge of malpractice, he declared, was absurd.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT PUBLICATIONS BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

WILL ALLEN WHITE'S ROMANCE IS ONE OF SINGULAR POWER.

"A Certain Rich Man" A Novel Dealing with Stirring Events in the Middle West.

WILL ALLEN WHITE began to be known to the generarl public about the time Mr. Bryan was making his first campaign. He made a reputation by opposing himself to the pessimism which then was rife in the west, and his political religion of hope aroused life in imaginations moribund from discouragement. That some of his eloquence was then inflated and not sustained by the circumstances of the case there is no denying; but perhaps his propaganda of hope was better in the end than a recognition of the actual circumstances. As time passed on, however, Mr. White himself became accusatory toward the gigantic combines, political and commercial, which hold this country in their grasp, and he has done his share of the exposition of illegally conducted and iniquitous mergers and political machines. Nor has he ever felt discountenanced by the term "muck raker," feeling, no doubt, that it takes more than an ingenious opprobrious term to make a fight against commercial and political vice contemptible.

He offers now a book of singular power and peculiar characteristics entitled "A CERTAIN RICH MAN" (the Macmillan company). I do not hesitate to say that this is as American and substantial as anything Mr. Winston Churchill ever offered, and that in sympathy, imagination, and intimacy it far surpasses anything Mr. Churchill has done. It has but one quality which calls for adverse criticism, and that may as well be mentioned and got out of the way at the outset. This is a reminiscent vein which pervades the whole of the book, and prevents the reader from sweeping along with the current of the story. One is patient with this style during the first 40,000 or 50,000 words, but as the long novel progresses, and the recollection of dusty yesterdays continues, one has a smothered feeling, and longs to have the feeling of marching contemporaneously with events, which comes with the dramatic form of fiction, no matter in what century the tale may be placed.

"A Certain Rich Man" is a story which has its beginnings in the fifties and which concludes in the present day, and the locale is "bleeding Kansas." Although the title might convey the impression that the novel is a sort of fictional biography, as a matter of fact, it is the history of a village, and some of the characters who are the most enjoyable and likely to live longest in the memory are persons who were inconspicuous in the village of Sycamore Ridge.

The "rich man," John Barclay, began life as a poor boy, the son of a Kansas pioneer who was numbered among the martyrs of abolition. He and his mother lived in a house of one room, and she did the most arduous manual labor to care for him. When the war broke out he, a lad of 11, hid in a supply wagon and was with the men of his town when they, with other raw troops, engaged in the border skirmish known as the battle of Wilson's creek. Here he saw sights too terrible for childish eyes—saw the shambles in which the surgeons worked—and the sight somehow "seared his soul." In his effort to resist being overcome by the horror something within him hardened so that it could not be melted, and when, after a few weeks, he was sent home, wounded so that he was lame for life, his native energy had gained a tremendous acceleration and his tenderness had somehow departed.

True, he continued to love and reverence his mother, and he married a good girl, toward whom he entertained sentiments of undeviating loyalty, and in time his daughter became the apple of his eyes. But these were family feelings, and these women were a part of himself. He protected them as fiercely as the stag protects its doe, but toward the world he was relentless.

A pirate could have been no more merciless. His policy of business was to take advantage of every misfortune or disability that might come to others. The grasshopper seasons, the panic, the political fume, the years of drought, all served him, and he operated so well and so unscrupulously that before his career was ended he was the richest man in the Mississippi valley. In the process of accumulating his fortune he had broken the hearts of several friends, he was responsible for the death of two, and the lives which he had wrecked among those he did not know would have made an appalling total.

To be sure, the day came when the gods of John Barclay's worship were revealed to him with their brazen feet and their senseless eyes. His wife perished of typhoid as the result of his opposition to a new water system, she being but one of scores who perished. His daughter lost her true love as the result of Barclay's unscrupulous methods, which the honest hearted lover was obliged to combat, his friends fell from him, and all men feared him.

"Day after day, until the days and nights became a week and the week repeated itself until nearly a month was gone, John Barclay, dry eyed and all but dumb, paced the terrace before his home by night, and by day roamed through the noisy mill or wandered through his desolate house, seeking peace that would not come to him. The whole foundation of his scheme of life was crumbling beneath him. He had built thirty-five years of his manhood upon the theory that the human brain is the god of things as they are and as they must be. The structure of his life was an imposing edifice, and men called it great and successful. Yet as he walked his lonely way in those black days that followed Jane's death, there came into his consciousness a strong, overmastering conviction, which he dared not accept, that his house was built on sand. For there were things outside of his plans, outside of his beliefs, coming into his life, bringing calamity, sorrow, and tragedy with them into his own circle of friends, into his own household, into his own heart. As he walked through the dull, lonely hours he could not escape the vague feeling, though he fought it as one mad fights for his delusion, that all the tragedies piling up about him came from his own mistakes."

He comes at last upon pity—comes upon it as men in a desert come upon a spring of cold water—and in his compassion for others he drowns his shame and the memory of his fatal greed, and all the "ladder of sins" which he had climbed. Then he comes to his death as befits the man who was once a little hero of the battle of Wilson's creek.

John Barclay is the protagonist of the story, it is true, yet Mr. White has followed naturalistic rather than artistic methods in his treatment of him. He has not kept him conspicuously in the foreground and certainly no brief is held for him. To have a protagonist who lies without the realm of love or approval makes it difficult for a writer to hold the attention of the reader, and to conduct a successful story without a heroine is a matter more difficult still. Mr. White holds the attention, but he does not greatly stir the emotions, because his method of telling his tale makes it seem too remote and impersonal. The lack of focus, the absence of the dramatic, the sprawling of the story, so to speak, over a whole community, breaks up the sympathy and lowers the emotional interest. It seems more than likely that an English audience, not interested in reminiscence concerning an American community, would feel this keenly. But Americans will regard the matter differently. They will enjoy the casting back over the stirring events of the middle west, and they will greet as friends and neighbors the characters to which Mr. White has given a typical significance.

Rumor has it that Mr. White wrote and rewrote this story many times and that the excellent critic who presides over the affairs of the Macmillan company accepted this story with extraordinary enthusiasm, offering Mr. White such a reward as the writers of few novels know. One congratulates Mr. White, not only upon his achievement but upon the appreciation of it.

Mr. Ernest Oldmeadow has written the romance of a Portuguese monk, incorporating in it many a picturesque page of description, and some vivid character delineation. "ANTONIO" is the title (The Century company), and the story relates the faithfulness of a young monk of high birth, expelled with all his fellow Benedictines from their monastery upon the day of his ordination. Antonio goes back into the world, has a period of enlarging experience in England and other countries, and returns to Portugal to make a fortune as a wine grower, sufficient to enable him to recover the monastery. Temptation assails him in vain, and his beatitude is the realization of his ideals.

The heroine, who has besieged his love in vain, becomes a sister of the Visitation. Mr. Oldmeadow is in sympathy with his subject and counts his celibate a sterling hero. There may be many who will feel the eloquence of the appeal, but the present reader confesses to have been left cold. It is easy, however, to enjoy many of the scenes and chapters unreservedly. The book may be commended for its appreciation of the picturesque, even though the theme seems to the present day mind to be fantastic.

Among those who might appreciate it is Mr. Edward Hutton, whose book, "IN UNKNOWN TUSCANY," lies at hand. Mr. Hutton grows ever closer in acquaintance with his Italy, and beholding it as he does, with the eyes of a rigorous Catholic, he brings a peculiar fervor to his description of the beauties of shrines, holy pictures, and statuary, and the great fanes of the land where God and beauty have for centuries been worshiped side by side.

A traveler with an inquisitive mind and of an adventurous disposition, Mr. Hutton seeks out places little known and makes himself well acquainted with them. He seldom permits himself to describe a place or a work of art already well known to the reading and traveling public, and he has a happy faculty of evading hackneyed phrases. "In Unknown Tuscany" is a choice book for the happy traveler who need not hasten on his way, and who may pause to read. The illustrations are reproductions of charming water colors by O. F. M. Ward. (E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers.)

ELIA W. PEATTIE.

"SCIENCE AT HOME" (Fenno) is a volume by Baron T. Russell of "simple experiments for young people." The apparatus in nearly every case is ready at hand in almost every household and the experiments are the demonstration of phenomena so frequently met with as to excite little wonder or comment in the average young person. A few of the chapter titles, of which in all there are sixteen, may give some idea of the contents of the book: "Some Balancing Tricks," "How to Bend a Poker," "Heat and Some Ways to Obtain It," "What a Diamond Is Made Of," "Magnets and Electricity," "How a Cat Sees in the Dark," etc. All the experiments are such as will interest young people, especially when performed by an older person who can elaborate somewhat upon the explanations given in the book, for of course these are not long nor deep. They are also calculated to give them some bits of helpful information and to quicken their perception of things about them. The book should be welcome in giving employment to children through the vacation days, when sometimes there seems to be a lack of means to entertain them or keep them employed.

"THE SCIENCE OF TRAPPING," by E. Kreps (A. E. Harding, Columbus, O.), is a little book describing the fur bearing animals, where they may be found, and how they can be trapped.

AMBASSADORS OF GOOD WILL BETWEEN EAST AND WEST.

Little Series of Books Translated from Philosophy and Religion of Orient.

MESSRS. DUTTON & CO. are publishing a series of volumes, edited by L. Cranmer-Byng and Dr. S. A. Kapodia, to which they give the title "The Wisdom of the East Series." The editors desire that these books "in their humble way shall be the ambassadors of good will and understanding between east and west, the old world of Thought and the new of Action." The aim is a commendable one, and as they intend having the best specialists for the treatment of the various subjects included, the mission of the little books should be a wide and useful one. By many the books will be welcomed for themselves. One of those that have arrived lately is "THE SPLENDOR OF GOD; Being Extracts from the Sacred Writings of the Bahais." This sect claims the adhesion of one-third of the population of Persia; their doctrine looks to the spiritual relationship of all men; "brotherhood among them is a visible, actual fact. Buddhist and Mohammedan, Hindoo and Zoroastrian, Jew and Christian sit at one board in amity." The excerpts from their sacred writings—those left by their three great prophets—are not far removed in aspiration or teaching from such as we here today accede to, and it is a matter for gratitude that the editors have made possible our knowledge of their religiousness and temperateness.

The other volume, "A LUTE OF JADE; Being Selections from the Classical Poets of China," is rendered by one of the editors, L. Cranmer-Byng. He also writes a general introduction which treats of the poetry of China, and also short introductions preceding his selections taken from the works of the nineteen poets represented. A short bibliography is added as an appendix. The selections, while not lengthy, afford an opportunity of obtaining a slight glimpse of the Chinese poetic muse. The glimpse results only in respect and many times in something more. The range of poetic subjects is wide, as wide and varied as might be found in a similar collection from any other land. This book, too, has its message and its mission. It likewise has an intrinsic interest of its own, for the poetry of the east, of China especially, is too little known among us.

Some English women writers have an irritating habit of using initials only for their Christian names, so that the ordinary reader does not know the sex of the writer. Others use masculine pen names and so disguise their personality. Few French and no American writers that we know do this now. "George Paston," compiler of delightful English memoirs, is a woman, and now we learn that "G. B. Lancaster," who has written stories of New Zealand, Australia, and the South seas, is no other than Miss Edith J. Lyttleton, a resident of New Zealand who is now traveling in Canada and the United States.

Certainly nothing in her literary style betrays the fact that she is a woman, for it is hardly possible to imagine a more forceful hand than that which penned "The Altar Stairs," "The Tracks We Tread," "A Spur to Smite," and other books. She made her first success in a short story contest and since then has devoted herself to writing fiction. "G. B. Lancaster" was the name of her first hero, and she has used it as a pseudonym since then.

"Sons o' Men," her first book to be published, was a collection of short stories, all dealing with the same country and largely with the same characters. It was successful everywhere, and several editions were brought out in various countries. An idea of the strenuousness of the careers portrayed in it may be gained from some of the titles: "Sand of the Desert," "A Little Matter of Law," "Hell-for-Leather," "The Tail of the Rope," and "Another Man's Liabilities."

Miss Lyttleton's first book came out about five years ago, and since then she has produced a book every year or so. Her latest, called "Jim of the Ranges," she has just completed, and expects to have it published serially in New York before it is brought out in book form. In "Jim of the Ranges" she returns to her early field, the life of the men in the sheep country, a field she abandoned in her previous book, "The Altar Stairs," which deals with missionary life in the Solomon islands.

"Lots of the things I tell about in my Australian and New Zealand stories I was not able to live myself," she said. "I couldn't very well, being a woman. But I found that the old sheepmen and frontier veterans could give me the bare bones of the idea, and the rest I could supply. Imagination, needless to say, is something one cannot expect from a miner or sheepherder."

Miss Lyttleton will visit the Hudson bay territory and the Newfoundland fishing banks for material to use in future tales.

"TEMPERED STEEL," by Herbert S. Mallory (R. F. Fenno & Co.), is a story of Norman times, of the days when King Stephen ruled and, history tells us, with difficulty. In those days men depended upon might to advance themselves, and more thousands of castle strongholds were built in Stephen's time than ever before or since. Many of these had to be torn down before England could have a settled kingdom. A good many writers have had the trick of juggling with the life and color of those days. Mr. Mallory does it well, without hitch or break. His style has an easy running glamour, although he does not entirely escape from didacticism in bringing in his local color—rushes for the floors, the May festival, vair and vest, moats and casements, mantles blue, and a hundred other things.

At the start the story touches the quick and not a few times afterward. The material is the old romantic stuff and the chief affair is a sort of mixture and modification of the Tristram and Iseult and King Arthur and Guinevere situation. The noble earl sends his "sworn" brother to fetch the woman he wishes to marry. She at once falls in love with this attractive young man with a most romantic patronymic. In the end there is a fight between the lover and the husband and the latter wins, his wife being by and handing him the deciding sword. After a continuation of complications he finds that it is himself that is loved, after all.

There is considerable fighting and wanton outlaw bloodshed in the book—pictures of coarse brutality and cruelty. The secondary thread of the story has the most revolting of these.

"MENTAL MEDICINE: SOME PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FROM A SPIRITUAL STANDPOINT" (T. Y. Crowell & Co.) is a book by Oliver Hudul giving the substance of five conferences he held with young men of the Y. M. C. A. at Johns Hopkins Medical school. The several conferences are entitled "Mental and Spiritual Factors in Problems of Health," "The Therapeutic Value of Faith and Prayer," "Possibility of the Control of the Subconsciousness," "Some Elements in Moral Mood," "The Higher Factors in the Reëducation of the nerves."

The lectures take a middle course between Christian Science and the hypnotic suggestion aspect of mental healing, pointing out the fallacies and mistakes and dangers of both. Nothing positive is given, as a creed or working basis, but those young men who are to be physicians are urged to take account of the mental attitude of their future patients, and to work in harmony with their spiritual adviser. There is a certain value and force to help in these lectures, but they are not the vital writings that other books on the same subject have been. They present no new ideas or new viewpoints; they plead for sanity and appropriateness in the use of mental aids to physical weakness. In them the religious aspect of mental healing is accentuated, due, the author states, to the character of the audiences to whom the lectures were delivered. Prof. Lewellyn F. Barker of the medical school has written an introduction to the volume.

The "STATESMAN'S YEAR BOOK" for 1909 has been somewhat reduced in bulk by the omission of certain statistical matters which were superfluous anyway. Uniform type, rearrangements, and economies of space have also aided this change. It is completely up to date, as will be seen by the change in the government of the Congo Free State, the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovinia by Austria-Hungary, the independence of Bulgaria, the revised constitution of Sweden, etc. All sections of the work have been thoroughly revised and the usual maps, tables, and diagrams are present. Will a Prohibitory Liquor Law Benefit a Community?

Here is the answer, the most illuminating study of prohibition as a fact. It is prepared by the Rev. William A. Wasson, Rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Riverhead, L. I., a man who has studied the subject for years. He here gives his deductions, shows wherein prohibitory laws have lamentably failed and submits a plan for the regulation of the liquor traffic that will make for temperance, and prohibition does not do that. 1875 arrests have been made in the last six months in Atlanta, Ga., a prohibition town, and there are 400 habitual drunkards in Portland, Me., a small town that has had prohibition for sixty years. Mr. Wasson's story in Pearson's Magazine for August will enable every man to decide for himself as to prohibition.

The same issue gives the real reason for the massacre of Christians in Asia Minor. This magazine sent James Creelman to Asia to learn why Christians were being massacred, and here is his answer, the Moslem answer to Christendom, voiced by three of the leading spirits in the new Turkish regime. Harrison L. Beach enumerates the fool things that every man does every day that shorten his life. You would be just as happy doing something else, but you don't know it. If you want to live a long time, read this story. Then there is a good big story of a good big man that every American ought to know, Dolliver, who believes in pre-election promises, and who has the nerve to call Aldrich. Henry Jarvis Peck tells in story and picture about lobsters and lobster men. Arthur William Brown explains circus folks also in story and picture. John B. Stanton tells what industrial bonds mean to the investor, and Albert Bigelow Paine writes of Roosevelt's wolf hunt with Bill McDonald. There are eight corking good short stories.

The SCORE

Miss St. John, adored comedienne of the English-speaking stage, takes up and decides for herself those questions of art vs. domesticity which Plato attempted, Daudet discussed, and which every woman of genius has to settle anew. William Allen White's New Novel
A Certain Rich Man

Its Plot is so genuinely real that it seems to grow involuntarily from the nature of the characters and the conditions of the times.

Its Hero is a dominant captain of industry, fighting against odds and under pressure of occurrences beyond any foresight, weighing private ethics against the "larger good" of organizing a great industry.

Its Author is a distinguished newspaper man, an Editor on the staff of the American Magazine, widely known through his vigorous short stories, etc.

Its Scenes are those of a city in the Middle West from the time of its settlement in the height of the "free soil" excitement to the present day.

Its Americanism is its strongest feature, its life. No one will deny its realism, the vitality of its men and women, the accuracy of a lifetime's observation of men and circumstances.

Its Interest is intense. The leisurely fidelity to life in every line gives even the minor characters the reality of the folks one has known and found lovable.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Backed by magnificent support, in which Parent's lifelike imitation of Fielder Jones at his palmiest was a feature, Jim Scott pitched the White Sox into their sixth straight victory, beating the Athletics, 3 to 0, although Manager Mack sent his near unbeaten hero, Harry Krause, against him.

Wichita Jim was wilder than any flock of teal ever shot at and harder to hit at first than a jacksnipe on a windy day. He issued seven bases on balls and punctured one batsman, but when he did tame his shots the Athletics couldn't hit them safely where it would do any good. Toward the finish they had Scott's measure, and in the last two rounds they certainly did soak the ball on the piccolo.

Parent in the Limelight.

That was where Jim's support and Parent in particular came to the front. In the last two rounds Parent alone killed off three extra base hits, and the final out was the most sensational of the day, when he went far back into right center and barely reached Dan Murphy's monster wallop, which had three bases stamped all over its horsehide cover. Besides that Frederigo with the help of a swell relay by Tannehill beat the fleet Baker out of a clean home run drive in the fearsome eighth, beating the runner to the plate by four or five steps by perfect winging. Dave Altizer cut into the final rallies of the enemy with a great running catch of a foul fly. Earlier in the battle Frank Owens, who retired before the finish with a split thumbnail, jerked Scott out of a deep hole by catching Collins snoozing between sacks.

Krause and his almost unbeaten record had no terrors for the White Sox, and they went after him hard enough to pound out their victory in the first inning with the help of a base on balls to Altizer. Three hits and a steal followed that pass and scored three runs. Whereupon the California wonder was taken out and saved up for another crack at our boys. Dygert stopped Comiskey's men to a standstill, and the game resolved itself into a desperate bulldog struggle, the home dogs hanging on like grim death to their lead of three runs, which at times did not look half big enough, and the visiting terriers barking, snapping, and biting in frenzied but futile effort to break the hold of their rivals.

Purtell Brings In Two Runs.

In the making of Chicago's runs Parent was a big factor, but the glory was shared more than equally by Dougherty and Purtell, for Pat's was the stick that drove home the first tally, and Bill was the boy who rapped out the single that scored the other two. Parent bagged three hits in four chances and Dougherty two in four.

The first inning was a long one. It reached from the deepest subcellar of profound gloom to the nine hundred and ninety-ninth story of human delight. Scott started by giving Hartsel the first of his four ambles to first. Ganley sacrificed and Collins also walked. Murphy hit a high bounder to Atz, who tried to force Collins at second, but Evans said the runner beat the ball. The bases were full, one out, and Scott untamed. Collins tried to upset Scott by sneaking two-thirds of the way from second to third with every ball delivered to Harry Davis. On his second foolhardy trip Owens showed up Mr. Collins by whipping a throw to Tannehill which cut off the runner's retreat, and he was touched out on third after Hartsel had made an attempt to score on the play, only to be driven back to third. Harry Davis then grounded to Atz and the gloom disappeared like magic.

Altizer Opens with Walk.

Altizer led the Sox to victory by working Krause for a walk. Parent double crossed Baker by pulling a fast bounder past him when the youngster raced in for a bunt. George Davis sacrificed. Dougherty smashed a hot one to Harry Davis and it caromed off his shins out of every one's reach. Altizer scored the first run and Parent reached third. Dougherty then stole second and Purtell was Billy the Great with a clean slam to right, on which Parent and Dougherty rode home with the runs that cinched it and all we were destined to get.

Dygert brought his spit ball into play in the second inning and held the Sox back for six innings, although he was in several deep holes. Parent scratched a hit off Nicholls' breast pin to start the third. George Davis was passed and Dougherty laid down a perfect bunt toward third, filling the sacks with none out. It looked like a walk around but Purtell hit straight to Collins' feet, forcing Parent at the plate, and Tannehill popped a fly to Nicholls. With Atz up Davis tried to sneak home on a short passed ball. Livingstone hustled and recovered the ball in time to get a close decision at the pan, although Perrine appeared to be the only person who thought Livingstone touched George. We never came anywhere near that close to a tally again.

First Hit by Mackmen.

Scott held the Athletics without a hit until the fifth. Then, with two out, Hartsel bumped one too hot for Atz to negotiate, but was forced at second. The enemy began threatening in the sixth, and with the help of Purtell's fumble and Baker's clean single had men on third and second with two out. Nicholls was the third victim.

The seventh was crucial for Scott. He hit Livingstone, but disposed of Dygert on strikes, then passed Hartsel. Ganley fouled out and Collins walked, filling the bases. Murphy was made to hit, and popped to Tannehill. Harry Davis mauled a liner to Parent to start the eighth. Baker followed with a terrific drive over Parent's head. Everybody thought he could make it four bases, but Parent made a long throw to Tannehill, and Lee's perfect relay beat the run to the pan easily. That was quite fortunate, for Nicholls and Livingstone followed with singles. Manager Mack thought to break up the game by sending Coombs to bat for Dygert, but Scott struck him out.

Hartsel led in the ninth with his fourth walk to first. Altizer pinched Ganley's long foul. Collins poled a corker into right center, but Parent raced over and pulled it down. Then Murphy hit one harder and farther in exactly the same direction. Once more Parent went back and just did reach the ball with one final desperate lunge. Score:

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Philadelphia again today and tomorrow.

Friday and July 23 proved unlucky for Harry Krause.

Dygert put on extra speed in the seventh and whiffed Sullivan and Scott in quick order. Altizer then stung him for a clean single, but was caught stealing.

Little Dygert's efforts with the bat were so ludicrous that Manager Mack just had to send some one else to bat when they were hitting Scott in the eighth.

Tannehill slipped and sat down hard just as he grabbed Dygert's grounder at the start of the third. Then he had time to get up and throw Jimmy out by a step.

Hartsel made one hit in five times up and came out of the scrap with a batting average of 1.000. Scott passed him four times because he could not get the range at so diminutive a mark.

Parent rapped out his third hit at the start of the Sox eighth, the only one off Bender, but was forced at second by Davis, who met the same fate at Dougherty's hands. Purtell was called out on strikes.

Jakey Atz had a recurrence of his appendicitis attack while on second base after running out his good two base hit in the second inning, but stuck to the job despite the pain, which left him as quickly as it came.

Krause and Thomas got wise to the hit and run when Purtell was on first and Tannehill at bat in the first. A pitchout made it easy for Ira to throw Bill out at second. Tannehill then slammed a liner into Collins' hands.

Business Manager Bancroft of the Cincinnati Reds was a spectator. Banny stopped off here on his return from California, where he has been in charge of Garry Herrmann's party of Elks. He left for home last night and will pick up the Reds there tomorrow.

The thumb nail on Frank Owens' throwing hand was split a bit by the ball which hit Livingstone in the seventh, and the youngster retired to have the injury attended to, Manager Sullivan donning the mitt for the rest of the game. Owens will be ready for work again today or tomorrow.

Superior Work on the Bases and in the Field Enables Washington to Defeat Browns Easily.

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—Washington outplayed St. Louis on the bases and won, 4 to 2. A great jumping catch by Milan and the visitors' double play were the features. In the first inning Unglaub batted in Lelivelt's place and the latter was declared out. Score:

TIGERS WIN DOUBLE HEADER

Champs Clinch Hold on First Place at Boston's Expense.

SCORES, 5 TO 2 AND 4 TO 2.

Mullin Saves First by Great Stop Off Stahl with Bases Full.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—Detroit won both parts of a double header from Boston. Wood's wildness in the opening inning and errors in the eighth, with which Detroit mixed two triples, decided the first contest. Mullin saved the game for himself by a great stop off Stahl, with the bases full.

In the second game Boston bunched hits off Speer but once. Collins pitched well, but Detroit hit whenever he gave openings by wildness. The games were played on a wet field. Rain fell during the morning, and at the start of the first game the day was the coldest of the summer. Scores:

RAIN MARS BASEBALL SPORT.

Games in National and Other Leagues Postponed on Account of Inclement Weather.

Jupiter Pluvius spilled his rain pots throughout the east and the heavy downpour caused a general postponement of baseball games. All contests in the National, New England, and State leagues, except at Elmira, N. Y., where six innings were played, were declared off on account of rain and wet grounds, while in Cleveland the New York-Cleveland game in the American league also was postponed because of the elements.

In only three cities of the big leagues—Chicago, Detroit, and St. Louis—were games played. The Eastern league was more fortunate, the games at Montreal and Buffalo being played. Only one game was played in the Tristate league, that at York, Pa.

The postponement of the New York-Chicago contest caused disappointment among thousands of baseball enthusiasts, as both teams are hot after the Pirates for the lead.

Tigers Grab Another Player.

Helena, Mont., July 23.—Catcher Whaling of the Bozeman Inter Mountain League baseball team, it is reported here, has been purchased by the Detroit Americans.

COLONELS HAVE NEW OWNER

Tebeau Sells Louisville Club to William Grayson Jr.

PURCHASE PRICE IS $50,000.

Reason for Sale Is to Stop Talk Regarding Syndicate Ball.

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—[Special.]—William Grayson Jr. of St. Louis, Mo., who is a stock broker in the Mound city, is now the new owner of the Louisville baseball club. The deal for the clubs was consumated this afternoon and the purchase price said to be $50,000. The sale of the club includes the franchise, leases, players, and good will without any incumbrances. The deal has been pending for several days. Mr. Grayson during this time has been watching the Colonels play.

George Tebeau, owner of the club, arrived this morning from California and after agreeing on the minor details, the transfer of the Louisville plant was signed by the purchaser and the seller. It is a bona fide sale and the only reason that Tebeau disposed of his holdings here, he says, was due to the fact that he got his price and also to end further talk regarding syndicate ball. Both parties to the sale are pleased with the deal.

Mr. Grayson will be the sole owner and will move to Louisville at once. He will be the president and treasurer of the club and will retain "Tom" Chivington for the present as general manager. This is Mr. Grayson's first entry into baseball. He is a son of a wealthy lumber man of St. Louis. He was anxious to own a ball club and after considerable dickering, finally came to terms with Tebeau. It is his intention to place a winning club here and claims that he is ready to spend all the money necessary in order to have a pennant winner.

GEORGE SPEER PASSES AWAY.

Former Milwaukee American Association Catcher Dies at Hickman, Ky.

News reached Chicago yesterday of the death of George Speer, the former American association catcher, at the hunting lodge of Manager Cantillon of Washington, near Hickman, Ky., on Thursday. Although he never attained a major league berth as a catcher on account of his size, which earned him the name of "Kid," by which he was universally known, Speer was a sturdy and nervy player while his health lasted. He caught for the Milwaukee association team under Joe Cantillon for a number of years previous to 1904, which was his last season of active service on the diamond. He developed tuberculosis of the lungs, which forced him to retire, but successfully fought for several years the disease to which he finally succumbed.

Red Sox Dispose of Players.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—[Special.]—Manager Fred Lake of the Boston Americans has announced the sale of Pitcher Burchell to the Buffalo team of the Eastern league for $1,000. The sale is outright, no strings being attached. It is reported Boston has asked waivers on Ryan and Chech, but Lake will neither confirm nor deny.

Rain Prevents Cricket.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23.—The cricket match between the Toronto Zingari cricketers and the Germantown Cricket club eleven at Manheim, scheduled for today, was postponed because of rain. An early start will be made tomorrow.

Cricketers Play Today.

Two matches will be played this afternoon in the local cricket championship series, the Hyde Park team playing South Park at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue and the Chicago club playing the Wanderers at Harlem race track.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—A heavy rain, one that they said was needed in New York, prevented the Cubs from playing the second game of the series with the Giants. The contest was postponed until the next trip east of the world's champions.

Manager McGraw did not call off the battle until the afternoon, when it was apparent many hours before that time it would be impossible to play. Muggsy knew he didn't want to play, but he didn't want to let the Cubs know about the postponement until it was almost too late to do anything else. When he did decide to call it off there was a general rush for various places of amusement.

The game will be played as part of a double-header when the Chicago team is here in August. Manager McGraw realizes his club can be in no worse shape at that time and may be in better condition. At present Christy Mathewson is out of commission and he is about the only New York pitcher who can be depended on to beat anybody. His mashed finger is not likely to be mashed forever, so the Giants will have a much better chance of winning one game next trip than at the present writing.

Final New York Game Today.

The final game of the series will be played tomorrow if possible, and Jake Pfiester and Leon Ames probably will be opposing pitchers. Jack was to have worked today, and would have if rain had not interfered. It is up to him tomorrow unless Manager Chance decides that Brownie should be selected.

The Cubs will leave late tomorrow night for St. Louis, where they are booked to play from Monday until it is time for them to drift homewards once more. Most of the athletes remained around the hotel this afternoon, and there was plenty of excitement there.

In the forenoon Edward Reulbach and Irvin Higginbotham engaged in a wrestling match in which Higg was worsted, inasmuch as he is ticklish and Edward is not. A gent named Solomon, who claims to have fought in the war of the rebellion, objected to the manner in which the two large right handers cut up, and informed them there was a lady coming to see him and he would be much embarrassed to receive her in a hotel where ball players were performing wrestling stunts.

Arouses Ire of Players.

This bawling out aroused the ire of both large right handers, and they decided to get back at Mr. Solomon. So Edward went across the street to a neighboring hotel and bribed the telephone girl there to call up the old warrior and tell him that she (the lady friend) would be waiting for him in another place. He went to his room, combed his hair with extra care, and started for the rendezvous. As soon as he had time to get to the new meeting place Reulbach asked the telephone girl to call up Solomon there and tell him that his lady friend would be waiting for him at our own hostelry. The result was that Mr. Solomon was chasing all over New York trying to find the woman in the case, and the Cubs stuck around and laughed at him.

The champions wanted to play today, and they figured they would have no trouble in beating the Giants, who are not at their best physically. There are few reliable pitchers left to work against Chicago, and Mathewson may be obliged to come in tomorrow and work, notwithstanding his smashed finger.

Tomorrow's game will be the last one for the Cubs in the East until they start out on their final tour here and to the Atlantic seaboard section of the country. Up to date they have won twelve and lost four since leaving home.

GLIDDEN CARS ON PRAIRIE TRAILS

Tourists Follow Course of the Platte River 200 Miles to Julesburg.

RUN TO DENVER TODAY.

Ogallala Sheriff Overhauls One Driver and Forces Payment for Collision.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Julesburg, Colo., July 23.—[Special.]—For over 200 miles the Glidden tourists followed the course of the Platte river today, from Kearney, Neb., to this once famous frontier town.

The roads were far above the average, but there were three bad sandhills, where a number of cars were held up and had to be pulled out by horses. At other sections of the route there were some steep water bars which were not hard to negotiate if the drivers slowed up a bit.

In the Glidden tour, however, it is not considered the proper thing to slow up for any kind of an obstruction and today's run was simply a wild race across the prairie country with every driver doing his utmost to beat the schedule as much as possible. It was risky business taking the bumps at speed and the trail was strewn with wreckage from cars.

Driver Settles with Sheriff.

The driver of the Jewell was chased twenty miles by an Ogallala sheriff, who had a good motor car at his disposal. The Jewell man was overhauled at Brule, and after making a settlement was allowed to go on his way. In passing through Ogallala the Jewell machine collided with a local automobile, and while no great damage was done the sheriff thought it was up to him to teach the visitors a lesson.

None of the clean score cars were penalized today, but the Glide, Moline, and Jewell received additional penalizations.

It was another hot day riding across the sun baked prairie roads, which were nothing more than a trail through the weeds. Most of the drivers had no trouble in getting in ahead of time. The tourists who secured accommodations on board the special train that is accompanying the tour are pleased with their lot tonight, as Julesburg could not begin to take care of the crowd.

Cold Cream in Demand.

This traveling hotel resembles a hospital train more than anything else on account of the large number of people who are suffering from sunburn. There is a strong demand for cold cream, witch hazel, or anything that will relieve the stinging pain.

Tomorrow morning the Gliddenites will hit the trail once more for Denver, a distance of 204 miles. George Smithson will act as official pilot into Denver. He has been over the route many times and knows every inch of the road.

Yachtsmen Await Gun for Mackinac Cruise Today. Golf Events.

MACKINAC RACERS READY FOR START

Eleven Yachts, Pick of Local Fleets, Await Beginning of Long Cruise.

WAGER PLENTY OF MONEY

Admirers of Different Craft Not at All Backward About Taking a Chance.

Weather forecast—Fair Saturday and Sunday; moderate temperature; moderate north to westerly winds.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

This is getaway day on the lake front. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the boats entered in the long distance cruising race of the Chicago Yacht club will receive the starting gun that will send them on their way to Mackinac island, 331 miles down the lake and straits.

Eleven stanch yachts, representing the pick of the local fleets, are riding at their moorings inside the breakwater ready for the dash to the northland. From keelson to truck and from stem to stern they are as fit as it is possible to make them and apprehension as to weak gear is the least of the skippers' troubles.

The racers are to be manned by picked crews, upon the members of which will devolve the supreme test of seamanship. To these men the skippers have passed the word to drive their charges to the limit. The race is a handicap affair, and therefore the smallest boat of the cup hunting fleet is supposed to stand as good a chance as the largest. They are really all big boats, as yacht ratings go, for no boat under five tons displacement is allowed t enter.

Race Is Big Event.

The annual quest for the classic Mackinac cup is one of the biggest things among the country's yacht racing events and the sixth annual renewal of the fixture gives promise of being the greatest in its history. In former years the competing boats may have outnumbered those that will slip their moorings today by one or two, but never before was the field of such high class.

Five clubs are represented in the competition—the Chicago, Columbia, and Macatawa Bay Yacht clubs, the Chicago Athletic association, and the Illinois Athletic club. Each organization is sending its ablest boats after the cup. The rivalry between the Chicago Yacht club, Illinois Athletic club, and the C. A. A. is particularly keen, and thousands of dollars have been staked on the chances of their respective champions.

Amorita, owned by Dr. W. L. Baum, is among the Chicago club entries. The big schooner surpasses in size anything else in the way of a sailing yacht on Lake Michigan, and it is one of the fastest yachts of the class in American waters.

The most dangerous rival of Amorita is William Hale Thompson's Valmore, flying the tri-color burgee of the I. A. C. Valmore is one of the fastest boats on the great lakes, and last year easily won the Mackinac cup.

Vencedor Is Liked.

Vencedor, owned by George Tramel of the C. A. A., is a Mackinac veteran. The big mahogany sloop has competed in five of the races and have won two of them. A sloop is supposed to have the advantage over a schooner in a race of this kind, and Vencedor is picked by many to win.

Other capable boats nominated are E. M. Mills' sloop Illinois, Glaver, Finstad & Johnson's sloop Naniwa, R. C. Stirton's sloop Seboomook, McConnell & Clinch's schooner Hawthorne, E. P. Warner's schooner Alice, J. O. Heyworth's schooner Mistral, Soule Bros. & Hill's yawl Naiad, and Francis Campbell's yawl Nahma.

The fleet is to be convoyed to Mackinac by the United States revenue cutter Tuscarora and a fine flotilla of steam yachts. Tuscarora, under command of Capt. Perry, arrived yesterday afternoon. Among the steam yachts to make the trip are Ogden T. McClurg's Sea Fox, E. E. Mayer's Manzanita, Andrew Crawford's Cornelia and the big J. O. Nessen craft, Sigma. Both Tuscarora and Sigma have been equipped with wireless apparatus, and the progress of the race will be flashed to Chicago en route. W. F. Cameron yesterday was added to the board of judges. The start will be made from a point one mile off the Van Buren street gap. The record for the course is a trifle over thirty-seven hours, made by Vencedor in 1905.

JEFF TALKS WITH MINISTER AND GIVES HIM SOME ADVICE.

Heavyweight Asks Minneapolis Preacher to Discuss Man's Body as Well as Soul in Pulpit.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 23.—[Special.]—Rev. G. L. Morrill, a local preacher, today called on James J. Jeffries, the heavyweight champion, who is appearing this week at an amusement park. When the minister was introduced to Jeff the fighter said: "You are welcome, but not any more because you are a minister."

Morrill said he did not think a minister any better than anybody else just because he is a minister. The fighter told the preacher that there are just as many good people outside the church as are in. To which the minister replied he didn't know but what Jeff was right.

"Why in thunder don't you preachers say something about a man's body as well as his soul?" said the fighter. "How is a man going to save his soul when his liver is out of order?"

Morrill promised the fighter he would appear on the platform with him Sunday afternoon.

POSTPONED A. A. U. GAMES TODAY

Events Scheduled for July 5 Will Take Place This Afternoon at Ogden Park.

The A. A. U. games which were postponed at Elliott's park July 5 on account of the weather will be held this afternoon at Ogden Park, Sixty-fourth street and Center avenue. The games will start at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Joseph Ritchie and M. B. Herbert.

BIG MARATHON SWIM ON TODAY.

H. J. Handy Picked to Win—Mrs. C. L. Brown, Only Woman Entry, May Surprise the Know-It-Alls.

Wilson beach will be the mecca for swimmers this afternoon, when the regular Saturday contests will be held. The main attraction will be the "marathon," a distance of about two miles and a quarter.

The entry list of thirty is unique in that it contains many champions, including H. J. Handy, American distance champion; Mrs. Charles L. Brown, Chicago's champion woman swimmer, and Thomas Slajo, who last year held the title of champion of the Bohemian army, having a record of 10:30:00 for twenty-five miles.

The entry of Mrs. Brown came as a great surprise, but many who have seen some of her remarkable swims claim that she will give the best male entries a good run for first place.

Local enthusiasts figure that Champion Handy will win the event, with Jensen of the I. A. C. and Nobert Manley fighting for the other gold medals, prizes for the first three to finish. "Cap" Coen has a host of admirers, who declare that their champion has an excellent chance for first honors.

The race will be started at 1:30 sharp. Randolph Laughlin of the Missouri Athletic club will officiate as referee, Charles J. Zeller as timer, and Frank J. Sullivan as started.

The following is a list of entries and the various strokes used:

BIG OFFER FOR PENICO MAID

Owner Says $20,000 Is Price of What Promises to Be Wonder.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—[Special.]—The last two days of the Windsor trots were declared off for various reasons, the principal being that the track was not fit for use until late in the afternoon, and that a horde of hungry runners which had been told they could have stalls tonight were waiting for them.

A number of horses scheduled for the last two days at Windsor are engaged for Monday and Tuesday at Detroit and their owners were willing to call it all off. The state fair track was in fine condition late today and the deferred workouts of all the big stables there originally set for yesterday and today will begin early in the morning. Geers worked his 2 year old trotter Anvil some slow miles, but the rest of the string will be given their final preparation tomorrow.

An offer of $10,000 was refused today for the trotter Penico Maid, 2:08¾. E. J. Moore of Port Huron, who owns the Wolverine and other trotters, wanted the mare after seeing her step a half in 1:02¼, but the quiet little man from Rock Rapids, Ia., who owns what looks like a trotting wonder, said twice that sum was the price.

TENNIS STARS IN WESTERN TOURNEY

Notable Field Will Start Contest for Titles at Onwentsia Today.

NO "SEEDING" IN DRAW.

Harold McCormick, Racquets Champion, Prominent in List of Entrants.

Drawings for the twenty-second annual tournament for the tennis championship of the west, which will open this afternoon on the courts of the Onwentsia club at Lake Forest, were made last night.

The tournament, culminating with the preliminary national doubles, promises to be the greatest net event held in the west since the world's fair year. The drawings, which are no longer "seeded" in any way, resulted satisfactorily and as a consequence good matches are assured during the whole week of play.

Among the notable entrants in both singles and doubles is Harold F. McCormick, national racquet champion, who years ago with his brother Stanley appeared as a doubles team on Chicago courts. Hugh McB. Johnston, Clyde Stevens, and F. H. Montgomery are names seldom seen in tournament competition.

Notable List in Singles.

In singles the list is far and away the best in years. From the Pacific coast comes six ranking players who will give the east a long looked for opportunity for sizing up the far western players. They include M. E. McLoughlin and G. J. Janes, champions of the west in doubles, Melville Long, champion of the Pacific coast, in singles, and Bundy and Sinsabaugh, champions of southern California, who on Thursday defeated Emerson and Waldner in the Minnetonka tournament.

From Mexico comes P. D. and Harvey MacQuiston, champions in doubles, while Minneapolis will be well represented by Ward C. Burton and Harry I. Belden, champions of Minnesota. Cincinnati will send Roland Hoerr, W. D. Breed, P. L. Mitchell, R. A. Holden Jr., and Trux Emerson, while St. Louis offers M. N. Smith and Melville Smithers.

Matches will be called for 2 o'clock. Entries for the women's tournaments and the mixed doubles will be held open until Monday, and these events probably will not start until Tuesday. Drawings in the men's singles and doubles follow:

Proctor won the title in singles from Kroesch several days ago. A large crowd of students was on hand to witness the matches.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

YB HEK.

Replying to an invitation to go two weeking it in a 35 overall 10 h. p. from "Railbird," who recently came into his own through a spread across the board on Arcite, a recent long 'un that landed safely:

We'd like to, old chap, for the layout is fair
And cordial and sweet and all that,
But alluring inducements are not here nor there
When a fellow needs help where he's at.

P. S.—Now please unmask.

One of the chaper-oning party who assisted at the introduction of James Jeffries to Gov. Johnson thought it would be a nice time to get an opinion from the governor as to his attitude toward pugilism in Minnesota. He got it.

Shall a commission have to be appointed to determine the status of Ad Wolgast? Wolgast licked Battling Nelson according to universal acknowledgment, Nelson himself concurring. But Nelson is still the champion lightweight while Wolgast is—what? A sort of morganatic champion, think you? An unofficial head of an unofficial house? A sort of lay brother? The owner of the machine or the mere chauffeur? Shall Nelson continue to peddle the empty title about and Wolgast have to take the short end of it? These are points that should be settled before we susceptible sweats are asked to fall for the blasonry, the fanfaronade—and what's that other thing they call it?

"I. J. R.," a colored gentleman with an office in the Realty building, writes us a charming though chiding letter about the attitude of this department of the service toward Jack Johnson. He wants to know if it is on account of Johnson's color or his profession that we occasionally take a rise out of him. We hasten to assure him that it simply is the profession and the exigencies appertaining thereto. It's the game, not those who play it. All pugilists look alike to this pair of lamps.

The colored reader of long standing may recall this extract from something written about Peter Jackson when that greatest boxer of his time, white or black, was struggling vainly for recognition:

"Coons are coons!" well, that's amusing;
Now admit that pugs are pugs;
Men who make their living bruising
Have no right to put on lugs."

We measure Jack Johnson as a prizefighter just as we measured Isaac Murphy as a jockey.

Is that fair?

As far as we can see the affluent gent who shucks the petty annoyances and the teddy-fol-la interferences of his native country and throws it in abroad feels complimented when those who still have theirs to get call him a snob. He lays the flattering unction to his soul that those who accuse him of being such would be the same at the same price.

We would like to call the attention of Ted Sullivan, scout, to Billy Lynch of Oshkosh in the Wisconsin State league. He is a mighty fine piece of material, "a batting bear and a fielding demon. He has excellent habits and is good to his folks."

Barney Reilly, comedian and "friend of Ade's," writes from his summer home in Brockton, Mass., commending to our tender solicitude his nephew and namesake, the Yale boy who recently joined the White Sox. Actor Barney sets a lot of avuncular store by the youth's making good. Having had the uncle for a couple of joyous weeks in New Orleans we assure him that we shall have nothing but nosegays to shy at the nephew.

MARSHALL FIELD CUP PLAY TODAY

Four Teams to Compete for Final Possession of Big Golf Trophy.

CONTEST AT HOMEWOOD.

Midlothian Club, Winner for the Last Two Years, Is Picked to Repeat.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

The grand roundup for the Marshall Field trophy is slated at the Homewood Country club today with Onwentsia, Glen View, Exmoor, and Midlothian clubs as contenders for final possession of the prize donated ten years ago by the late Marshall Field. The original competition was held just after the Galveston disaster in 1900 and the final will follow the second Galveston hurricane a few days.

The winner of today's thirty-six hole struggle against bogey will gain permanent possession of the trophy as far as the Western Golf association is concerned, but it is expected the winning club will put the prize up for annual competition, as Stanley Field, nephew of the donor, has offered to donate side prizes for future competitions.

Onwentsia won the original competition with a score of thirty down, the other contestants being: Glen View, 70 down; St. Paul Town and Country club, 76 down; Midlothian, 84 down; Skokie, 93 down; Edgewater, 110 down; River Forest, 125 down; Belmont, 125 down.

Since then the cup has been won in turn by Glen View, Exmoor, Exmoor, Midlothian, Midlothian, Onwentsia, Midlothian, and Midlothian.

Midlothian Is Favorite.

The present holders are favorites for today's struggle, having Mason E. Phelps, Kenneth P. Edwards, Paul Hunter, Donald Edwards, and Robert Hunter, to select from, with former Eastern Champion D. E. Sawyer, as reserve man.

Sawyer doubtless would have been given a place on the team had he been a member of the club for a longer period, but the officials thought it would be fairer to the other clubs to play the men who have competed in previous years in the final.

H. Chandler Egan, who will not compete in the western amateur championship, will lead the Exmoor team today, which probably will include Walter and Bradshaw Egan, Alden Swift, and C. Evans.

Glen View is expected to present W. I. Howland Jr., K. L. Ames, J. M. Sellers, E. A. Engler, and N. L. Hoyt or C. H. Salisbury.

Walter B. Smith, Bruce D. Smith, R. H. McElwee, D. M. Cummings, and W. F. Pillsbury probably will represent Onwentsia.

The event will be the curtain riser to the Western amateur championship, which will start on Monday. A number of the out of town players are due today and will spend today and Sunday practicing over the course.

Qualify at Homewood.

Mrs. George S. Haskell made the low score in the qualifying round for the Beatty cup at Homewood yesterday with 111. Miss Ruth Brooks and Miss Gertrude Brintnall tied for second at 114, and Mrs. George B. Grosvenor was next with 117. Others who qualified were Miss Grace Thorpe, Miss Amy Hunter, Miss Mary Cameron, Mrs. George R. Brandon, Mrs. George R. Mitchell, Mrs. W. D. McGowan, Mrs. J. P. Gardner, Miss Olive Hunter, Mrs. J. D. Hibbard, Mrs. Frances Wilson, Mrs. Warren McArthur, and Mrs. C. O. Goff.

Following are the pairings for the first round of match play: Mrs. Haskell and Miss Thorpe, Miss Brintnall and Miss Amy Hunter, Miss Cameron and Mrs. Brandon, Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. McGowan, Miss Brooks and Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Grosvenor and Miss Olive Hunter, Mrs. Hibbard and Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. Goff.

SUMMER BUSINESS KEEPING UP WELL

Ideal Crop Prospects and Heavier Operations in Factories Reported.

MONEY IN WIDER DEMAND

Seasonable Weather Brings Many Buyers to Markets for Merchandise.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., will say in today's issue:

"Midsummer trade conditions are sufficiently gratifying to support the feeling of optimism which spreads throughout the lines of activity. Some increase in trading defaults is noted, but this does not detract from the healthy significance of high solvent payments through the banks, ideal crop prospects, and heavier operations in factory production and distribution. Wider demands for money indicate that business generally revives under renewed vigor and confidence, and it is not surprising that preparations for the future are substantiated by many heavy demands involving more drawing upon capacity of the leading industries. Seasonable weather has brought numerous buyers into the markets for general merchandise, furniture, hardware, and machinery, and all reports testify to increasing consumption of raw supplies and adequate reduction of retail stocks here and at the interior. Additional construction is pushed forward in iron and steel making. Furnace production exhibits further recovery, with better prices ruling, and tonnages booked for future deliveries assure steady outputs extending into next year.

Improvements by Railroads.

"The improved demand is well sustained for standard and light rails, structural shapes, cars, and other equipment. Railroad managers show more disposition to make ample provision for prospective freight requirements. Much old rolling stock is discarded as useless, and this brings out new specifications for large expenditures. Steel car building gains in this district, and more hands are engaged at the mills and forges.

"Outputs now reach greater aggregates in implements, electric appliances, heavy forgings, leather, and wood working, and the current demands in these branches come from more numerous sources. Movements of raw materials reflect improvement in ore, copper, lumber, cement, and wool, but there is decrease in hides and the principal supply for packing. Prices disclose firmness, together with a rising tendency in pig iron, minor metals, and hardwoods.

"Mercantile collections are easier with the freer circulation of money. Shipments of currency to the country banks indicate the probability of prompt marketings of the crops. The discount rate for choice commercial paper is now firm at 4 to 4½ per cent.

Local Movement of Grain.

"The total movement of grain at this port, 9,673,301 bushels, compares with 5,820,005 bushels last week and 5,748,864 bushels a year ago. Compared with 1908 receipts decreased 8.5 per cent and shipments increased 1.1 per cent. Flour receipts were 106,158 barrels, against 120,335 barrels last week and 128,228 barrels a year ago; while the shipments fell to 94,542 barrels, against 125,134 barrels last week and 126,984 barrels in 1908. Receipts of live stock were 240,823 head, against 276,-603 head last week and 265,152 head last year. Wool receipts were 8,207,442 pounds, against 8,501,772 pounds last week and 6,126,373 pounds a year ago. Receipts of hides, 1,974,-510 pounds, compare with 2,812,213 pounds last week and 2,103,820 pounds last year. Lumber receipts were 49,668,000 feet, against 61,523,000 feet last week and 49,756,000 feet in 1908.

"Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are unchanged in pork but lower in corn, ¾ cent a bushel; oats, 3½ cents; flour 7½ cents a barrel; lard, 7½ cents a tierce; ribs, 7½ cents; hogs, 10 cents a hundredweight; and wheat, 12½ cents a bushel; while cattle advanced 15 cents and sheep 35 cents a hundredweight.

"Bank clearings, $259,703,400, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1908 by 18.9 per cent, and compare with $230,259,787 in 1907.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 37, against 29 last week, 35 in 1908, and 29 in 1907. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 10 against 12 last week, 8 in 1908, and 3 in 1907."

Fall Trade Shows Enlargement.

New York, July 23.—Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

"Improvement in the crops, rather better advices as to ultimate outcome of the leading cereals, easing in prices of breadstuffs, a good distribution at retail under the stimulus of clearance sales and a slight enlargement of fall trade with jobbers and wholesalers are the leading features this week.

"Connected therewith in some degree are the advices from leading industries of enlargement of output, of a continuance of the upward tendency in values of manufactured goods, a larger demand for money for crop moving purposes, and a perceptible increase in the friction visible between employers and employés in a number of lines. This latter is a natural phenomena of the industrial situation, possibly made more noticeable this year by reason of the high level of prices of commodities and the consequent cost of living.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending with July 22 were 239, against 206 last week, 263 in the like week of 1908, 155 in 1907, 171 in 1906 and 197 in 1905."

Confidence Grows Rapidly.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

"With the disturbing tariff question soon to be out of the way, and with crops that give promise of satisfactory dimensions and of an aggregate value of hundreds of millions of dollars in excess of the best previous record, business confidence is developing rapidly although it is noticeable that enterprise is not yet outrunning conservatism in buying for the distant future.

"In the dry goods markets further expansion is noted in the demand for fall merchandise and in operations for next year's spring trade. Conservatism in production is still a feature, not only in cotton but in silk and ribbon mills, and in some other directions where the character of the future demand is not clearly defined. Price adjustments to higher levels consequent upon higher cost of production are having a conservative effect, but at the same time confidence is abundantly manifested that the general volume of transactions will be maintained. The movement of goods from mills and agencies continues of large proportions."

Bank Clearings of the Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending July 22 shows an aggregate of $3,017,508,000, as against $3,002,438,000 last week and $2,549,169,000 in the corresponding week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

CIRCUS TACTICS ATTEND WAR OF NOTARIES IN NORTHWEST.

Coeur D'Alene Brass Band and Posters Lure Land Seekers Away from Transients' Tents to Uptown Officials.

Spokane, Wash., July 23.—[Special.]—Lured by a brass band and flaming posters proclaiming the beauties of the uptown section and the better qualifications of uptown notaries, land seekers at Cœur d'Alene, Idaho, are being led away from the officials who have pitched tents near the depots soliciting land business.

This is a side light on the notarial war in the Idaho city between the transient officers and residents having established offices. The Cœur d'Alene brass band is meeting every train, leading the crowd of land hungry people of the east through the principal streets to the business district.

Missoula notaries threaten to pool their business, erect one large tent at the depot, and register applicants free of charge if the transient notaries fail to come to their terms.

Sneak thieves are doing a big business. Even homes in Cœur d'Alene are reported to have been robbed last night. Bad check men victimized four merchants, alleging themselves to be representatives of Spokane wholesale houses.

Registration is waning, pending the final rush of the last week, which traffic men believe will break all records. The total registration for government lands in the three reservations up to 5 o'clock last night was 93,178, as follows: Spokane, 35,195; Cœur d'Alene, 34,500; Missoula, 16,337; and Kalispell, 7,086.

NAME SECRETARY OF BOARD TO INVESTIGATE LIBRARY.

Special Commissioners Appoint H. W. Gates and Outline Work of Ascertaining Needs of Public Institution.

Herbert W. Gates of Evanston was appointed executive secretary of the Chicago Public Library special investigation commission at a meeting of this body yesterday, and the appointment later was confirmed by the board of directors of the library.

Mr. Gates is general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Northwestern university and is a member of the editorial staff of the Religious Education association.

The commission outlined the work of investigating the needs of the library and apportioned the work among the members so each would make a report at the next meeting, which will be held Aug. 11.

"It is the intention of the commission," said Chairman Harry A. Wheeler, "to go into this work systematically and to that end we have divided the work of investigation into sections. We hope to finish the work early in September."

STOCKS LIFTED OUT OF RUT

Prospect of Tariff Agreement a Factor in the Advance.

BEARS IN ACTIVE FIGHT.

Seek to Depress Prices on Rumors as to Inter-Met.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—In the final hour of business on the stock exchange today the receipt in the financial district of dispatches from Washington foreshadowing an early agreement by members of the conference committee of the two houses on tariff legislation served to lift the market out of the rut in which it has been traveling, through the day establishing a final price level higher than that of Thursday night.

Throughout the first four hours of business transactions made up a total at least 200,000 shares under that of the previous day, and the only interesting fact about the market as a whole in this entire period was its failure to duplicate the sinking spell which has been a fixture of every earlier session of the week.

Bears Work on Traction Rumors.

An effort apparently was made by bearishly inclined traders to depress prices in connection with the weakness in Interborough-Metropolitan issues, to explain which there was set afloat the story that the company had encountered difficulty in carrying out the new financing along the lines it decided to follow. Prompt denial of this report was forthcoming and the effort to provoke a reaction with its help was abandoned.

The copper shares were bought in a larger way than at any time for weeks, and prices responded to this renewal of interest. In London copper metal quotations again advanced and in the local metal market for the fourth consecutive day higher prices were fixed.

The grain markets, which are closely watched just now as barometers of crop conditions, were extremely weak, July wheat falling some 2 cents and other options 1½ cents a bushel. Excellent thrashing returns from winter wheat and the prospect of early harvesting on spring wheat in the Dakotas along with favorable weather for corn, made up the day's news from the crop country.

Outside of the developments in Washington in tariff matters these in themselves are highly important, since they promise an early termination of the long drawn out transactions.

Bank Clearings a Barometer.

The day's happenings were of minor importance.

It is of interest, however, to note that bank exchanges throughout the country, as compiled for the week, disclosed not only a great increase over the clearings of last year, but an advance of 17.3 per cent over exchanges for the same week in 1906.

Preliminary estimates of currency movements of the week indicate a loss of from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 in cash by the banks, but there is reason to believe that purely local financial operations have been so far from unfavorable that the actual statement, after showing a fair expansion in loans, will also reveal an increase in deposits and cash sufficient to leave the surplus practically unchanged.

Money on call easy, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1¾; closing bid, 1¾; offered at 2. Time loans weaker; 60 days, 2 per cent; 90 days, 2¼ per cent; six months, 3½ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 3¾@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.86@4.8610 for 60 day bills and at 4.8740@4.8745 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.85¼@4.86. Bar silver, 50¾. Mexican dollars, 44. Government bonds weak. Railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., July 23.—[Special.]—Boston coppers acted as if ready to go higher, but the demand was not enough to put them up much. Amalgamated, North Butte, and United States Smelting were leaders for both activity and strength. There was trading also in Boston Consolidated, Butte Coalition, Lake Copper Range, and Boston and Corbin. Except for mining stocks the local market was dull and uninteresting. Call loans, 2¼@3 per cent; time loans, short dates, 3@3½ per cent; time loans, six months, 3½@4 per cent; time money, year, 4@4½ per cent.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Prices Generally Steady; Sears-Roebuck Common Up 1 Point.

STEEL ON PARIS EXCHANGE.

Paul Morton Tells of Hypothetical Question of Frenchman.

Chicago subway shares grew steady around 19 yesterday. There was nothing behind the selling movement so far as the business affairs of the company are concerned. It was merely a matter of marketing shares.

American Shipbuilding stock was firm for both issues. Series 2 of the Chicago Railways certificates have worked back to 38½ and were steady at that figure.

The buying of Sears-Roebuck common was good and advanced the price 1 point over the opening. The stock pays 4 per cent, but the earnings are understood to warrant a higher dividend rate, and it is knowledge of this that is advancing the price.

In the bond department there was little doing. Prices were steady.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have gained from the interior $6,029,000 and from the sub-treasury $212,000, an apparent increase in cash of $6,241,000.

There was exported, however, $7,250,000 gold coin, so that there has been an apparent net loss of $1,000,000.

U. S. Steel—Paris Bourse.

Paul Morton, former president of the Atchison, returned from Europe. Speaking of the application to list United States Steel, common, on the Paris bourse, Mr. Morton said:

"A man high in government affairs of France asked me a significant, hypothetical question. If France should permit the listing of certain American securities without going through the regular form, he inquired if it would be possible for his country to make a preferential tariff agreement with the United States?"

Mr. Morton said he saw E. H. Harriman and that he looked remarkably well.

Westinghouse Electric.

In explaining the decrease in earnings of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company President Westinghouse says:

"The loss during the fiscal year of $918,-683, after providing for interest on the debt and all expenses, is chiefly accounted for by a small volume of business, the utilization of high priced material, by sales at reduced prices, and by considerable extra expenses incurred in completing the departmentalizing of the manufacturing operations of the company and in the rearranging of the machinery, which work was carried on without interruption by the receivers.

"While there has been a decided improvement in the business of the company since the beginning of the year, it has not yet nearly reached normal proportions, although the outlook indicates that in the near future the full capacity of the various works will be operated in order to meet the demand."

Break in Interboro-Met.

A large interest in the Interboro-Metropolitan company was quoted as saying there were no developments in the affairs of the company to warrant the day's break in the price of the preferred and common stocks. The combined earnings are said to be running $10,000 a day ahead of the corresponding period last year.

Money and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago are steady at 4@4½ per cent on commercial paper and local collateral loans, and 4½@5 per cent on loans over the counter.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, July 23.—Money was plentiful on the market today with a moderate demand. Discounts were firm. Trading on the stock exchange was much more cheerful under the influence of a smart rise in American shares, home rails, and copper shares, the latter improving with the metal and New York buying, while home rails were strong with broadening business on dividends and the prospects of a settlement of the coal trade dispute. Foreigners and diamond shares hardened on Paris support, but giltedged securities were checked by the gold export. American securities opened steady, a small fraction higher. Good buying of Amalgamated Copper, the Harriman issues, and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé strengthened the list and at noon the tone was firm with prices ranging from ⅛ to ⅞ over yesterday's New York closing. The advance was maintained until the afternoon, when New York sold the market down fractionally, and although there was a slight recovery the final tone was easy.

GOOD CROPS, THEN BUSY ERA

Commercial National Bank Hears of Prosperity Signs.

PREPARES ANNUAL REPORT.

Business Men Look Forward to Review of Farm and Industry.

The fulfillment of the present crop promise will usher in a new period of prosperity in all lines of industry this fall if preliminary reports to the Commercial National bank of Chicago are any criterion. The Commercial National is preparing its annual report on crop and business conditions, which is looked forward to with much interest by the business world.

The report, it is expected, will be issued on or about August 12, and the expectancy is in the air that with good crops the country will practically recover the coming fall from the demoralization that followed in the wake of the panic of 1907.

Business Awaits Assurance.

An exceptional degree of interest has been aroused this year, particularly in the condition of the crops, as so much depends on the farmer having full bins of grain. Business in many lines simply is waiting the assurance that the returns from wheat, corn, and oats will be as gratifying as reports during the early part of the season appear to indicate.

Unusually high prices for all farm products apparently are assured, as the old crops practically have been exhausted, while the increasing consumptive requirements of the country call for immense yields to satisfy the domestic needs alone.

Railroad officials the country over, according to the forecast, are preparing to push construction work of all kinds the minute the main crops are safe, and in other lines of trade and industry there is the same general state of eager expectancy.

Discusses Costs and Wages.

In many other ways the report will be of interest to the business world. Manufacturing costs now and before the panic will be compared, and the question of wages in all lines with the various conditions caused by the panic will be gone over thoroughly. The much discussed phenomena of rising prices in recent years will be considered, and the effects attributed to monopolies, customs tariffs, increasing supplies of gold and other influences will be classified and analyzed carefully.

The percentage of manufacturing capacity in the various lines now in operation will be given careful attention, with the possibility of an increase or decrease taken into consideration.

NEW CROP PRESSURE HEAVY

Wheat Prices Recede Under Brisk Selling from Country.

FOREIGN DEMAND IS SLACK.

September Corn Is Strong and Higher on Many Drought Reports.

Wheat prices continued on the down grade yesterday, their descent being accelerated by reports of heavy Russian and Danubian offerings, which checked the export demand, the ideal weather conditions in this country, and the lack of outside buying. The bull leaders gave practically no support, and left to itself, the market worked lower of its own weight. Prices at the close were 1¼@2c lower. The routine news of the day was bearish almost without exception, and with large quantities of new wheat being sold to arrive at this market in addition to the large volume consigned, sentiment had reason for being bearish. Strength in corn helped create a steadier tone at times, but even this factor was ineffectual towards the last.

Farmers Are Selling Freely.

The main influence at the present time is, naturally, the movement of new wheat. It was believed that farmers would stop selling the minute prices worked below a level that would net $1.00 on the farm. This proved to be a fallacy as a general proposition, most of the receivers reporting no difference in their acceptances, although some dealers who operate through Missouri, reported farmers refusing to sell on the current basis. No let up is expected in receipts for the next three or four weeks, by which time the first run of spring wheat will be nearly ready for market. Millers are well sold ahead and are grinding freely, and so far on the dips there has been a fair export business. Should the export and milling demand continue prices could easily be maintained, but without these helps lower prices look probable.

Russia Is Again Big Factor.

Several elements enter into the situation this year that were not influential last year. Russia has an excellent crop and cables from both Liverpool and London, as well as continental points, stated that offerings from Black sea ports were liberal and cheap, and that the Danube was also promising to ship an unusually large quantity. Exporters claim that Russia will have more than enough surplus to offset any and all deficiencies in other directions. Argentine shipments continue heavy—1,832,000 bu for the week, while India shipped 2,056,000 bu and Australia 96,000 bu. World's shipments for the week are placed at 7,000,000 bu, including 933,000 bu from North America. With competing countries offering their normal quota this coming season, and high prices stimulating production in all directions and at the same time restricting consumption, it will be a different proposition bulling wheat from this level than it was when values were 20@30c lower.

Cash Demand Is Better.

Cash sales here were 125,000 bu, including a few loads for export, and 25,000 bu No. 2 red to an Ohio miller. There was a moderate milling inquiry. Receipts posted were 354 cars with 334 cars estimated for today. Primary points had 963,000 bu, against 1,094,000 bu a year ago. Stocks in the northwest are decreasing rapidly, supplies at Minneapolis being reduced 575,000 bu for the week, and at Duluth 480,000 bu. Winter wheat was being offered more freely at Minneapolis at lower prices, and offerings from Nebraska in the southwestern markets were larger. Mills were said to be sold ahead for several weeks and are busy grinding new wheat. Weather conditions, so far as wheat is concerned, were ideal, with a continuation of fair weather predicted. Liverpool closed ⅜@1d lower; Paris, unchanged to ¼c off; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, ⅝c up; Budapest, ¼c down, and Buenos Ayres, ¼@⅝c lower. Clearances for the day were 47,000 bu.

Dry Weather Affects Corn.

Corn futures again showed independent strength based on dry weather reports from southern Illinois, western Nebraska and Kansas and Oklahoma and Texas. The cash demand was a little better with sales of 150,000 bu, and country offerings continued extremely light. Bartlett-Patten were heavy buyers of September, December and May, and there was buying by Logan-Bryan, Geahart and Comstock. Offerings were light, selling being mostly profit taking and against the ups. Final prices showed gains of ⅜@¾c. Buying orders were received from the southwest accompanied by bullish reports. The weakness in wheat was a brake on the upward tendency. Receipts here were 211 cars, with 240 cars promised for today. Primary points had 426,000 bu against 287,000 bu a year ago. Sample values were ½@¾c up. Argentina shipped 3,226,000 bu and this country 32,000 bu. Liverpool closed unchanged.

Oats Trade Is Featureless.

Oats were dull and without particular feature. There was little new buying, while there was a disposition on the part of the longs to liquidate, influenced by the slump in wheat. Ten cars of new oats were received, total arrivals being 67 cars, with 64 cars expected today. Prices at the finish were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. Primary arrivals were 262,000 bu, compared to 307,000 bu a year ago. Crop reports were all flattering, but offerings of new oats to arrive were not liberal. Cash prices for the first new oats are much above the September basis and it is claimed the farmers will not sell many oats on the basis of September price. Cash prices were ½c better, with sales of 140,000 bu.

Rye Market Easier.

Rye was easier. September sold at 77½c. Cash No. 2 was quoted at 80c; No. 3, 70@79c, and No. 4, 60@69c. No. 3 new sold at 75c. Receipts were 1 car.

Barley was easier for malting and firm for mixing. The former was quoted 68@72½c and the latter 65@69c. Screenings were 50@67c. Receipts were 23 cars.

Flaxseed was 3@4c lower. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.47, No. 1 from the northwest at $1.45½, and No. 1 southwestern at $1.36. Rejected was quoted at $1.16@1.26. Receipts at Minneapolis were 3 cars; at Duluth 20 cars. Argentine shipments for the week were 424,000 bu, against 720,000 bu a week ago and 656,000 bu a year ago. Since Jan. 1 32,062,000 bu, against 36,607,000 bu for same time last year.

Timothy seed was unchanged. September was offered at $3.90. Cash lots were $2.75@3.80.

Clover seed dull. July was nominally $10.85 and March $11.85. Country lots were $8.00@10.25.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

Dry weather reports in regard to corn in this state and the southwest were instrumental in causing a renewal of the general buying. Bartlett-Patten again bought large lines of December and September and also a little May, and Comstock, Logan-Bryan, and Gerhart were all heavy buyers. It was reported that the Armour Grain company was covering short corn on the advance. It is the general opinion that there is still an immense shortage in the September future particularly. So far this season the crop outlook has been as near perfect as possible, but the last day or so adverse reports have been received and Kansas City and St. Louis reported receiving many buying orders from the country owing to the dry weather lowering the condition of the growing crop. From the southern part of this state there were a number of bad reports, and Texas, southern Kansas, and Oklahoma said the corn was suffering for lack of moisture. The advices from Texas were regarded as the most serious, but there were a few complaints from western Kansas and Nebraska. Cash corn, moreover, was a little higher and the country still sells sparingly. Some cash corn has been bought at Kansas City and Omaha recently to come here, but no great quantity.

"As soon as the first movement of new wheat is over prices should do much better," said F. G. Gulick, the well known cash man. "Our advices indicate that farmers are selling freely, but that the mills are taking a larger percentage of wheat than usual and grinding their full capacity in order to fill their sales. Most of the mills are booked a long ways ahead and their needs will be unusually large for some time. Our reports do not indicate that there is any burdensome amount of old corn back and considering the rapidly increasing requirements of the country do not think prices will be allowed to drag much. There will be no hurry to market new oats on the basis of present prices."

Cash corn was a little firmer here, about ⅛@¼c higher, and the east was a better buyer. Oats were steady to ⅛c up and firm on account of the light receipts. Shipping sales here were 100,000 bu wheat, 150,000 bu corn, and 140,000 bu oats.

A few loads of wheat were worked from here to the continent yesterday, but as a general proposition the demand was slow. Bids were out of line and foreigners showed no eagerness to buy our grain. Heavy Russian offerings at much lower values than our basis were the main cause of the indifference shown abroad. The Danube is also offering wheat freely.

The Modern Miller said: "Weather conditions have been perfect for harvesting and farmers are selling wheat freely, so far accepting the declining prices made by the markets. Damage by late rains and crop losses in the flooded bottom lands do not prove to be as large as was at one time reported."

Export clearances of breadstuffs from both coasts for the last week with comparisons follow:

The first car of new rye of the season was received yesterday. It came from Illinois, graded No. 3 and sold for 75c. The first car last year was received July 16.

A Minneapolis message to W. H. Lake said that after the close Thursday there were heavy offerings of winter wheat at that point at much lower prices.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 384 cars; corn, 240 cars; oats, 64 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 19 cars; and hogs, 9,000 head.

A Watertown, S. D., message said that cutting of new wheat would begin there next Wednesday if the weather continued favorable.

Late oats from Gifford, Ill., were shown on the floor yesterday and were of especially fine quality, exceptionally heavy and bright.

World's shipments were estimated at about 7,000,000 bu, compared to 5,296,000 bu for the same week a year ago.

Indian wheat shipments for the week were 2,056,000 bu, against 96,000 bu a year ago. Australia shipped 96,000 bu.

Charters were made for 100,000 bu wheat and 50,000 bu corn to go to Buffalo at 1⅛c.

Deliveries on July contracts were 120,000 bu corn, 500 brls pork, and 500 tcs lard.

Winnipeg receipts for the day were 57 cars, against 73 cars a year ago.

Minneapolis stocks of wheat decreased 575,000 bu for the week.

Duluth stocks decreased 480,000 bu for the week.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CATTLE.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Fresh receipts of cattle were little more than 1,000 head, and of this number packers had close to 500 Texans in direct for slaughter. Supplies on the open market consisted of plain to medium steers and sales were restricted to within a range of from $4.50@5.90 for native steers and $4.05 for one load of Texans. Buyers' requirements were not extensive and the supply on hand sufficed to meet all demands at prices which were little changed from Thursday's level. As compared to a week ago, prices were largely 25c lower, although there were instances of larger depreciations, and spots were reported where strictly choice yearling steers were fully steady.

Butcher stock trade was dull and listless. Most of the supply consisted of stock carried over from earlier in the week, and while quotable prices were not materially changed from Thursday's figures sellers were satisfied to clean up at whatever price they could secure. Bulls held at an unchanged level, with sales of distillers at up to $5.00. Calves sold at steady prices, with assorted vealers at $8.50.

HOGS.

Packers secured their quota of heavy hogs at weak to 5c lower prices, while shippers paid an advance of 5c for the better grades. Receipts of 12,000 were about as expected, but the demand was uneven and heavy hogs lacking in quality were severely discriminated against by packers and shippers. The latter could not find a sufficient supply of strictly choice hogs and were compelled to fall back on less desirable grades in order to execute their commissions. Packers were only moderate buyers, and the general trade lacked vivacity.

Shippers paid up to $8.30 for prime fat butcher hogs, topping the market at 5c higher than on Thursday. Packers made up their droves of mixed hogs at from $7.40 to $7.85, paying up to $7.75 and higher for most of the desirable grades. Pigs were scarce and in active demand at higher prices, sales being made at from $7.50 to $7.85 for the good strongweight lots. The market for all hogs closed in a weakened condition, and there were about 4,000 head carried over unsold. Quotations:

SHEEP.

Sheep and lamb values held at an unchanged level. Receipts of 9,000 head included nearly 6,000 lambs in direct to the packers, and the supply on the open market was limited, while there were no western range sheep or lambs included in the offerings. Packers had orders for all the supply and the trade had a good active tone from start to finish, a clearance of the offerings being effected long before noon. Nominal prices 25@40c higher for sheep and steady to 40c lower for lambs, western rangers being largely 25@40c lower, as compared to a week ago. Quotations:

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The provisions market was dull and listless, prices tending a little lower, due to pressure from local traders in the absence of buying support. Local receipts were 13,000, with 9,000 expected today. Cash trade was fair with a moderate export demand. Liverpool was steady to 6d up for bacon, unchanged for hams, and 6d higher for lard. Receipts of lard and meats at Chicago were 25 cars, with shipments of 92 cars.

The outward movement of supplies made a larger aggregate and prices were firmly held. Demand for canned corn, tomatoes, peas, and salmon was particularly good and holders of standard brands were standing out for full prices. Cereals met with a fairly active inquiry, but most purchases were confined to small lots. Dried fruits for future delivery met with more general inquiries.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Demand for refined sugars was quiet, but offerings were not pressing on the market, and values held at an unchanged level. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard H. & E., $6.17; standard powdered, $5.55; extra C, $4.75; canary, $4.55; chemically pure milk sugar, 19c per lb in brl lots.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Offerings for immediate delivery were firmly held, and buyers had to pay full prices for assortments. Receipts of green coffees at Rio were 11,000 bags, and at Santos, 68,000 bags.

NEW YORK, July 23.—COFFEE—Spot quiet; Rio, No. 7, 7⅝c; Santos, No. 4, 9c; mild quiet; Cordova, 9¼@12½c. Futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points and ruled generally steady on covering by near month shorts, a little support from near months bulls, and smaller offerings from trade sources, although the primary receipts continued heavy. There was nothing in the foreign markets to have much effect on sentiment, with Havre closing unchanged to ¼c higher. The local market closed steady unchanged to 15 points higher. Sales were reported of 24,250 bags, including July at 7.05@7.10c, September at 5.70@5.75c, December at 5.30@5.40c, and March at 5.35@5.45c, and May at 5.50c.

Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade said: "There was a satisfactory number of buyers in the market the last week who had taken advantage of the opening dates of the special railroad rates to Chicago. Buying for immediate wants was on conservative lines and purchases gave every indication that retailers' stocks are susceptible to any activity. Men on the road report conditions good in the western and southern states with an exceptionally favorable outlook for fall business. Yarns will hardly hold to prevailing figures for any length of time, as prices have advanced and the condition of the wool market indicates that further advances will occur shortly."

Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods market said: "Interest in dress goods was well distributed throughout the staple and for immediate use. An extremely active demand for mercerized checked and striped white goods was a leading feature of the week's business. India linens and Persian lawns also were ordered freely, the increased volume of business over that of last year showing that plain white goods continue in favor. Cachemire de soie and duchesse satin faced goods were shown in black and a large variety of colorings. These promise to be popular the coming fall season. Renewed interest in black taffetas was noted and the better grades were sought. Women's neckwear was shown in extensive and alluring varieties. Considerable interest was taken in the unusually fine display of holiday goods and some liberal orders were booked. Men's wear lines were shown in the season's complete assortment and there was a conspicuous demand for flannel shirts, some substantial orders being placed."

NEW YORK, July 23.—The dry goods market holds steady with a perceptible increase noted in the demand for goods in the jobbing houses. Cotton yarns are irregular, due to the fluctuations in cotton, but the general trend is toward a maintenance of recent prices. The local wool market has been quiet for the week with purchases of about 600 bags of July pulled wools reported at 45c and 47c per lb.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, July 23.—COTTON—Spot closed quiet, 15 points higher; middling uplands, 12.35c; middling gulf, 12.60c. Sales, 1,821 bales. The market opened steady at a net advance of 5@8 points in response to firm cables and the early weather map which showed less rain in Texas than had been anticipated and nothing in the way of a low barometer to indicate much further precipitation. Later prices broke sharply. Later the market firmed up. The best point of the day was reached in the late trading, when December sold at 11.98c and the close was within a point or two of the top. Southern spot markets officially reported early were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Futures opened and closed steady. Quotations:

Futures opened steady at an advance of 1 to 7 points under the influence of better cables than expected. During the first hour of trading the market was steady on a broad buying movement. At this point a New York firm put out a crop estimate of 11,575,000 bales and buying commenced again and prices went to the highest of the day, standing late in the session at an advance of 20 to 21 points above yesterday's final quotations. 165 PIANOS
—AT—BARGAIN PRICES

We are tearing up the old flooring in our piano department and laying new floors. This reduces our floor space capacity by several thousand square feet. There are included in this great clearance a very wide choice of many standard makes.
Do not confuse this great opportunity to secure a reliable piano of dependable make at a saving with the many "made to order" sales constantly in progress elsewhere. Such a chance as this occurs only by reason of self-explanatory conditions.
We ask the indulgence of patrons calling to examine these bargains. They will find our establishment in a state of disorder, with carpenters working on every hand. But our staff of salesmen will lend their best efforts to assist all customers who will tell them just what kind of an instrument they have in mind. When desired, one of our salesmen will conscientiously put himself in the place of the buyer and search throughout the entire stock for the very best value at the price indicated.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district], and my being the President of a large manufacturing wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges, for any time, are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. CHICAGO THE MECCA OF THE SUMMER TOURIST

FROM early in May until late in the fall, and particularly during the two midsummer months, July and August, the most familiar question one overhears in every conversation is, "Where are you going this summer?" But did you ever stop to consider, you who live in Chicago the year round, you who plan to pass through here and you who have never thought of Chicago in the light of a summer resort, that right here in this large and busy city of 2,000,000 people every attraction of interest to the resort seeker is offered in a way and on a scale which far surpass anything to be found elsewhere? Thousands come through here over the various routes to the many resorts of Michigan and Wisconsin, and, in fact, to every state in the union. To these we ask the question, "What greater attractions are offered you than right here in this beautiful city?" Can you find anywhere open air amusement parks to compare with those in Chicago? Can you find a lake the peer of our own Lake Michigan for grandeur? Has any body of water finer bathing beaches than are to be found up and down the shores of this same good lake? The finest system of parks in the world is at your service. When it is hot you can take a cool, breezy trip on the world's largest pleasure boat, Pere Marquette, the safest ship afloat, or you can take their famous moonlight trip for a very small cost. Are you a theatergoer? No matter in what line of dramatics you may be interested your desire can be satisfied here. The finest hotels and restaurants in the land offer accommodations to fit every taste and purse. If you expect aristocratic fare, the restaurants downtown and in the outlying districts are the places for you to eat.

Sightseeing autos, modern in every way and equipped with every device to insure the safety and comfort of their passengers, take travelers through the most attractive parts of the city. Among the best hotels, restaurants, bathing beaches and amusements in general are mentioned and recommended the following:
